Granger Of Year's Work Emphasizes Volunteerism

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — In 1986, Granger of the Year Harold Steeley, Ottsville, said he sold the cows on his dairy and "went to work."

From the stallbarn to the kitchen, that is.

The 55-year Pomona, state, and national Grange member "retired" from dairying, which had been his life for more than 40 years, to not only work part-time at Moyer's Chicks Inc, Quakertown, but to put on the apron strings.

According to Bill Steel, state Grange Master, Steeley "is a cook — one of those things I like to do," he told about 300 Grange members gathered Monday evening for the annual banquet.

Steeley's specialty: oyster bakes. "Oyster dinners," said Steel. "We need more of them."

All in a good cause, of course. Steeley's cooking has gone a long way to raise money for Grange charities.

Steeley, married to Ruth, was honored Monday evening with the coveted Granger of the Year honor at the 128th edition of the Pennsylvania State Grange Convention at the Clarion (formerly Embers) Hotel in Carlisle.

Since becoming a member of Junior Grange at the age of 5, Steeley has served on the Plumsteadville Junior Grange #37 until he was 16. Afterward, he served as master three times of the Plumsteadville Grange #1738.

Steeley, who also served as Bucks County Pomona Grange

State College Hosts Pa. Community Forestry Conference

MICHELLE RANCK

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Forestry and land-use issues must be at the forefront of community planning, according to several speakers last week at the two-day ninth annual forestry conference here at the Atherton Hotel.

"We are a very grass-roots organization," said Ben Tresselt Jr., president of the Pennsylvania Urban and Community Forestry Council, sponsors of the conference.

The council, a volunteer organization, assists Pennsylvania communities and volunteer groups in managing and maintaining trees and natural resources. More than 100 forestry representatives attended the event.

Featured speakers presented topics such as urban sprawl, zoning laws, open space, planning for a community forest, dis-

Glickman Announces Handout To Dairy Farmers

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Responding to persistent and historically low milk prices, U.S. Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman recently told America's dairy farmers that significant new assistance is on the way.

Glickman said the agriculture appropriations bill that President Clinton is expected to sign provides an estimated $667 million to help dairy farmers cope with the low milk prices, which

Set Clocks Back Tonight

It's autumn, so it's time to "fall" back to return to Eastern Standard Time, which begins tomorrow.

The time has returned to change from Daylight Saving time back to Eastern Standard Time, providing fewer hours of daylight. We "fall back" one hour at 2 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 29.

So turn your clocks back one hour before going to bed tonight. Remember, animal feeding and milking schedules need to be adjusted accordingly.

Northeast Broiler Fryer Parts Part I

ATLANTA, GA.
Report Supplied By USDA

Trucklot buying activity was mostly fair to moderate at best as dealers cautiously assessed needs approaching the weekend. Supplies of boneless skinless breasts were fully adequate, and bone-in breasts were available.

Dark meat items were at least adequate, although drumsticks were clearing well due to export activity. Wings remained the best item as demand remained fairly good at all locations. Movement into retail and distributive channels was fair to moderate. The market tone was about steady on boneless skinless breasts, cautiously steady to weak on bone-in breasts, and at least steady on the balance.

Eastern Region Frozen Eggs

ATLANTA, GA.
Oct. 20, 2000
Report Supplied By USDA

Mostly prices were unchanged on whole and whites, but higher on yolks when compared to a week earlier. The market tone was fully steady on yolks, steady to full steady on whole, and unsettled to about steady on whites. Demand was light to moderate with best interest centered on irregular offerings of yolks. Other supplies were adequate for current needs. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending October 14, 2000 were 3 % more than last week, but 9 % percent less than a year ago.

Report Supplied By USDA

In California and Boston, prices were unchanged. In the Midwest, prices were higher on mediums and unchanged on the balance. In all other locations, prices were higher on all sizes. The market tone was fully steady to firm. Demand was light to moderate. Supplies were barely adequate to tight on smaller sizes and adequate to in close balance on the heavier weight eggs. Breaking stock offerings were tight to adequate for the fair to good demand. Light type hens were sufficient for current processing needs.

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
October 25, 2000
Report Supplied By USDA

Grain and soybean bids continued to trade up and down with nothing happening to set any fires in either direction. Wheat steady to 2 cents lower. Corn steady to 2 cents higher. Sorghum 1 cent lower. Soybeans mixed.

A few small export wheat sales were reported overnight but failed to excite anyone. Wet weather continued in the Plains hard red winter wheat area, easing moisture shortages and pressuring bids. Planting delays due to the moisture, limited declines and some areas of Oklahoma will have to replant when able.

Corn bids were stronger but only slightly as farmer selling remained light and indications that China sold corn to South Korea. Export sales are down this week for corn and soybeans. Corn harvest is nearly done and very good yields have been reported. Some talk that South Korea is in the market for about two million bushels of US soybeans, offered light support.

Midwest rainfall has delayed soybean harvest in places.

PENN LEAF TOBACCO CO.

NOTICE TO 609 TOBACCO GROWERS!

A FEW SUGGESTIONS to help build up a better reputation again with the tobacco companies:

- Do not strip too damp.
- Make 3 good grades plus keep your green and outgrade out and put in separate bale..
- Do not try to nest/hide green tobacco in middle of bale.
- Do not sell your tobacco for less than you want to grow it, but if you get a buyer that offers you what you feel is a good price, sell it!

Try this and your buyer will probably keep coming back year after year!

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

OCT. 30-NOV. 5, 2000

ALL SAINTS, NOVEMBER 1.

DAY OF THE DEAD

November 2, or All Souls, is known as the Day of the Dead, a time to remember past loved ones. This day, along with April 6 (the festival of Ching Ming), is also known as "Plan Your Epitaph Day" (PYED), according to Chase's Calendar of Events. For those who might want help with their very last words, Lance Hardie—creator of PYED—offers a Web site (www.hardiehouse.org) on the subject, with pithy words for you or your beloved pet for a hearty fee. His service is "dedicated to the proposition that a forgettable gravestone is a fate worse than death." Do-it-yourselfers are welcomed, however, and the showcased examples are generous.

On the whole, I'd rather be in Philadelphia.

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Wash feather pillows in a drum-style washer with minimal soap. Dry on low with a couple of tennis balls to fluff.

SCONES

2 cups flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon baking powder
6 tablespoons butter
1 egg
1/2 cup milk
3/4 cup dried cranberries or raisins

Sift together dry ingredients. Cut in butter Beat together egg and milk, and stir into other ingredients, reserving a teaspoonful to brush over scones. Fold in dried fruit. Knead a few times on a lightly floured surface until smooth. Pat or roll to about a ¾-inch thickness and cut into 12 triangles. Place onto a cookie sheet and brush with milk/egg mixture. Bake at 400°F for 10 to 12 minutes.

Makes 1 dozen.

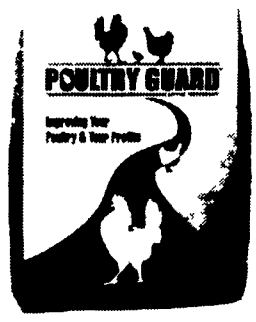
LITTER AMENDMENT

New Poultry Guard™ Litter Amendment is a unique activated clay that delivers consistent ammonia control without the handling inconvenience associated with other poultry litter treatments.

Unlike these other treatments, Poultry Guard Litter Amendment is easy and convenient to apply and needs no incorporation or activation Fewer application variables mean more consistent performance In addition, Poultry Guard can be applied up to five days before bird set, whenever it's convenient for the grower



Using Poultry Guard Litter Amendment Is As Simple As...

Apply
Simply spread over poultry litter.
- No incorporation
- No moisture activation
- No complicated instructions for heating and ventilation in conjunction with application

Bird Set
Poultry Guard can be applied when it's most convenient, up to five days before bird set.
- No application timing headaches between clean out and bird set
- No last minute application after equipment has been lowered

Control Ammonia
Poultry Guard will deliver immediate and long-term ammonia control and give birds a healthier growing environment.
- No more dangerously high levels of ammonia to stunt growth

You be the judge! We are confident this litter amendment will improve your poultry and your profits.

Lancaster Farming

Thoughts On Saving TheFarm

Just the other day I had the opportunity to be a chaperone on a field trip taken by my daughter's kindergarten class. Our trip was to an apple orchard where the children were treated to a farm tour via a hay ride and the chance to learn a few simple facts about the apple industry. They also had an opportunity to pick some apples, see those apples turned into cider, and even sample some tasty apples, cider, and cookies. What a treat.

The trip was wonderful for many reasons, not the least of which was the well-spoken and sincere presentation to the children and their adult chaperons delivered by the farm owner and his wife. As we traveled across the farm en route to the apple trees, we heard how the farm had survived and been improved over several generations in the same family. We learned of the challenges that this family has faced over the years as they worked to continue farming not enough rain, too much rain, rising input costs, government taxation, regulation and intervention, static market prices, and urban encroachment. Much of the message was targeted to the many adults, but I am sure also sowed a few seeds of thought in the children's fertile minds. I know my daughter asked some pretty interesting questions as we rode the bus back to school.

On our ride back to school, my thoughts were focused on just how shortsighted we have become with regard to food and fiber production. All but one of the 18 or so parents who chaperoned this trip were relative newcomers to Carroll County. To them, Sykesville, Eldersburg, Rt. 140, and Westminster have always looked the way they appear today. They have no point of reference to appreciate the overwhelming loss of farmland to development or understand the cost of "progress." They moved from the city to the country but brought the city with them.

Today we have fewer than 2 million farms in the U.S. This is down from an almost 30 million farms at the turn of the last century. Agriculture has undergone enormous change and has had to compete with residential and commercial development to the point that the future of our agricultural land base is threatened. Yet, we continue to convert approximately one million acres per year from agriculture into urban, suburban, and rural development. When will it stop?

In my view, one of the most overused and frustrating mantras is "farmland protection." What does this mean? In too many cases it means maintaining green space so that the city folks who moved to the country still have some "country" left to look at. Anyone who thinks that Farmland Protection is equivalent to protecting the farmer is sadly wrong. At some point in the debate and conversation, we must raise the ugly specter of profitability. There is no question that farming requires farm land but the farmer (remember him/her?) requires profitability.

During our apple tour, our host spoke of the emotional and physical stress associated with the production challenges his family has faced over the years. He shared how hard it was to know there was not enough income to pay his workers a reasonable wage in some years and what a joy it was to be able to share the wealth when times were better. There was no question that this man and his family loved farming, yet the reality of having to make a living stood starkly in front of him each day.

I recently saw a list of "Reasons to Save Farmland." I won't insult you with its content — just know it wasn't written by a farmer.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Control Winter Annual Weeds

Populations of winter annual weeds in alfalfa seem to be increasing, according to Paul Craig, Capitol Region Extension forage crops agent.

Weeds such as common chickweed, henbit, purple nettle, and marestail have been difficult to manage in the spring and may significantly affect haymaking in first cutting.

Work at Ohio State and Penn State indicate that herbicide treatments in late fall (November) seem to be more consistent than spring treatments, especially when dense stands of winter annual weeds are anticipated. Weeds are smaller in the fall and weather maybe more conducive for herbicide activity.

A late fall treatment that controls weeds present should provide near complete winter annual control through first cutting and eliminate the need for a spring burndown.

The decision to use herbicides for weed control in alfalfa stands should be based on the degree of weed infestations, the type of weeds present, and the density of the existing alfalfa stand.

Remember, alfalfa does not spread into open areas. By removing winter annual weeds from infested stands often leads to new infestations of summer annual weeds. Care must be taken by the applicator to ensure the alfalfa stand has entered fall dormancy, the herbicide program is labeled for the target weed and crop, application rates and carrier are considered, and grazing, harvesting, and feeding restrictions are followed.

The Penn State Agronomy Guide lists herbicide options, effectiveness, and restrictions. Take time this fall to evaluate your alfalfa stands and determine if an herbicide program is needed this fall.

To Control Hay Crops For Spring Rotations

If you plan to rotate an old alfalfa/grass field into no-till corn next spring, fall is an excellent time to kill the alfalfa and grass, according to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County extension agronomy agent.

Fall applications of Roundup or Ranger are generally more effective in killing cool season perennial grasses such as orchardgrass, fescue, and quackgrass than are spring applications of the products. However, early fall applications are more effective than late fall applications.

With a mild fall or winter, the application may be delayed but the best rule is to apply the herbicides as soon as possible. Fall applications of Banvel or 2,4-D or a combination of these products were found to be more effective in killing established alfalfa plants.

To Manage Frost-Damaged Corn

Appropriate management of frost damage corn can help to reduce yield losses and maintain feed value, according to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County extension agronomy agent.

Frost damage corn will have small and misshapen soft kernels. The incomplete development of the starch structure will cause a pithy kernel, resulting in a high percent of kernel breakage during handling and low-test weight (below 45 pounds per bushel). It will result in low protein levels and low digestibility.

Amino acid levels will be very variable. Negligible losses will occur if the corn has already dried to 35 percent moisture or below, even with a severe frost. If any green leaves remain after a frost, even leaves that are below the ear, the corn plant will continue to live and mature.

This will increase its dry matter content. A good rule of thumb to remember is let frosted corn stand as long as there are green leaves and the ear has not formed the black layer.

The best use of frosted corn is animal feed. However, it should be tested so that the feeding program may be supplemented with additional protein and amino acids. In addition, fungi may present a problem with frosted corn. You should continue to check for fungi during storage. Expect storage time to be reduced as much as 50 percent with frosted corn.

WHEN A 'HOUSE' IS NOT A HOUSE

Background Scripture:
2 Samuel 7; 1 Chronicles 17.
Devotional Reading:
1 Kings 8:15-21.

When is a "house" not a house?

In 2 Samuel 7, there is a play on the various meanings of the word "house."

In 7:1,2 house means the "palace" of David the king: "Now when the king dwelt in his house . . . ." Then King David says to Nathan the prophet, " 'See now, I dwell in a house of cedar, but the ark of God dwells in a tent."

No longer do the tribes of Israel wander in the wilderness. They have put down roots and a kingdom has been established by David. Surely, God now needs a permanent house, a place for the Lord to dwell.

We can easily understand David's reasoning, for we might very well make the same judgment. We are human beings and human beings have an edifice complex.

The religion of Israel, while very vital, has been in human terms somewhat chaotic and disorganized. The tent or tabernacle that was carried through the wilderness was now seen to have been intended as a temporary arrangement. Now is the time to put up an edifice that will be a worthy house for God to dwell — and here the word house means a "temple."

A House To Dwell In?

That is the meaning when God says, "Would you build me a house to dwell in? I have not dwelt in a house since the day I brought up the people of Israel from Egypt to this day . . ."(7:6).

In the early days of Israel, the tent was not regarded as the dwelling place of God, but as the place where he came to meet his people through Moses. God was not limited to a tent. But, somewhere along the line, some (all?) Israelites came to believe that, when they moved the tent, they moved God. They would not have put it so baldly, but that understanding was very much behind the way they conceived of God and it is obviously the basis for David's desire to build a suitable dwelling place for the Lord.

David's intention was obviously quite sincere and there was only thing wrong with his plan — it was not God's plan! He remins David and the people of Israel that they are his servants, not the other way around. "Thus says the Lord of hosts, I took you from the pasture . . . and I have been with you wherever you went . . . and I will make for you a great name . . . and I will appoint a place for my people . . ." (7:8-10). (For emphasis I have bold-faced the repeated "I" statements. For more of the same, see 7:10 through 15.)

He is reminding David that his ascendancy was God's plan, not David's. Although his intention was sincere, David's plan was susceptible to the danger of institutionalizing religion. If you can build a dwelling for God — rather than a place to meet him — you have some control of the relationship. As Ganse Little writes: "That which is honestly meant to be a means to the more effective worship of God so easily degenerates into an end in itself. The devotion which should be given to God alone becomes attached to the maintenance and the preservation of a hallowed structure, the traditional ritual, the system of ecclesiastical prerogatives, the power of a priestly hierarchy."

Davidic Offspring

God promises, "Moreover the Lord declares to you that the Lord will make you a house" (7:11). Here is another meaning for house — in this case it means a "dynasty." This is the kind of house that God wants to establish with David, generations of Davidic offspring, not an edifice. Historically the dynasty of David ended in 587 or 586 BC., but spiritually, we see the Davidic line culminating in the person of Jesus Christ and the teaching that the temple was superseded by the living temple of the Christian church.

It is well and good for us to erect structures "to the glory of God" and fashion church rituals and polity to continue the work of the gospel, but it is more a tent ministry than a temple system to which we are called. Cathedrals are beautiful tributes to God, but the church is always in danger of a "cathedral psychology" or an "edifice complex." None of the most important and significant events in the life and ministry of Jesus took place in a temple. Even the Last Supper was held in an "upper room, furnished." In David's response, he asks: "What other nation on earth is like thy people Israel . . . ?" (7:23).

The gods of the other nations were bound to their people by kinship and represented a deification of the nation's character. But God chose Israel — not the other way round — and the only tie that bound him was his own choice. God's plan was that Israel should reflect his character. And all who respond to that grand invitation become members of the household of God.

Avian Influenza Insurance Approved

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania poultry industry has always been diligent in biosecurity to protest their flocks from devastating poultry diseases, especially avian influenza (A.I.). Unfortunately, sometimes we must face an outbreak that can literally bankrupt a poultry operation.

Anyone in poultry remembers the 1983 A.I. epidemic, but do you also remember 1993 and the A.I. outbreak in turkeys? Or how about the 1996-97 outbreak when 1.5 million birds depopulated?

PennAg Industries in cooperation with Morrissey Insurance and Old Guard Insurance has developed a program that can help in times of crisis.

On Sept. 13, the PennAg Poultry Council received confirmation that the long-anticipated A.I. Insurance Program was approved and enrollment could begin in November. As a part of a risk management strategy, this groundbreaking loss of income protection for Pennsylvania poultry producers will provide some economic protection for any farm quarantined because of A.I.

To be eligible for the program, you must own or receive income from a poultry farm, be a PennAg Industries member, and not had an A.I. outbreak in the last 12 months. Open enrollment will last from Nov. 1 to Dec. 15, 2000. Coverage under the policy will begin Jan. 1, 2001 and continue through Dec. 31, 2001.

The largest question is, "how much will this cost?" Based on trying to cover family living expenses and interest on loans, the cost to enroll is $0.036 cents per bird at house capacity and cover all flocks for the year.

The payment for loss of income you would receive if your farm is quarantined is actual loss of income to a maximum of $0.36 cents per bird for six months. Loss of income includes reduction in net profits, continuing normal operating expenses, and the reduction of income resulting from cancellation or suspension of written grower contracts.

For almost all poultry farms, if you lose income from two flocks because of A.I. in a 10-year period, the insurance policy will pay for itself.

This insurance program is an excellent risk management tool for Pennsylvania's poultry industry. For more detailed information, contact Morrissey Insurance at (800) 422-8335.

Working for the things we want – Better yields. Technology that pays. And the chance to go on calling our own shots.

Rootworm Control

Is In The Bag!

New Prescribe™ Seed - Applied Insecticide provides protection against corn rootworm, as well as wireworms, seed corn maggots and flea beetles. It provides both contact and systemic activity against insects. NC+ applies Prescribe™ to the seed, for highly uniform and accurate protection on each seed. Ask your NC+ Dealer for more details.

Call District Sales Manager Harvey Doyle at 724-459-8580 or see one of these NC+ Dealers.

FINDING YOURSELF A LITTLE BEHIND THE TIMES...

Big Dutchman®

The Champion Chain Feeding System consistently outperforms other feeding systems with these benefit

- Provides increased egg production and better feed conversions.
- Accurately measures feed throughout the grow-out cycle
- The Champion 'presents' feed on the top of its flat chain, helping to eliminate risk of bird injury
- Regulates the amount of feed from the hopper, keeping a consistent supply of feed on the chain.
- Provides uniform nutrition for every bird

Penn State Sets Dairy Management Series

EBENSBURG (Cambria Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension is offering a three-day educational series for dairy producers to learn more about managing their dairy into the future.

This program was developed with profit-minded dairy producers who want to improve their dairy operation.

The goal of this program is to educate producers of what is required to successfully grow a dairy business. The program is being presented at two locations in the area, McAlisterville and Bedford. Both locations will provide the same information in the same format.

The program will be conducted in McAlisterville at the Old Filling Station Nov. 7, 21, and Dec. 5, and in Bedford at the Arena Nov. 8, 22, and Dec. 6 from 10 a.m.-2:30 p.m. A producer can choose to attend any number of days desired and at either location.

Each day is designed to take a focused, in depth look at one aspect of dairy farm management. Day one is designed to show what is necessary to remain competitive and increase profitability in today's dairy industry.

Day two will focus on facility design and layout of a dairy. Sections will provide an in depth discussion of what is needed to provide efficient and economical facilities for a modern dairy.

Day three focuses on labor management. As a business grows, labor is an important resource. During this day, the focus will be on effectively managing this resource on a dairy farm.

For more information on the program, contact the Mifflin County Extension Office at (717) 248-9618 or visit the program website at http://Mifflin.extension.psu.edu/AgNR/DairyManagementSeries.htm.

Program Announces Sign-Ups

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — Wool and Mohair Market Loss Assistance Program (WAMLAP) is available to wool or mohair producers who produced and sheared wool or mohair during the period of Jan. 1, 1999 through Dec. 31, 1999.

This is a one time payment program that will reimburse producers at a rate of 20 cents per pound for wool and 40 cents per pound for mohair. The sign-up period began Oct. 10 and will run until Dec. 29, 2000.

To be eligible for this program, a producer must have produced domestic wool or mohair during the 1999 marketing year and still be in the business of producing and marketing agricultural products at the time application is made. Eligible wool and mohair must have been shorn in the U.S. and the livestock must have been owned for 30 calendar days or more by the producer at the time of shearing.

Application will be made on a self certification basis and can be made in person, by mail, telephone, or fax. All payments must be made by direct deposit. A percentage of applications will be subject to spot check, at which time the producer will be required to provide copies of sales documents to substantiate the certified amount of pounds applied for.

For more information or to request an application, contact the Farm Service Agency office at (717) 921-2378.

Suzuki QuadRunner ATVs may be used by those aged 16 and older. Suzuki highly recommends that all ATV riders take a training course. We'll even pay for it. For safety and training course information, see your dealer or call the SVIA at 1-800-852-5344. ATVs can be hazardous to operate. For your safety, always wear a helmet, eye protection and protective clothing. Always avoid paved surfaces. Never ride on public roads. Never carry passengers or engage in stunt riding. Riding and alcohol or other drugs don't mix. Avoid excessive speeds. Be extra careful on difficult terrain. Along with concerned conservationists everywhere, Suzuki urges you to "TREAD LIGHTLY" on public and private land. Preserve your future riding opportunities by showing respect for the environment, local laws and the rights of others when you ride.

Report Supplied By USDA

Compared to last week: Steer and heifer calves steady. Demand moderate for calves. Feeder steers 2.00-4.00 higher. Feeder heifers not well tested, near steady. Demand very good for feeders. Good rains throughout the state over the weekend of 1 to 7 inches and continuing until Thursday. Wheat grazing fields beginning to set up nicely although a month later than normal. Last Friday's COF report indicated 9 percent less cattle over 700 lbs placed into feedlots compared to September a year ago. This has stimulated the heavier feeders in today's market. Quality of feeder and calf supply average. Weigh-ups average. Flesh condition of feeders medium, several fleshy. Calves mostly unweaned or short term weaned as is typical for the season with the usual medium to fleshy condition, few thin. Slaughter cows 1.00-1.50 higher. Slaughter bulls .50 lower. Demand fairly good and improved for cows and bulls. Total of 300 cows and bulls sold with 60 percent to packers. Receipts this week 7825; last week 8147; last year 12,590.

Supply consisted of 52 percent calves and yearlings over 600 lbs; 44 percent calves under 600 lbs; 4 percent cows and bulls. Heifers comprised 41 percent of feeder and calf supply.

Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

eases of ornamental trees, tree fertilization standards, and tree hazards. Outside demonstrations include a walking tour of State College and a "how-to" demonstration for installing trees in sidewalk pits.

One of the featured speakers, Dr. Tim Kelsy, Penn State Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology, has researched in-depth the costs of development. While looking at numbers is an important first step, another question we need to look at is, "so what?" said Kelsy.

"It's pretty indisputable that sprawl costs," he said. "If people are willing to pay, then what's the problem?"

The problem may not be as much a matter of costs as fairness, according to Kelsy. Who decides who should pay for sprawl, asked Kelsy, or what the land use will be? And who pays for development?

Several challenges stand in the way of controlling sprawl or the cost of sprawl. Private property rights are dear to the heart of many Americans, said Kelsy, as individualistic psyche permeates the culture.

In addition, the ideal of the single-family home on a large plot of land and every American's right to move to a new location are ingrained in American culture and lend to sprawl.

Kelsy recommended addressing the form of Pennsylvania governments. The governments are decentralized, making decision-making difficult. In addition, local government officials do not communicate with neighboring municipalities, essential in controlling sprawl.

Kelsy suggested the use of land planning tools such as boundaries or zoning, plus training for officials doing planning of development. Kelsy also suggested that "concurrency" be utilized in planning, which simply means that before a development goes in, the infrastructure must be already in place to help municipalities avoid playing catch-up with development.

"Sprawl fundamentally is not a cost but a fairness issue, hinging on who gets to make the decisions and who bears the cost of those decisions," said Kelsy.

Recent state action, Acts 67 and 68, may change the face of increasing development. Under these acts, zoning ordinances may not restrict agricultural operations or expansion unless those actions would have a direct affect on human health. Also, forestry is permitted in all zoning districts in every municipality. These acts, said Kelsy, help local governments answer questions as to where to allow growth, put in roads, or what areas to preserve.

"These choices have an impact on who bears the cost of sprawl," said Kelsy.

Janet Lussenhop, executive director of 10,000 Friends of Pennsylvania, addressed the issue of urban sprawl's effect on Pennsylvania.

Helped along the way by amendment to land-use laws, 10,000 Friends of Pennsylvania is an alliance of organizations committed to land-use policies that help strengthen Pennsylvania's diverse communities and decrease urban sprawl. Endorsed by environmental and government groups, 10,000 Friends' mission is to revitalize cities, maintain the quality of life, and preserve farmland through legislative and research work.

Lussenhop used some interesting statistics to help illustrate the magnitude of sprawl in Pennsylvania. Pennsylvania's population, for example, grew less than one percent from 1970-1990, yet increased by 810,000 housing units.

In Philadelphia, in the 30-year period from 1960-1990, the population growth increased by 16 percent and the amount of land developed to accommodate with growth was 95 percent.

Lehigh Valley increased by 60 percent, with an increase of 135 percent in land used.

Lancaster increased by 106 percent, with 203 percent increase in the amount of land developed.

Harrisburg grew by 40 percent and increased by 211 percent housing units.

Even Pittsburgh, which experienced minus seven percent growth, grew by 48 percent of land area developed.

Lussenhop highlighted several types of costs of sprawl paid for by Pennsylvanians. Capital costs for infrastructure and housing increase, along with increased transportation and travel costs, were examples.

Since 1950, Pennsylvania farmland has decreased by four million acres, an area the size of Connecticut and Rhode Island combined, according to Lussenhop. Also the number of farms has decreased by one-third since 1970.

The fragmentation of Pennsylvania government, home to 2,568 municipalities, creates the challenge for 10,000 Friends to meet.

Acts 67 and 68 now provide tools for municipalities to manage growth effectively. As municipalities work together, they will be able to plan for an entire county, designate where the development should go, where rural resource ares should remain, and map out public infrastructure services to fit that plan.

New laws, said Lussenhop, require state agencies to consider and may rely on multi-municipal planning in funding decisions.

Lussenhop also spoke about the ownership of forests, which cover more than 17 million acres of Pennsylvania, or 60 percent of the commonwealth. Lussenhop also pointed out that Pennsylvania needs a forest practices act so every township can set its own ordinance. Forest ownership, said Lussenhop, is incredibly fragmented and most owners own just small parcels of wooded land, so there's no constituency pushing for such an act.

Gilbert High, senior partner from the Philadelphia law firm High, Swartz, Roberts, and Seidel, which specializes in municipal law, addressed the topic of using zoning laws to conserve natural resources in Pennsylvania.

"The question really isn't 'can,' because clearly the answer is 'yes,'" said High. "The real question is: is it effective and what are its limitations?"

Natural resources, said High, include agricultural ground, minerals, forestry, and even viewscapes in a community. Zoning, then, is a body of ordinances restricting the use of the ground enacted by the municipality based on power given to the municipality by the state legislature. It is a process where the local government, to protect the public interest, can restrict he landowner in the use of the land.

The Constitution gives people the right to clean air, pure water, and aesthetics, which makes areas of natural resources public property.

"We've come a long way in terms of what zoning can do," said High. Previously, zoning has not been used to control sprawl because officials are reluctant to set forth restrictions on land.

"If local municipalities continue to ignore the ability of zoning, we're going to have problems," said High. He suggested putting zoning laws into action with sensitivity to private property rights.

Heifer Tour Set

GREENCASTLE (Franklin Co) - Specialization within the dairy sector is occurring at a rapid rate. Calf/heifer production, custom total mixed rations, custom planting/harvesting and cropping contracts are some examples. The goal of all of these is to improve production efficiency

A "drive yourself" tour to We-Kings Farm, 6028 Guitner Road, Greencastle, will be held on November 8, at 10 A.M. This tour will focus on Contract Heifer Raising Jim King and family have been contract heifer raising for several years in renovated dairy facilities They are currently raising 190 head of Holsteins.

Please help us observe bio-security precautions. All attendees will be required to wear disposable plastic boots which are compliments of GENEX.

Directions to the farm: From I-81, take the Marion Exit which is exit 4. Take route 914 west for one mile to route 11. Proceed two miles south on route 11 to Kauffman Road. Look for the "Crossroad Dairy Farm" sign. Turn right onto Kauffman Road and proceed 1.2 miles to a stop sign. Turn right onto Guitner Road and go across the bridge 0 4 miles to the farm on right. Look for the turkey houses.

Attention All Dairy Farmers
Please Support Ron Klink's (D. PA 04) Effort

We urge you to support this legislative bill by contacting your Local Congressmen and Representatives.

HR 5025 with 8 sponsors is known as "Fairness for Dairy Farmers Act of 2000" this bill requires a base price to reflect the cost of production for each federal order to be released not less than quarterly, and must use the cash cast of production as a factor in determining the price. Included in this bill as well, estimates of consumption of milk products and availability of U.S. production and imports. A national milk pricing board must be appointed including a dairy producer from each order and state, with separate milk marketing orders, and a lesser number of individuals with expertise in the dairy industry with at least one consumer advocate. This board will oversee the determination of base prices as well as institute a supply management based on this base price. The Secretary of Agriculture must produce a study showing the impact of milk product impo and track county of origin.

This bill is expected to floor the price for most orders at around $12.50

Hunters, Their Hosts Must Keep Safety In Mind

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — When Pennsylvania deer season begins Nov. 27, an estimated one million hunters will head for the woods.

Both hunters and landowners need to keep safety in mind, said an expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Many hunters use the property of farmers and other landowners," said Earle Robbins, Tioga County extension director for Penn State Cooperative Extension and certified hunting safety instructor. "Cooperation and mutual understanding between hunters and hosts is the key to keeping everyone involved safe and satisfied."

If hunters are guests on your property this year, make sure they are responsible and mature. "If you have any doubts about the behavior of hunters who ask to use your land, it's probably best to say 'no,'" Robbins warned. "Make sure your guests know how you expect the land to be treated and ask if they have any questions about the property or your expectations."

Check your property before letting anyone use it. "Walk around your land before the season starts and look for hazards," Robbins said. "Your guests aren't as familiar with your land as you are, so you may see dangers they wouldn't. Warn hunters about hazards and post warning signs if needed. If you want parts of your land left alone, say so."

Hunters never should assume they have a right to hunt on property not posted with "no trespassing" signs. "Always ask permission to hunt on private property," Robbins said. "Hunting and trapping are privileges in Pennsylvania. A license does not entitle you to trespass on private lands."

If you get permission, ask the landowner about potential hazards on the property and whether any sections are off-limits. "Always obey the owner's rules and respect his or her property," Robbins said. "Behave the way you would like a guest to behave in your home."

Hunters must strictly follow Pennsylvania Game Commission rules on safety. "Wear at least 250 square inches of fluorescent orange material on the head, chest, and back," Robbins said.

"Camouflage fluorescent orange may satisfy this regulation if the total orange content is at least 250 square inches. Remember that it's illegal to hunt within 150 yards of any occupied residence, camp, industrial or commercial building, school or playground without permission.

Always follow basic gun safety rules. "Handle a gun as if it's loaded, even if you're positive it's not," he said. "It's an extremely bad idea to cross a fence or stream with a loaded firearm. Unload it and place it through the fence before you go over or under. Never stand a loaded gun against a tree, wall or vehicle where it could be knocked over and discharged. Unload it and place it on a flat surface instead."

Finally, Robbins advises hunters and their hosts to promote safety by reporting violations and injuries to the Pennsylvania Game Commission as soon as possible.

"If you have questions about specific hunting regulations, contact the game commission."

Robbins also recommends "A Digest of Pennsylvania Hunting and Trapping Regulations," published by the game commission. "It's an excellent summary of regulations and offers many safe hunting tips," he said.

Glickman

have declined for three consecutive years, and are now at their lowest level since 1991.

About 80,000 dairy farmers across the country will receive an average of $8,300 each. The maximum payment per farmer will be capped at $25,000.

Overall, USDA expects to distribute more than twice as much dairy market loss assistance this year as it has in the last two years combined.

"America's small- and medium-sized dairy farms need this help to survive," said Glickman.

Estimates indicate that Wisconsin dairy farmers will receive about $137 million. New York farmers will receive an estimated $60 million. Minnesota is expected to receive about $56 million. USDA will distribute an estimated $51 million in California and $48.5 million in Pennsylvania.

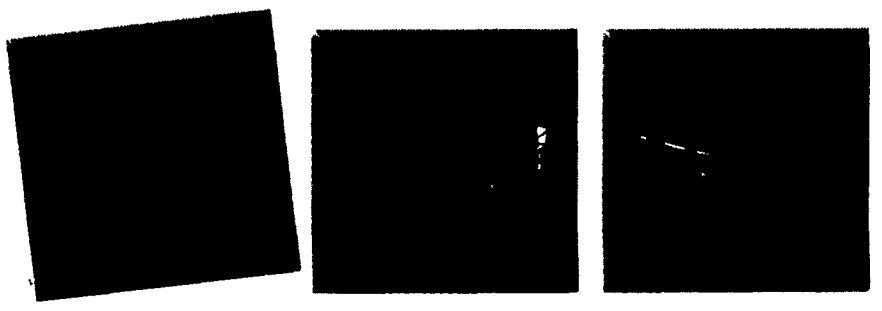
In addition, Glickman announced a major expansion of USDA's Dairy Options Pilot Program. This innovative cost-share program helps dairy farmers put a "floor" under the price they receive for milk using the futures and options markets.

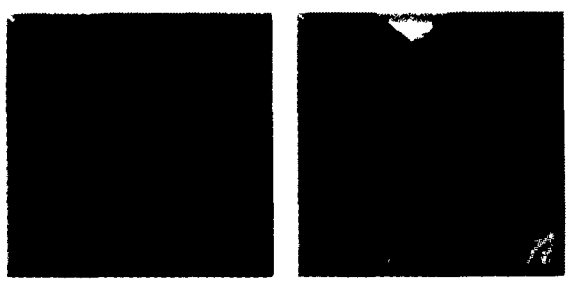
USDA subsidizes both premiums and brokerage fees for participating dairy farmers. USDA will spend about $24 million over the next two years expanding this program, but the innovative approach used will allow dairy farmers to leverage significantly more protection against price drops. The program, currently operating in 61 counties, will expand to 300 counties in 39 states.

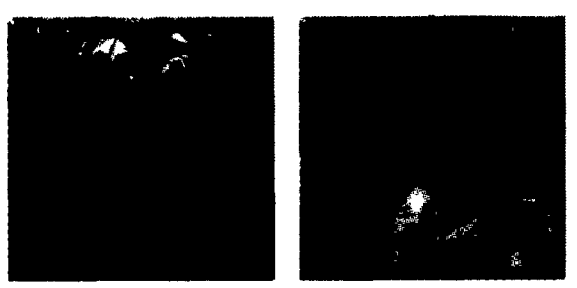
The market loss assistance payments will be made to dairy farmers who received payments in the last two years as well as new producers. In an effort to speed payments and eliminate the need for a sign-up, payments to previous participants will be automatically calculated based on 1997 or 1998 production levels, whichever are higher.

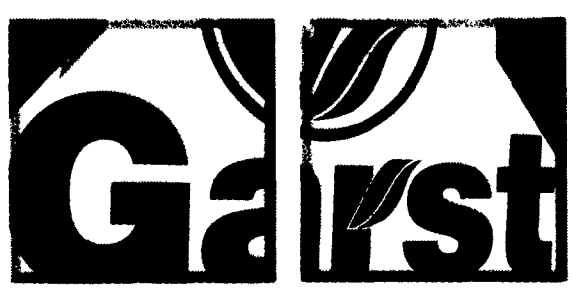
In order to better target small to medium-sized producers, payment calculations for all participants will be limited to the first 39,000 CWT of production. All dairy farmers will receive the same payment rate. Further details are expected to be announced next month. Payments are expected to go out within the next few months.

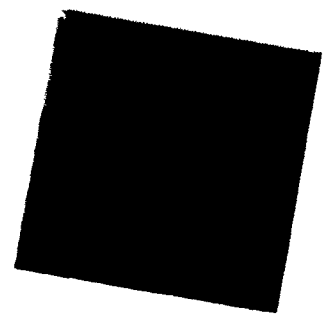
For more weed control options, it's gotta be Garst®!



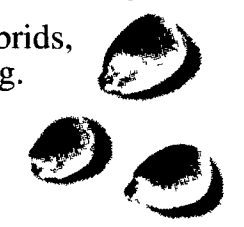








Garst® was the first to introduce IT® hybrids for use with the CLEARFIELD* Production System nearly a decade ago. Today, Garst technology still leads the way.



With Garst IT hybrids, there's no yield drag. So, you can keep your options open, use herbicides like LIGHTNING,® CONTOUR® and RESOLVE® for better weed control, and still get stronger plants and a better yield.

High yield with no yield drag; that's what Garst IT hybrids are all about. For expanded weed control options and plenty of high yield potential, it's gotta be Garst.

Dairy Stakeholders Set Conference

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders has scheduled its 2000 conference here at the Holiday Inn Dec. 13-14.

N. Alan Bair, director of dairy industry relations for Penn State, noted the theme for the conference is "moving Pennsylvania's dairy industry into the future."

Bair indicated about 180 producers and agri-industry representatives attended last year's program.

Producers and other representatives enjoy the format of the program. "They like the broadness across the whole scope of the industry," Bair said.

The Stakeholders conference emphasizes not just the producers, but dairying "from cows to consumer," he said. The conference doesn't try to segregate the producers from the processors, but works to look at the concerns that unite them.

The conference, with an array of topics, "always brings all of the leaders of the whole industry together to look to the future to try to solve some common problems across the whole industry," Bair noted.

Program highlights include marketing opportunities, improving competitiveness, applying Wall Street business ideas to the dairy, utilizing specialization, developing products that sell, meeting consumer demands, and other topics.

Robb Meinen Joins Swine Extension Team

Kenneth Kephart
Penn State
Swine Specialist

Robert Meinen joined the staff of the Penn State Department of Dairy and Animal Science recently as a senior extension associate. He will be working with Ken Kephart and Bob Mikesell in the overall swine extension effort.

In addition, Meinen will be helping to deliver environmental education programs for all livestock producers throughout the state.

Until June 30, Robb managed Wide Awake Farms, a 1,400-sow operation in Bedford County.

Polaris Dealership Changes Ownership

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — On Oct. 9, Hernley's Farm Equipment, Inc. became the newest Polaris ATV, snowmobile and ranger dealer in Lancaster County.

Hernley's purchased the business from J & H Cycle Accessories, Inc. of Mount Joy.

Jason and Harry McClenaghan, former owners, began their business in 1983, offering motorcycle repairs and accessories. In 1987, they became a full service Polaris ATV and snowmobile dealer serving the central Pennsylvania area. With the retirement of Harry McClenaghan, it became necessary to make this business change to allow the business to continue to grow. Jason and Lynn McClenaghan will be joining the Hernley team to assist with Polaris parts, sales and service.

Duane and Sylvia Hernley began their farm equipment business in 1986. They are a full service Agco dealer in Elizabethtown. They have been avid ATV and snowmobile owners for years. Because these two types of products are closely related, this was a natural mix.

Hernley's offers a full line of Polaris ATV, snowmobile, and ranger parts, garments, and accessories. They are a Polaris Master Service Dealer, offering full-service and warranty repairs by appointment.

Pa. Junior Jersey Members To Travel To Louisville

LIBERTY (Tioga Co.) — Members of the Pennsylvania Junior Jersey Association are ready to pack their bags and head to Louisville, Ky. to take part in this year's North American International Livestock Exposition.

On Nov. 5, selected junior members will represent Pennsylvania in the All-American Junior Jersey Show, competing with other Jersey juniors from across the country. Members were chosen to be part of the state herd based upon their performance at the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show in Harrisburg in September.

Showing her junior calf will be Jennifer Bechtal, Martinsburg. Aaron Horst, Chambersburg, will compete with his intermediate calf. In the junior yearling class, Andrea Hixson, Scottdale, and Stephanie Carson, Coal Center, will represent the junior delegation.

Kimberly Kosa, Ulysses, will show her intermediate yearling. Nathaniel Rassau, Sarver, will exhibit his senior yearling in milk in the competition.

Two junior 2-year-olds will be part of the state herd. One will be shown by Samantha Pagano, Charleroi, and the other by Kimberly Sue Barker, Ulysses. Showing senior 2-year-olds are Erica Lloyd, Pottstown, and Michael Saylor, Mt. Wolf.

Stephanie Carson, Coal Center, will show a junior 3-year-old along with Daniel Newcomb, Ulysses. Jacob Chyle, Pleasant Mount, will exhibit his senior 3-year-old at the show. Brian Kromer, Easton, will show his animal in the aged cow class.

While in Kentucky, youth will also have the opportunity to attend the National Youth Awards Banquet and watch the National Jersey Jug Futurity. At the exposition center, participants can also see top-quality consignments sell at the National Jersey Sale.

"This is an excellent experience for the youth and is something they remember for years to come. It is a thrill to see so many great cows at the top show in the country for Jerseys," said PJCA secretary David Norman.

The trip is made possible through the sponsorship of the Pa. Jersey Cattle Association and by donations from businesses and individuals. Any contributions can be forwarded to the association c/o David Norman, Secretary, RR 1 Box 30, Liberty, PA 16930.

Master Gardeners, Leaders Honored At Lebanon County Meeting

MICHELLE RANCK
Lancaster Farming Staff

SCHAEFFERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — Thirty-two thousand and still going ... Recently Debbie Hartman, who has volunteered for 3,200 hours for the Master Gardener program, was recognized at the Penn State Cooperative Extension meeting and volunteer recognition night.

Held at Schaefferstown Fire Hall, the 83rd annual meeting drew a crowd for a meal, business session, extension board member election, and volunteer leader and extension staff recognition.

Hartman received a certificate for her involvement with the Master Gardener program. Hartman has been a Master Gardener since 1989. While she served as a volunteer Master Gardner coordinator for Lebanon County for a number of years, she presented many programs in Lebanon and other counties on topics which included edible flowers, advanced vegetable gardening, and leaf printing.

In addition Hartman taught the communications segment of the Master Gardener training class in the Capital and Southeast regions. She is also a spotlighted volunteer this year in Penn State Cooperative Extension's annual report.

Ken Good, a Master Gardener volunteer since the first class in 1988, was also honored for his 500 hours of service to the program. Ginger Pryor, a horticulture specialist who provides staff support for the Master Gardener program, gave out the awards.

Two volunteer leaders were honored for five years of service to 4-H. Kathleen Ziegler, Schaefferstown, a South Mountain 4-H leader, has assisted with the club's sewing projects. Debra Tice, Mount Zion, is an organization leader for the sheep club.

All leaders received a tape measure "to measure their success in the program," said Martha Gregory, youth development agent. First-year leaders received a certificate and portfolio while fifth-year leaders received a silver clover pin and certificate. According to Gregory, leaders traditionally Debbie Hartman, left, and Ken Good were honored for their service to the Master Gardener program. Hartman has volunteered approximately 3,200 hours giving presentations and teaching the communications portion of the Master Gardener program. Ken Good has been with the Master Gardner program since the very first class and has volunteered 500 hours. Horticulture specialist Ginger Pryor, center, is staff support for the program.

Extension agents were also recognized during the meeting. Galen Kopp was recognized for five years of service and Martha Gregory for 15 years working for the cooperative extension.

Also family living agent Sandra Parker and herd health agent Dr. Arlen Mills recently were recognized as new staff members.

This year the cooperative extension is focusing on "honoring traditions and pioneering change." In keeping with that motto, McGee spoke about how the organization accomplishes both.

"Tradition is what we all find comfortable," said McGee. Change, on the other hand, is a risk but nonetheless important to progress and an integral component of the cooperative extension's efforts.

In a government and community cooperation, both sides are stronger for the interaction, said county extension director Winifred McGee.

Delbert Voight, capital region extension agronomy team representative, recognized the agronomy advisory board for their contribution to the program and consequently the whole county.

Dauphin County family living agent Jane Mecum was the special speaker for the evening, teaching the audience about the differences in right- and left-brained thinkers in her speech, "Why Don't You Think Like Me?"

The audience was entertained by her contrasts of detail-oriented, organized, factual-thinking left-brained people and the creative, agreeable, flexible right-brained thinkers.

Dale Bushong, Annville; Wilann Miller, Pine Grove; Sandra Smith, Lebanon, Eileen Yorty, Annville; and Rick Krall have served with the 4-H program for 10 years. Judy Atkins, Lebanon, and Bob Schaeffer, Annville, have served for 15 years. Lorraine Royer and Betsy Wolfe, both of Lebanon, have served for 20 years, and Kenneth Mase, Lebanon, has served for 30 years.

Donald Heverling, Rick Krall, G. Victor Rohrer, Robert B. Smith, and Laura-Jean Watson were elected to the extension board at the meeting.

Two volunteer leaders were honored for five years of service to 4-H. Kathleen Ziegler, Schaefferstown, a South Mountain 4-H leader, has assisted with the club's sewing projects. Debra Tice, Mount Zion, is an organization leader for the sheep club.

Centre County Junior Dairy Shows

Fifty-four Holsteins owned by 45 juniors competed in the Junior Show, judged by Patty McMurray of Eighty-Four, PA. April Hartle of Bellefonte exhibited a 5-year-old to reserve grand champion Holstein placing.

Red and White Holstein junior and senior champions and grand and reserve champions were owned and shown by Amanda Gates of Maple-Hill Farm, Gatesburg.

Showmanship judge was David Lapp, Washington County.

In the Open Holstein Show, judged by Dwight Stoltzfus, Berling, PA, 117 animals were exhibited. Grand champion went to Ben Cloninger and the junior show grand champion, Terra-Rose SB Lori.

Reserve grand champion honors went to Penn Dell Farm, the Jay Houser family, Spring Mills, PA for their senior 3-year-old. Penn Dell Farm was also awarded the premier exhibitor and breeder honors in the open show.

In the Colored Breeds Junior Dairy Show, Jason Klinger of Port Matilda exhibited a junior 2-year-old Ayrshire who was named senior and grand champion.

In the Brown Swiss Show, three animals were exhibited spring calves by Holly Heinrichs (reserve junior champion and reserve champion) and Elizabeth Cloninger and a spring yearling, awarded junior and grand champion, by Elizabeth Cloninger.

Five Guernseys were exhibited in the junior show; junior champion awarded to Pam Heinrichs, reserve junior champion honors to S. Lynne Carbonara, senior champion to S. Lynne Carbonara, reserve senior champion to S. Lynne Carbonara, grand champion to Pam Heinrichs and reserve and grand champion to S. Lynne Carbonara.

Mary Anne Clouser of Madisonburg exhibited eleven Milking Shorthorn cattle winning all champion and reserve champion honors in the open dairy show; Amanda Gates was recognized with junior and senior champions as well as grand and reserve honors for her spring heifer calf and junior 2-year-old in the open Red and White classes.

Twenty-seven Jerseys were exhibited in the junior dairy show:

Conservation District Director Nominations Solicited

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Concerned about the water quality and other natural resources in Lebanon County? You can make a difference by serving as a director or associate director for the Lebanon County Conservation District.

"District directors have a direct say in how people in the county deal with many important natural resource issues such as water quality, forestry, agricultural best management practices, and soil erosion," said District Chairman Calvin Miller. "Serving on the conservation district board is an excellent way to make an impact on the future of our natural resources."

Conservation districts in Pennsylvania are subdivisions of state government that manage and direct conservation programs within counties. The Lebanon County Conservation District is governed by a nine-member board, which oversees a staff of eight. District staff work directly with landowners and other citizens to put conservation practices on the land and educate the community on environmental issues and trends.

Individuals interested in serving as a director for the Lebanon County Conservation District need to be nominated by an approved nominating organization within the county and appointed by the county commissioners. For more information on nominating conservation district directors, call the county commissioner's office at (717) 274-2801, ext. 2202.

For more information on county conservation district programs, call the Lebanon County Conservation District at (717) 272-3908, ext. 4 or the State Conservation Commission office in Harrisburg at (717) 787-8821.

Association Continues To Build Positive Image For Lancaster County Poultry

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

WILLOW STREET (Lancaster Co.) — Good team work and industry support results in an effective Lancaster County Poultry Association, Nelson Groff said when members gathered for the annual banquet at Willow Valley Convention Center Tuesday evening.

As the newly-appointed president, Groff and team members Jay Shannon, vice president; Andy Bradford, secretary; and Becky Petit, treasurer, believe the association is poised to continue building a positive image for the poultry industry.

Throughout the year, the association organizes and sponsors educational events for the community and for its members. Some of its most notable events include a teachers institute on poultry and egg products; Ag in the Classroom, 4-H embryology school projects, Poultry Progress Day, and many promotional events such as media opportunities, a parade float, and a food extravaganza.

The banquet was the first authorized appearance for recently-appointed Lancaster County and Pennsylvania Poultry Ambassador Rijelle Kraft.

"I've grown up with poultry," Kraft said. For several years she has assisted mother with embryology projects in York County schools.

Kraft's mother, Mary Jo, is the York 4-H agent, and her dad, George Jr., raises poultry on the family's York County farm. Kraft also raises fancy fowl and capons for 4-H projects.

The association presented a $1,000 scholarship to Kraft, who plans to attend Virginia Tech to study animal science and swine production with a concentration in international agriculture.

Clair and Shirley High were applauded for their work in

Clair and Shirley High presented a $2,748 check to the Association. The Highs oversee the association's fair stand, which grossed $6,400 this year.

#22 Master, noted the Grange sponsors lots of community activities.

Next Monday, their local organization will sponsor a Halloween bonfire where 300-400 children are invited, in cooperation with the Plumsteadville Fire Company.

"We started the bonfire a number of years ago, just so we can have something different from Mischief Night," said Steeley, with a chuckle. A part of this includes a hayride and other things, something to replace simple costuming and trick-or-treating common for the week.

The Plumsteadville Grange also sponsors a jam-making and selling festival, in which the local organization raises close to $2,000 for various projects. They also sponsor a mission project to a third world country, Steeley noted.

In the past year, the Grange has allowed a blind and deaf boy, now 8 years old, to attend training camp. The money — about $1,000 — was raised at a pancake breakfast in May in Quakertown with the Plumsteadville Grange.

The Steeleys work to prepared an oyster and pork supper at the Grange Hall, which served more than 900 people from surrounding communities. The tradition, Steeley noted, goes back to the "1930s at least," he said.

Personally, he was quick to note that "I cook a good beef meal."

At the Middletown Grange Fair, as part of the Pomona project, the Granger of the Year mans the booth for one week making pizza at Steelio's.

There are many fund-raisers that allow the 130 members of Plumsteadville Grange #1738 to be a part of. Memberships cover about four townships.

Steeley is very involved with Sunday School and church choi at Solomon's United Church o

Christ, Bedminster. He is a member of the Bucks County Farm Bureau, Knights of the Golden Eagle, and Bucks County Beekeepers Association (acknowledged for honey and beeswax production).

Other accomplishments:

- Steely provided leadership to have the rental house owned by Plumsteadville Grange #1738 painted and repaired.
- Organized an initiative to acquire a Grange property manager.
- Fostered consolidation of Tyro Hall Grange #1513 with Plumsteadville Grange #1738.
- Provided leadership for a very successful Pomona Grange pizza booth at Middletown Grange Fair, an annual event that yielded a net profit of $4,015 in August 2000 for Bucks County Pomona Grange #22. The money is donated to charities throughout Bucks County.

Harold and Ruth have two children, son Donald, at the banquet, and Jane (Birk). Harold and Ruth also have three grandkids — Denise, 19 and twins Donald and David, 8.

Service Awards

Janet Pratt, state community service chairperson from Millbrook, Mercer County, noted that state Grange members put in 169,117 hours "doing good deeds for the community," she said.

Those deeds include one example of a book put out by a Grange, "Locks of Love," detailing how a 7- year-old girl donated her 12-inch ponytail to make wigs for children with cancer.

Some donations could be as simple as a Grange in Erie County that made 500 whoopee pies at a fund-raiser to community garden work or volunteering for fairs at nursing home days, diaper stations, "the list goes on and on," said Pratt.

Other awards were presented at the banquet.

Community Service Teacher of the Year Award went to Cinda Hammond, Clintonville, employed by the Franklin Area School District.

Hammond, who has worked more than 16 years as a teacher, was honored by the submitting grange, Scrubgrass Grange #1705, Emlenton.

A big project at Victory Elementary School, where Hammond teaches second grade, was "Trojan Day," a fun/educational day for children. Hammond helped construct an "ocean theme." The entranceway to the school was transformed into an underwater atmosphere. Hammond also has been instrumental in "Dr. Suess Day," in promoting reading, and for related work.

Hammond is a 1979 graduate of Slippery Rock University with a bachelor's degree in elementary education. She is married to Michael and they have three teen-agers: Brandon, 17; Kali, 15; and Kathi, 13.

Police Officer of the Year was awarded to Chief Salvatore Casale, Williamsport. The community service dedication was in honor of Casale, who has a rich volunteer history in Old Lycoming Township.

Casale organized and volunteered his time to establish the first youth club supervised by police staff. Twenty-five years ago, he also established the first police department probation program, whereby troubled youth were not arrested, but placed on community service.

He organized various youth Halloween and Christmas parties (he even had Santa flown in by state police helicopter or by fire truck), and other youth activities, with a great deal of his own donated time.

In his words: "I believe it was my job to do everything that I did."

Casale was nominated by the Bottle Run Grange.

The community recognition award for a firefighter went to Jeffrey Scott Allison, Georgetown, who lived on his family farm in Beaver County his entire life.

The assistant fire chief and trustee for the department, Allison was honored for a variety of community service work. He was nominated by Hookstown Grange #1980.

Work Of Grange Members

According to Grange Master Bill Steel, the Grange has successfully lobbied for such issues as rural mail delivery, establishment of rural electric cooperatives, and fairer prices for farmers.

Recently the Grange has aided in battling cumbersome federal regulations and created a pilot program for stray voltage on farms.

All these policies, he noted, started at a local Grange and were then passed to the state level.

Samuel E. Hayes Jr., state agricultural secretary, commended the state Grange for initiatives to allow funding to combat the devastating plum pox virus, a pilot to test stray voltage, and other activities made possible by members of the Grange.

More information about the Grange's annual meeting is included elsewhere this issue.

Police chief Salvatore Casale, right, was honored with the police service award while Mike Pratt looks on.

MICHELLE RANCK
Lancaster Farming Staff

If you can speak a little German, perhaps you'll be able to correctly pronounce "Braunvieh," or "brown cow," when you refer to the smoky-shaded cattle associated with the Swiss Alps.

According to information from the Braunvieh.com website, Braunvieh is not a crossbreed or even a composite breed. This pure breed makes up roughly 40% of the Switzerland cattle herd and has spread throughout the world.

These smoky-brown cattle have a light-colored muzzle and poll while their shoulders and neck tend to be darker. They may also have a dorsal stripe. The calves are born very light and darken with age.

A group of 130 Braunvieh were imported to America in the late 1800s and are actually the basis for the development of the American Brown Swiss dairy breed. In 1984, for the first time since the 1800s, a Nebraskan who had been in Switzerland looking for Simmental cattle was impressed by the Braunvieh and imported more original Swiss Braunvieh.

Lately, in the 1990s, several frozen embryos of original Braunviehs have been imported from Switzerland.

According to Braunvieh.com information, the breed's coat is sleek and fine in warm weather and will become heavy in colder weather which enables the Braunviehs to adjust to different environments. They prove their adaptability by residing in countries such as Mexico to India to heights of Venezuela to the reaches of the Artic Circle in Canada.

In the late 1960s, in order to increase milk production, Switzerland began importing American Brown Swiss semen to use on the native Braunviehs. As a result the majority of the Braunvieh cattle in Switzerland as well as other European countries today have been crossed with Brown Swiss.

The Braunvieh Association of America was organized and incorporated in 1984. For more information, the Braunvieh home page is http://www.braunvieh.com/index.html or the Braunvieh Association of America's home page at http://www.braunvieh.org.

In And Out Of The Show Ring, Braunviehs Perform For Ennis Family

MICHELLE RANCK
Lancaster Farming Staff

FORT COLLINS, NY — Lamont and Leigh Ann Ennis, of L & L Cattle Company in North Collins, New York, are enthusiastic about the breed. The couple sold their dairy and began to manage a 140-cow Angus operation plus begin to build their own Braunvieh herd.

Currently they own about 20 fullblood Braunvieh. A fullblood is an animal that is completely Braunvieh. An animal can "breed up," however, to a purebred status. Ten of the Ennis' fullblood animals are embryo transfer calves. In addition the couple owns three Angus cows bred to Braunvieh bulls and one crossbred cow used as a recipient.

A newspaper in Alabama sparked the couple's interest in the breed.

"We were hauling registered cattle in Alabama and I happened to pick up a newspaper that had a spread about Braunvieh," said Leigh Ann. "What interested us was that they're well noted for their carcass characteristics and large ribeye and that they marble easily without a lot of back fat. They can grade Choice but only have 2/10 inch of back fat."

Out west, in the fed steer contests, the Braunvieh have consistently done well, noted Leigh Ann. On that same trip in December 1997 the couple stopped at a farm to check out the breed and were impressed with the thickness, muscle shape, and look of the breed.

They bought a percentage cow (an animal less than 50% Braunvieh) with a heifer calf and in January 1998 bought their first fullblood animal from Denver, Colorado. The breed fits nicely into the beef industry, according to Leigh Ann.

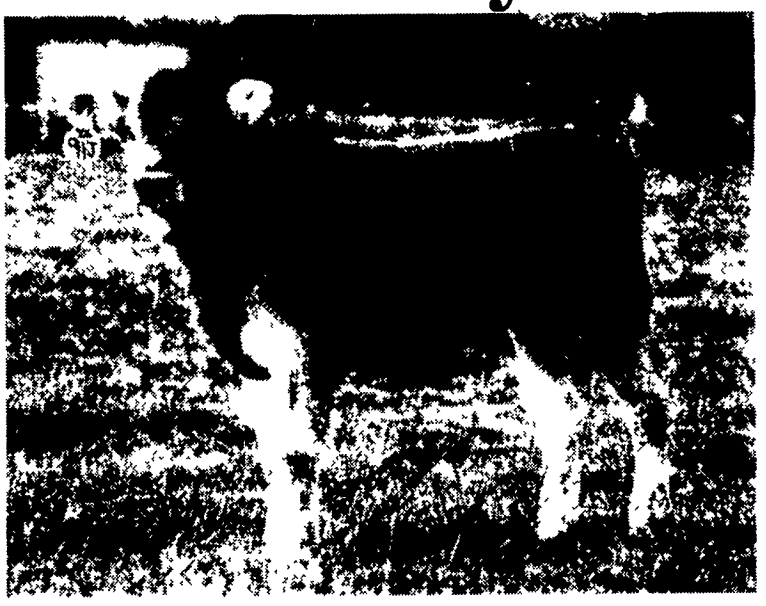
"They have a lot of muscle expression, meat, and thickness wherever they need it," said Leigh Ann. "Also, if you breed a brown Braunvieh to a black bull, you'll get a black calf. That's important for the current marketing situation."

Although a shaded gray is the traditional color of Braunvieh, the breed is changing color.

"The Braunvieh are turning black according to the trend in the cattle industry," said Leigh Ann. While brown is considered a fullblood animal, 50 percent or more Braunvieh is considered registerable. A heifer must be 7/8 Braunvieh to be considered purebred, and a bull must be 15/16 Braunvieh to be considered purebred.

"Because of that (the percentages) you can breed up to purebred status," explained Leigh Ann. "It's more marketable. Black is bringing a premium because of the belief that black is quality. New York has a lot of small producers that market through sale barns and they've learned that black calves sell better."

The Ennis family bought Flori at a production sale in Oklahoma. She is bred to calve this fall.



Braunvieh calves are born lighter but will darken with age. Misty, from L & L Cattle Co., was a 1999 heifer.

"We got into it (Braunvieh breeding) because there's a need for the kind of animal in the beef industry that can grade Choice and not be fat, a breed that's cost-efficient, that you don't have to feed forever. If we didn't think Braunvieh could fill that need, we wouldn't be in the business."

Not everybody needs a fullblood product, said Leigh Ann. "I think some of the best beef comes from crossbreds which take advantage of that hybrid vigor."

> "We got into it (Braunvieh breeding) because there's a need for the kind of animal in the beef industry that can grade Choice and not be fat, a breed that's cost-efficient, that you don't have to feed forever. If we didn't think Braunvieh could fill that need, we wouldn't be in the business."
> Leigh Ann Ennis

However the Braunvieh, believes Leigh Ann, could make important contributions to the genetic pool of tomorrow's cattle.

"I see them as infiltrating crossbreed programs or the composite breeds out West, or having a place in a good crossbreeding program," said Leigh Ann. "One thing that we noticed is that you sacrifice material characteristics with breeding for carcass quality, such as the heifers are hard to get bred, or there's not much milk left. In the Braunvieh, which started as a multi-purpose breed, these characteristics are not sacrificed."

The couple uses embryo sales as a different, practical way to market Braunvieh genetics.

"It's easier to send breeders in Texas an embryo than a whole heifer," notes Leigh Ann. "It's much easier to look at a pedigree than for someone to come the whole way up to look at an animal."

"There's a pretty big market for Braunvieh embryos. There's not as many opportunities to buy the animals, and embryos can be shipped in a tank UPS." The couple plans to stay small and produce quality animals to consign to major Braunvieh sales each year.

They flush three main donor cows then freeze and sell the embryos before breeding the donor cows back for live calves. Currently they are considering shifting their market toward selling frozen embryos for locations reasons, as most fullblood Braunvieh are in the west or southwest.

"We were choosy when we bought females, to make sure they were donor quality to get the core group of donor females to work from," said Leigh Ann, who says that they cull hard, also.

"We send our embryos to Colorado and get back weaned calves," said Leigh Ann. "Purebred dairies are doing that because they don't like feeding recipients all the time. If they don't cycle they stand open until the next time and you're feeding them and not getting anything from her."

Herd Interaction Positive On Calf Health, Performance

WOOSTER, Ohio — A little motherly love goes a long way when it comes to keeping beef calves healthy.

Two Ohio State University researchers have found that the performance and health of newly arrived feedlot calves improved when they were allowed to interact with adult cows, rather than being isolated.

Although the four-year study showed some inconsistencies, the results could be a marketing strategy for producers willing to try a new technique.

"It's a challenge for the industry to keep calves healthy in feedlots. They don't grow as well if they don't eat or they get sick," said Steve Loerch, Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center researcher. Loerch and OARDC researcher Francis Fluharty, conducted the study. "It costs the beef industry millions of dollars a year."

About $500 million annually to be exact and poor calf performance, morbidity and mortality is to blame. Previous studies focusing on these aspects have pointed to psychological stresses the calf suffers from when faced with environmental changes, new feed and the exposure to potential pathogens in the feedlot.

"Calves go through a two to three day period of stress after being weaned, transported and placed in a feedlot environment. It is during this brief period that they don't eat and are susceptible to respiratory diseases," said Loerch.

He and Fluharty found that by placing cows and calves together in feedlots improved the calves' appetites and cut down on the risk of illness by nearly half. A seven-day observation of calf behavior showed increased feeding on the first day, which leveled off by the end of the week.

"The effect cows have on calf behavior is very transitory and short term," said Loerch, adding that the cows act as mother figures to the calves, reducing calf stress by just being present. "The calves follow the behavior of the maternal figure, which includes feeding. It's stresses from the initial exposure to new environment that the calves need to overcome in order to prevent illnesses and the cows help with that transition."

The adult cows serve another role, as well — by providing a better market sale for producers. The researchers suggest using "open" cows or heifers that never became pregnant during the breeding season and have been tagged for the market.

"Producers pregnancy check their cows at the same time calves are being weaned," said Loerch. "By placing the adult cows in the feedlots and letting them feed on the grain, they'll gain weight, hence be better quality because they would have more meat on them."

Loerch said that such a technique is cost effective and some farmers have adopted the novel idea. "Calf performance may not be consistent every year, but the process may have potential benefits," said Loerch.

Glickman Declares Bovine Tuberculosis Emergency

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman recently signed a declaration of emergency, authorizing the transfer of $44 million this year to expand the bovine tuberculosis eradication program in the U.S. This is an initial payment on what is expected to be a multiyear effort.

"These emergency funds will be used to help curb this disease in the United States," Glickman said. "The spread of the disease in this country could compromise international and domestic trade of U.S. animals and animal products and threaten producers with losses and consumers with price increases."

Bovine tuberculosis is a chronic and debilitating disease that primarily affects cattle, bison, and cervine species, which include elk and deer. Recent scientific tests have identified a significant bovine tuberculosis threat from infected wildlife, especially free-ranging deer, which in turn, transmit the disease to nearby cattle.

In Michigan, eight herds of cattle were infected with tuberculosis and the U.S. cattle population is being threatened by recurring infections of dairy herds in Texas along the U.S. Mexican border.

USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service will expand the bovine tuberculosis eradication program by surveying for bovine tuberculosis in U.S. wildlife and zoos, improving federal diagnostics capabilities and national surveillance for the disease, making indemnity payments to farmers for the depopulation of infected and high-risk herds, and establishing identification requirements for animals imported into the U.S. for feeding and slaughter.

This emergency declaration is effective immediately and is available on the web at http://www.aphis.usda.gov/ppd/rad/webrepor.html.

Association Continues

making the association's food booth a success. The couple put in 12-hour days during the Ephrata Fair week. The booth grossed $6,400 this year. After expenses, High presented a $2,749 check to the association.

Petit reported a balance of $7,435 in the association's treasury.

Special guests included Penn Manor FFA members Brian Rankin, Mike Ross, and Andrew Herr. The three 10th graders recently placed first in poultry evaluation and technology for eastern regional competition.

Team members qualified at the state level before competing at the Big E, Sept. 15-17. To attain the title, members graded chicken patties, carcass birds, cartons of eggs, and live poultry.

According to team member Herr, members met weekly after school to perfect their judging skills. They competed against teams from 13 states at the Big E. In addition to becoming the champion team, members also received individual high scores. Ross was the highest scorer over all; Rankin, third; and Herr, fifth.

Voted as board members were Seth Bowman, Tom Karr, and Guy Martin. Continuing terms are board members Ronnie Clark, Daniel Heller, Rich Roenigk, and Dr. John Schwartz, adviser.

Membership dues are $25 annually, which includes a free subscription to Poultry Times and a quarterly newsletter to keep members informed about activities, issues, and events.

In addition to providing educational opportunities, the association organizes social events for poultry gatherings.

The duo of Raught and Shane provided music and comedy during the evening festivities.

Not Much Is Understood About Phosphorous And Its Movement In Soil

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

OCEAN CITY, Md. — Scientists admit a lot more work needs to be done.

But if legislation is enacted in Delmarva and surrounding areas to put phosphorous, instead of nitrogen, in the forefront of nutrient management planning, ways to measure how successful management practices are will be critical.

That was the take-home message delivered last week to about 270 producers, educators, and agri-industry representatives at the National Poultry Waste Management Symposium at the Sheraton Fontainebleau Hotel in Ocean City, Md.

Ken Staver, faculty research associate with the University of Maryland, noted that the problems need to be real, and not simply perceived. And science must come up with way to not only determine what can be changed, but whether they can solve the problem of possible phosphorous loading of the Chesapeake Bay.

Researchers are still examining exactly how much phosphorous on the soils is too much and what the "acceptable" levels of phosphorous are in ag drainage.

"We don't have a lot of specific information on phosphorous in ag drainage," said Staver, despite monitoring work.

In several areas of the Delmarva Peninsula, phosphorous levels have been measured in runoff. The ranges are from a half part per million (ppm) to 1 ppm.

According to Staver, in the Upper Choptank, there are 72,000 acres, with an annual volume measure of 0.07-0.11 ppm of phosphorous. The German Branch measures 0.17-0.32 ppm. The Pocomoke River area, at 2,000 acres, measures about 0.3-1 ppm.

The Pocomoke River, a subestuary of the Chesapeake Bay, includes 4 million pounds per year of poultry production.

One thing the scientists have discovered: in water areas where organic wastes are used, phosphorous levels from runoff can increase substantially.

In the Pocomoke River watershed, farming generates 4 million pounds of poultry litter on 100,000 acres of cropland. That translates into 40 pounds of phosphorous per acre per year. Twenty pounds of phosphorous per acre per year are removed in harvested grain.

A voluntary effort began to control phosphorous levels in the late 1980s. But since then, levels of phosphorous in the rootzone have actually increased by approximately 25 million pounds.

The questions remain: will erosion-control strategies offset increasing soil phosphorous levels? Can researchers find ways to reduce phosphorous levels in drainage?

The challenge: researchers have to provide that phosphorous levels are being reduced. "It's no longer sufficient to convince people that progress is being made," said Staver. "Progress on paper will no longer be good enough."

Phosphorous in drainage must be managed, watershed phosphorous budgets must be balanced, and phosphorous/soil loss relationships need to be revisited.

"We're in uncharted waters," said Staver, regarding where research is headed.

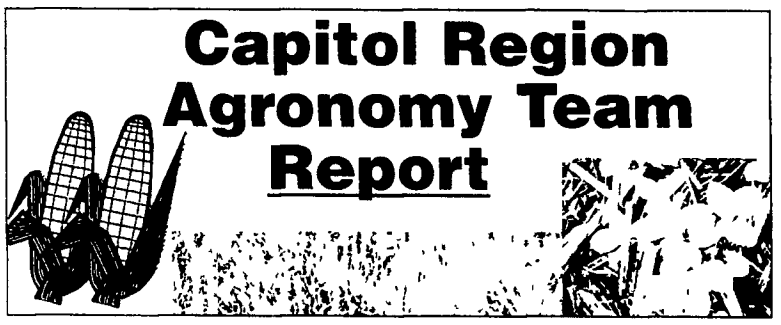
But the following are certain:

- Pressure on agriculture to lower the nutrient levels in drainage is going to increase.
- Ways to maintain the long-term soil phosphorous levels at minimum necessary to maximize crop yields will have to be implemented.
- Agriculture, in general, may have to meet performance standards to "show we have made progress," Staver said.

To avoid regulations, producers need to know what they are doing works, there needs to be accountability, and monitoring is in place to verify effectiveness.

Staver noted that certain tillage methods, particularly no-till, can allow phosphorous levels in the soil to be problematic. Some tillage management strategies may have to be reviewed.

Capitol Region Agronomy Team Report



SOIL TESTS AND RECORDKEEPING
Mark Goodson, CCA
Extension Agent, Soils
York County

I'm here this month to talk about soil test records.

You know the value of the plant nutrients stored in your soils is worth thousands of dollars. Think about that. To replace that N-P-K and the S-Ca-Mg plus all the micronutrients stored right now in your fields would bankrupt your operation. Despite this fact, we have a real relaxed attitude about our inventory control when it comes to these soil nutrients.

Do you know where your reports are for all the soil samples you've collected over the past three years? Are you sure? Are they organized? Do you have written records of which fields received lime applications over the past three years? Could you go there right now, find them, and answer these questions within a couple minutes?

Based on my experience as a soils extension worker and previous positions I've held working directly with farmers, I know the answers to the questions for most farm operations. Hey, I don't fault anyone. We are all swamped in paper and information. The point is, some fields are above optimum for lime and fertilizer and some fields are below optimum for lime and fertilizer. And that fact hurts your bottom line.

Problem is, there are not many farmer-friendly, easy-to-use soil test recordkeeping tools or systems out there.

I've seen a couple of software programs that will keep your records on a computer. When someone demonstrates it, it looks great. When I get it home and on my computer, I get two mouse "clicks" into it and I'm lost.

A farmer told me last night, the problem he saw with these programs is that they are loaded up with too many fancy "bells and whistles." That makes the basic job hard to do...unless you have a couple weeks to read the manual. Yeah.

I'm on a mission and the objective of this mission is to make a variety of simple, easy-to-use soil recordkeeping tools available to farmers and crop advisers within the next three to five years. I need your help to get this done.

I am in the initial stages of identifying and evaluating available recordkeeping systems and tools. I want to hear from you. I want to know how you manage the soil test information on your operation. What works? Have any tips? Is a consultant the way to go?

With the way prices are, farmers are once again required to become even more efficient and productive. The whole region is hurting with low prices. I see better management of crop nutrients — manure, fertilizer, and lime — as a way to increase efficiency.

I'm not talking about using more fertilizer or less fertilizer, more lime or less lime. I'm talking about using the right fertilizer and the right lime in the right place at the right time, and then managing that ground to hold that mineral until the crop is ready to take it up.

I want to hear from you. Help your fellow farmer. We are all in this boat together. We can't afford to farm without this information.

Call me (717) 840-7408 or email me at mwgl@psu.edu. Or write me at York County Cooperative Extension, 112 Pleasant Acres Road, York, PA 17402. I'll come out and visit you. Thanks.

Beaver County Resident Re-Elected President Of Pa. State Grange

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — The Master (President) of the Pennsylvania State Grange was re-elected to a third term by the delegate body at the recently concluded state convention here.

Bill Steel of Freedom, Beaver County, was elected to lead the rural and agricultural organization for the next two years. Steel, a 47-year member of the Grange, begins his fifth year as president of the State Grange in addition to serving as Overseer (vice president) of the National Grange in Washington, D.C.

Early in 1969, he became director of youth activities for the National Grange in Washington, D.C., where he also supervised the production and supply departments, incorporated the Farm Film Foundation into a Grange service, and became a founding director of the Arlington County Fair.

Returning to the family farm in 1985, Bill became a district representative for Aid Association for Lutherans, a fraternal benefit society, and again became active in state Grange activities. He was elected Overseer of the State Grange in 1992, and served four years before being elected to the Master's position.

Steel is an agriculture trustee for Penn State University, a member of the board of governors for the University of Pennsylvania Veterinary School, and serves on several other statewide agricultural and educational boards. He is also a lay worship leader in the Lutheran Church and serves his home congregation on a weekly basis.

Steel and his late wife are the parents of three sons, Dr. Adam B., and William H., both of Maryland, and Charles J. of Pittsburgh.

Other officers were also elected at this year's state session.

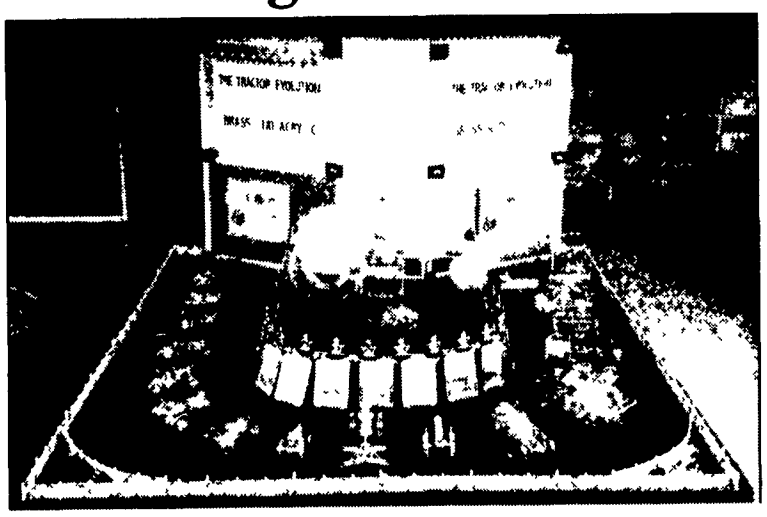
Betsy Huber of Lincoln University, Chester County, was re-elected Overseer (vice president) for a two-year term. Huber, a 39-year member, is past Master of Goshen Grange #121, is past Master of Chester/Delaware Pomona #3, past state Pomona (1986-92), and was, with her husband Henry, the Young Couple of the Year in 1971.

Outside the Grange, Huber is a township supervisor at Upper Oxford, and holds positions on the Board of Trustees of Avondale Presbyterian Church and the Community Advisory Committee of the Chester County Board of Health. She is also a past member of the Chester County Agricultural Development Council (1980-1985). Huber is employed as a legislative aide to Rep. Art Hershey, R-Chester. The Hubers are the parents of two sons and a daughter and have five grandchildren.

Other officers for the next two years including their name, local Grange and county are(~designates re-elected officers):

Lecturer: ~Susan Tau, Hayfield Grange #800, Crawford County; Steward: Robert Steese, London Grange #1492, Mercer County; Assistant Steward: Brian Ebersole, Community Grange #1767, Perry County; Lady Assistant Steward: ~Mary Ann Buckley, Lincoln Grange #914, Huntingdon County; Chaplain: ~Jean Hollabaugh, Watson Grange #1068, Warren County; State Treasurer: ~Anna May Nauss, Valley Grange #1360, York County; Secretary: ~Sandy Witmer, Elizabethtown Grange #2076, Lancaster County; Gatekeeper: ~Robert Moore, Buffalo Grange #1523, Washington County; Ceres: ~Linda Strong, Plumcreek Valley Grange #1702, Indiana County; Pomona: ~Debra Campbell, Perry Valley #1804, Perry County; Flora: ~Janet Fishovitz, Big Knob Grange #2008, Beaver County; Executive Committee Member: ~Nettie Kauffman, Ontelaunee Grange #1617, Berks County.

Tractor Evolution Display Coming To Lancaster



Ev Weber, a retired professional engineer, has been building custom-made farm toys, especially harvesters, for more than 10 years. His models are hand-built in the popular 1/16th-inch scale and reflect hundreds of hours of craftsmanship and historical research.

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — On Saturday, Nov. 11 at Lancaster's Farm and Home Center, visitors can see the first and only showing in the East of Ev Weber's award-winning, scale-model farm tractor display.

A week earlier in Dyersville, Iowa, at the National Farm Toy Show (noted for drawing 15,000-plus toy collectors), the same display will be set up for the first time.

The Lancaster show on Nov. 11 is the longest running annual Farm Toy Show east of Ohio and is the only show east of Ohio that Weber of Lima, Ohio, attends.

Also on display for the first time will be prototypes of the licensed collectibles to be offered for the 85th Pennsylvania State Farm Show in January 2001. Included are an Allis Chalmers G show tractor, a collectible truck with a load of hay, a '51 Ford F-100 pickup bank, and "Pete" the Perchant bean bag style 85th Farm Show horse.

The Lancaster show is open from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. There is a nominal admission charge for adults. Anyone wearing a FFA or 4-H jacket gets in free.

Northeast Order Uniform Price For September 2000

BOSTON, Mass. — Erik F. Rasmussen, Market Administrator for the Northeast Marketing Area, has announced that the statistical uniform price for September 2000 is $13.63 per hundredweight or $1.17 per gallon for milk delivered to plants located in Suffolk County, MA (Boston).

The September statistical uniform price is $13.53 in New York, NY, and $13.43 in Philadelphia, PA. The statistical uniform price is the benchmark minimum producer blend price paid to dairy farmers, prior to allowable deductions, for milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat, 2.99 percent protein, and 5.69 percent other solids. The price received by an individual dairy farmer will vary as the component composition of a farm's milk differs from the established benchmarks.

Mr. Rasmussen also stated that the producer price differential (PPD) for September is $2.87 per hundredweight for milk delivered to plants located in Suffolk County, MA. The PPD represents each producer's share of the value generated by the marketwide pool on a hundredweight basis.

The PPD, which is added to the payment producers receive for their milk's components, is adjusted for the location of the receiving plant. The statistical uniform price and PPD decrease by scheduled amounts the more distant the plant is from Suffolk County, MA.

The Class prices for milk pooled in September are as follows: Class I, $15.09 (Suffolk County, MA); Class II, $12.58; Class III, $10.76; and Class IV, $11.94. Had the Northeast Order been in effect in 1999, comparable class prices for September 1999 would have been: Class I, $18.51; Class II, $13.29; Class III, $15.60; and Class IV, $12.67.

The component values for September are protein, $2.0137 per pound; butterfat, $1.2707 per pound; other solids, $0.0502 per pound; and nonfat solids, $0.8624 per pound.

Milk receipts from producers totaled 1.835 billion pounds. Class I utilization, milk processed as beverage milk, was 49.3 percent of producer milk receipts. The average Class I utilization, for the three predecessor orders that were combined to form the Northeast Order, was 47.1 percent in September 1999.

The manufacture of Class II products such as cream, ice cream, yogurt, and cottage cheese utilized 17.8 percent of producer milk. Milk used to manufacture Class III products such as cheese (American and Italian) and evaporated and condensed products utilized 28.8 percent of total milk receipts. Class IV usage (butter, nonfat and whole milk powder) equaled 4.1 percent of the total.

Dairy Stakeholders Seeking Pacesetter Award Nominees

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Nominations are being accepted for the new "Pacesetter Award" sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders. Recipients of the Pacesetter Award will be honored at this year's Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders meeting on Dec. 13 and 14. The award will honor those who work within the dairy food industry to build a stronger, more viable future for dairying in Pennsylvania.

The Pacesetter Award has been created to recognize individuals, companies and organizations that strive to build a positive image of the Pennsylvania dairy industry and create a prosperous, marketable future for Pennsylvania dairy producers and the supporting industries.

Examples of potential recipients could be a producer who develops a new and innovative technology on the farm, a cooperative that opens new market outlets for Pennsylvania milk, a business that develops a support product to help producers or processors increase profitability, or an organization that develops a new program to build positive exposure for the industry.

Up to three recipients will be presented with this prestigious award each year. Anyone can submit a nomination for themselves or for someone else in the industry worthy of the award. Nominees will be considered based on how well their accomplishments meet the following criteria: visionary, innovative, progressive, excellence of performance, and unique.

To receive a Pacesetter Award nomination application, contact Alan Bair at the Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders either by calling (717) 948-6328 or emailing nab4@psu.edu. Applications should be received by the Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders by Nov. 15, 2000.

Three Champs For Hostetter

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — "It's hard to find fault in our winner," said judge Gordon Wood, Annville. "She's clean cut and a real dairy cow."

This is the third year that Jim Hostetter, Annville, took home the grand champion place Wednesday at the New Holland Sales Stable Dairy Show and Sale.

Hostetter bought both the champion and the reserve champion from the Peila family, Bernardston, Mass. This is the second year in a row that animals Hostetter purchased from the Peilas took home grand champion honors.

"The champion stood out really easily," said Wood. "She had a super udder and overall real dairyness, a good crease, and a high, wide, rear udder.

"The reserve is not quite as big but is put together right," he said of "Design."

"She's also a thin-hided cow, which I think means that she'll milk better. If I'm buying cows, I always feel the hide."

Milking 101 pounds, "Stardust," the grand champion, was sired by Browndale Stardust. Rated VG-85, she produced 23,618 total pounds of milk this year, 776 pounds of fat, and 760 pounds of protein. At the sale which followed the show, Albert Buckbee purchased the cow for $3,500.

The reserve champion, is milking 78 pounds (S: Dixellen Design, D: VG Inspiration daughter). Barry Hostetter purchased the reserve champion for $3,300.

Judge Wood, Mansfield, has 85 homebred Excellent cows with a 110 breed age average at his home farm of Gorwood-D Holsteins.

Wood has judged approximately 100 shows in his career, but usually finds himself in the ring as an exhibitor. He began judging years ago when his agriculture teacher asked him to judge a show.

"I Haven't missed this show in 15 years, and I was at a lot before that," said Wood. "I usually show for other people here. I've bought cows from this sale."

This year, however, is the first time judging this show.

Grants For Farmers From Northeast SARE

BURLINGTON, Vt. — The application deadline for the 2001 Farmer/Grower grants is Dec. 4, 2000, and all interested producers in the Northeast are encouraged to submit their proposals.

The Northeast Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education (Northeast SARE) program supports farmers who want to move toward more sustainable and innovative production and marketing practices.

Grants in 2000 averaged $4,350 and supported a broad range of projects in agroforestry, marketing, on-farm demonstrations, and improved production practices on 62 farms across the region. The region is made up of Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts, Maryland, Maine, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, West Virginia, and Washington, D.C.

To find out more, or to get an application, call the Northeast SARE office at (802) 656-0471.

Penn State To Conduct Dairy Nutrition Workshop

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co.) — The Dairy and Animal Science Department at Penn State will conduct a two-day dairy nutrition workshop here at the Holiday Inn.

The workshop, Nov. 14-15, will feature a variety of speakers from Penn State as well as other noted speakers.

The first day will feature Dr. Bill Weiss of the Ohio State University, along with Drs. Gabriella Varga and Jud Heinrichs. They will give updates on nutrition in the areas of the lactating cow, dry cow, and heifer.

In the afternoon, a variety of workshop sessions will cover topics on computer ration balancing, forage quality, water quality, interpretations of DHIA records, an update on NCR, and commenting on farm labor management.

There will be a trade show of feed industry suppliers and other allied industries of interest to nutritionists.

The second morning of the workshop will be devoted to nutrition interactions related to lactating cow health, dry cow health, facilities, reproduction, and reproductive diseases. Dr. Mike O'Connor, Dan McFarland, Dr. David Griswold, and Dr. David Wolfgang of Penn State, and Dr. Elliot Block of Church and Dwight Corp. will cover these topics.

The afternoon will again feature a variety of workshops featuring case studies related to nutrition and health or reproduction. A computer lab will feature a feed cost control program and another workshop will cover getting feeding strategies accomplished on the farm.

For more information, call Virginia Ishler at (814) 863-3912 or email her at vishler@das.psu.edu.

USDA Increases Fees For Services

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The USDA announced recently that current laboratory service fees will increase for testing of agricultural commodities.

The increase is needed to strengthen the program's operating reserve and to alleviate the increased costs associated with analytical testing services. Major factors contributing to the need for the fee changes include increased employee salaries and supply costs. Current fees have been in effect since April 1998.

All tests listed in the fee schedules will increase by 24.1 percent. In addition, the hourly rates for analyses not listed in the fee schedules will increase from $36.26 to $45.00. Laboratory fees for aflatoxin analysis will be adjusted according to the procedure used.

Like other voluntary user-fee programs, USDA provides analytical testing services in order to facilitate the marketing and quality standards of agricultural commodities in domestic and international commerce.

Copies of the fee schedules will be posted on the Internet Website at http://www.ams.usda.gov/science.htm. Hard copies of the fee schedules are available from James Falk, Science and Technology Program, AMS, USDA, Rm. 3521-S, P.O. Box 96456, Washington, D.C. 20090-6456. Braunvieh Traits Add Beef To Swiler's Breeding Program

Lancaster Farming Staff

CAMERON, N.Y. — Elaine Swiler is a firm believer in the genetic traits the Braunvieh can contribute to any breeding program.

"I stress carcass quality and yield grade," said Swiler, who won the quality carcass contest at the 1980 N.Y. State Fair with a 7/8 Hereford, 1/8 Angus.

"He was eighth place on the hoof," said Swiler. "You can't always tell what's inside."

When the price of Hereford feeders dropped, she began purchasing quality Limousin bulls. It was in during a Limousin sale, ironically, that Swiler discovered the Braunvieh breed. When a half Braunvieh, half Limo heifer came into the ring, Swiler was immediately interested.

"When I saw her I thought, 'Gosh, that's the most beautiful heifer I ever saw'," said Swiler. She purchased the heifer and began her research. Thus began the introduction of Braunvieh into her herd which today includes 12 cattle with Braunvieh blood, 2 bulls and 36 polled Herefords, Hereford/Limousins, and Angus cattle.

Swiler operates Indian Valley Stock Farm in Cameron, New York, with the help of an 85-year-old friend. She has raised cattle for 29 years, starting with polled Herefords. She has 125 acres in scrub pasture and pays rent for an additional 200. She bales hay off of 40 acres.

"Basically, it doesn't pay to own equipment to put in corn for my marginal land," said Swiler. "I work very hard to get a high percentage of calf crop. I usually have 100 percent."

At weaning, Swiler preconditions the calves herself and then 2-4 weeks before the calves are sold. The weaning weight of her 6- to 7-month old calves averages 635 pounds, and a few weaned off at 780 pounds last year.

"You get a better price, and perhaps even more importantly, repeat buyers," said Swiler, who markets her calves to friends, provides steers and heifers to area 4-H'ers, and sells through the cooperative extension.

"Auctions are great, but I like to know what I'll get ahead of time," said Swiler, who owns a stock trailer which she believes is an essential element in her cattle sales. "That way, I can say 'I will deliver them'."

Also, points out Swiler, delivering the calves in her own trailer decreases the chance of disease. "If you produce a good product, keep it good all the way," said Swiler.

Swiler's emphasis on carcass and yield grade was evident long ago. Twenty-five years ago she borrowed an ultrasound machine from a local university to use on her bull calves.

Especially interested in the ribeye measurement, Swiler was impressed by the Braunvieh's statistics. Outstanding beef qualities have made them an easy choice to add into her breeding program.

According to information from Braunvieh.com, Braunvieh-sired steers have consistently hung up top carcasses all around the country including renowned steer tests like The Great Western Beef Expo, Sterling, Colorado, and Texas A&M Ranch to Rail program.

"If you're going to chose, chose a heritable trait to breed for," said Swiler.

She now owns a "dandy good" Angus and 9-year-old Limousin and a 3/4 Braunvieh bull.

"When I get a good bull there's no guarantee that the next bull will be better, so when you have a really good one, I hate to see them go down the road," said Swiler.

Not only the performance of the bulls but the also a solid showing from the cows have given the breed a permanent spot in Swiler's pasture.

"They flush well, the females keep their condition well after calving, they do well on feed, they rebreed well, they have nice dispositions, and they have nice-shaped udders," she said.

According to Swiler, the heifers tend to be early-maturing and will calve at a young age.

Years of making careful breeding decisions makes Swiler cautious about where her animals go when they are sold.

"I like my cows, so I make sure that I get good buyers to keep them going," said Swiler. "It's so hard to find people with a commitment to the business. If they get out of it and sell the heifers there goes all the genetics.

"People don't realize how much work it is to raise beef properly. They don't know how much a cow eats. They think the cattle can take care of themselves."

One disadvantage of the breed, said Swiler, is the horns, which she eliminates by simply crossing polled cattle with the Braunvieh.

Swiler has represented the Cattlmen's Beef Board for eight years and the national executive board for three years to promote the beef industry.

Sebastian, below, one of Swiler's three bulls, is three-fourth Braunvieh and one-fourth polled Hereford.

One of Sebastian's offspring, right, this calf was born in April. The calf's dam, Heide, is the heifer that "introduced" Swiler to the breed years ago.

Retail Study Unscrambles the Mystery of Egg Merchandising

Building upon the success of last year's groundbreaking study, "Making the Case for Eggs," the American Egg Board (AEB) commissioned Willard Bishop Consulting, Ltd. (WBC), once again, to conduct a new research project called "Setting the Case for Eggs." From this study, retailers will learn how to set the egg case for maximum profits by utilizing effective shelf merchandising guidelines.

WBC first contacted a cross section of egg producers who provided them with valuable insight and made some recommendations for their approach to the shelf merchandising study.

They then conducted headquarter and store-level personnel interviews with 12 different retailers across the country. They visited over a dozen stores and interviewed over 600 consumers from coast-to-coast.

Six of the retail chains participated in a shelf re-set study to assess consumer and sales response both "before" and "after."

Research Results

Following are some of the preliminary findings from research results presented at the recent American Egg Board meeting:

1. Retailers are looking for direction with shelf merchandising and category management for eggs.

2. Increasing egg space yields improved sales and profit performance and helps to eliminate out-of-stocks in the egg case.

3. Consumers prefer to find eggs in-line with other dairy products.

4. Retailers who do not carry a full selection of variety eggs and larger pack sizes along with their usual assortment of white and brown eggs are losing sales.

5. Retailers can do a better job of allocating space in the egg case by matching plan-o-grams to future trends in the egg category.

6. Best selling items belong at the end of the traffic flow.

7.Sales of higher margin and growth items can be increased when they are placed at eye level.

8. Consumers want information on food safety, nutrition, preparation and recipe ideas in-store at the point of sale.

9. Departmental signage and pricing information posted both overhead and on the shelf are very important to consumers.

10. Shopping and stocking can be made easier by standardizing carton colors, color-coding rail strips and coordinating price signage to match.

11. The most important thing to consumers is freshness, which should be emphasized in all marketing efforts.

12. Controlled shelf tests support the fact that proper shelf management yields improved sales results in the egg case.

Upon completion of the study, AEB will produce a retailer workbook, which defines the process for "setting the egg case" for maximum profits. It is intended to be the "bible" for planning and merchandising the egg department.

Joint Policy To Protect, Restore Waters On Federal Lands

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman and Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt recently announced a unified policy to protect water quality and aquatic ecosystems on federal lands. The policy will serve as a framework for land and resource management focused on watersheds.

The new "Watershed Approach to Federal Land and Resource Management" will guide the protection of water quality and aquatic ecosystem health through the reduction of polluted runoff, the improvement of natural resources stewardship, and an increase in public involvement in watershed management on federal lands.

It calls on federal agencies to work together and with states, tribes, local governments, private landowners, and other interested parties to take a watershed approach to federal land and resource management.

Bucks County Holstein Show Selects Winners

She was exhibited by John W. Crooke, a 4-H member from Buckingham.

Reserve grand champion went to a 5-year-old, Want To Ryan Dana, shown by Matthew Crouse, a 4-H'er from Riegelsville.

The top bred and owned cow was exhibited by Donald and Bruce Crouse of Riegelsville, Durham Crest Indy Tingle, a 4-year-old.

A senior calf, Ensenada Brock Lazer, shown by Joshua Bishop of Plumsteadville, was judged the junior champion. Hilltop Manor IV Ann Abby, a winter yearling heifer shown by Jenna Geissinger of Quakertown, was the reserve junior champion.

Premier breeder and premier exhibitor awards were captured by the Worthington Family, Curly Hill Farm in Doylestown.

James Younker, a Holstein breeder from Fleetwood, was the judge. Seventy-two head were shown.

Western Juniors To Raise Funds For 2001 National Junior Angus Show

DENVER, Colo. — Angus juniors from the western United States will offer various opportunities for Angus enthusiasts from all corners of the U.S. to contribute to the 2001 National Junior Angus Show, while they are attending the 2001 National Western Stock Show in Denver, Colo., in January.

Thomas Angus Ranch, Baker City, Ore., has donated a pick of their herd flush to the juniors. The flush is donated in memory of Gloria Thomas, a long-time Angus friend and avid supporter of juniors. The high bidder will have the chance to pick any cow in the Thomas herd to be flushed. The package includes 10 guaranteed freezable embryos. Galen Lusk, Western Genetics, Inc., Sugar City, Idaho, is donating the flush work.

Kiowa Creek Ranch, Elbert, Colo., is donating a choice lot between two full sisters that will also sell in Denver. The heifers were born in February 2000 and are sired by Northern Improvement 4480 GF.

Both the Thomas flush package and the Kiowa Creek heifer will sell during the Foundation Female Angus Sale, Friday, Jan. 12 in Denver, Colo.

Larry Green, Volborg, Mont., and Roth Angus, Freeman, S.D., have also donated three embryos that will sell Jan. 11 at Green's Commitment to Excellence Showcase Sale in Denver. The proceeds from the embryos will go to the juniors.

In addition to the heifers and embryos, the juniors are also selling raffle tickets on items that will be drawn for later in the spring. Chances on a quilt designed by Emma Dancinger are available from Colorado Junior Angus members. The quilt, "Under the Western Sky," depicts a mountainous scene with vivid colors.

The Montana Junior Angus Association (MJAA) is selling tickets for a new Pearson squeeze chute. Tickets for this are $5 each or five tickets for $20. The winning ticket will be drawn in April during the Angus Sale at Midland Bull Test. Please contact any MJAA member or call (406) 445-2332 for tickets.

Bring Oktoberfest Home With Autumn Harvest

Authentic foods like kraut make it simple to start a savory Oktoberfest tradition your family will love. Apart from being an extremely versatile food that is steeped in heritage, kraut provides countless health benefits, adding zest and nutrition to any number of recipes—from soups, to appetizers, to robust entrees.

Since kraut is as much a part of German culture as Oktoberfest itself, it is the essential element in creating your own family food festival. When preparing kraut dishes, authenticity is the key. For the most genuine German flavor, use an authentic, barrel-cured kraut, such as Silver Floss or Krrrrisp Kraut (available canned, jarred, or refrigerated).

Rich German foods—and these recipes—make it easy to bring Oktoberfest home. All you have to do now is add lederhosen and oompah-pah.

Savory Sausage and Kraut Skillet

- 2 tablespoon butter
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 large apple, peeled, cored, and grated
- 2 tablespoon brown sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon caraway seeds
- 12 small red potatoes, cleaned
- 1 1/2 cups sauerkraut, drained, rinsed, and packed
- 1 pound smoked beef sausage or kielbasa, cut into 3-inch pieces

Melt butter in skillet; add onion and green pepper and cook until tender. Add apple, brown sugar, caraway seeds, potatoes, and sauerkraut; mix well. Place sausage on top of sauerkraut mixture. Cover and cook over medium-low heat for 30 minutes.

Servings: 4 to 6
Prep Time: 10 minutes
Cook Time: 30 minutes

Pork Chops With Apples and Kraut

- 4 1-inch thick pork chops
- 2 apples, peeled, cored, and coarsely chopped
- 1/4 cup raisins
- 1/4 cup chopped walnuts
- 1/4 cup packed brown sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 can (14.4 oz.) undrained or 1 bag (32 oz.) drained sauerkraut

Preheat oven to 350° F. In skillet, brown chops on both sides for 15 minutes or until brown. Place in 9- x 13-inch greased baking pan. In medium bowl, combine apples, raisins, walnuts, brown sugar, nutmeg, and sauerkraut. Mix well. Divide mixture evenly and mound on pork chops. Cover with foil and bake for 1 hour or until fork tender.

Servings: 4
Prep Time: 10 minutes
Cook Time: 1 1/4 hours

Hearty Oktoberfest Roast With Kraut and Tomatoes

- 2 tablespoon butter
- 2 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
- 1 (4 to 5 lb.) beef chuck roast
- 2 cans (14 oz. each) whole tomatoes, crushed
- 4 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 teaspoon seasoned salt
- 1/2 teaspoon ground thyme
- 1/2 teaspoon dried parsley
- 1/2 teaspoon ground marjoram
- 2 bay leaves, crushed
- 3 cups sauerkraut, drained, rinsed, and packed
- 1/2 cup packed brown sugar

Preheat oven to 350° F. In large ovenproof roasting pan, heat butter and oil until hot. Combine flour, salt, and pepper on sheet of waxed paper; roll roast in flour mixture to cover. Brown roast in hot butter and oil on both sides. In small mixing bowl, combine tomatoes, garlic, sea-soned salt, thyme, parsley, marjoram, and bay leaves. Pour over roast, cover, and bake for 1 hour.

Uncover roast, and add sauerkraut and brown sugar. Cover and return to oven; bake an additional 1 1/2 to 2 hours or until meat is tender. Serve meat with vegetables and juices.

Servings: 10
Prep Time: 15 minutes
Cook Time: 3 1/2 hours

Sauerkraut Soupah-Pah (Hearty Sauerkraut Soup)

- 1 can (14.5 oz.) beef broth
- 2 cans (14.5 oz. each) chicken broth
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1/2 cup chopped celery
- 1/4 cup chopped green bell pepper
- 2 medium potatoes, cubed
- 1 package (14 oz.) frozen whole baby carrots
- 1 package (10 oz.) frozen cut green beans
- 1/2 pound Polish sausage, cut into bite-size pieces
- 1 can (14.4 oz.) undrained or 1 bag (32 oz.) drained sauerkraut
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

In large kettle, combine broths, onion, celery, green pepper, potatoes, carrots, and beans. Bring to boil. Reduce heat to medium, cover, and cook until vegetables are tender. Add sausage, sauerkraut, and black pepper; simmer for 5 minutes. Serve hot.

Servings: 8
Prep Time: 15 minutes
Cook Time: 30 to 35 minutes

Sweet and Sassy Slaw

- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1/4 cup vegetable oil
- 1/2 cup cider vinegar
- 4 cups sauerkraut, drained, rinsed, and packed
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup chopped celery
- 1/2 green pepper, chopped
- 1/2 red pepper, chopped
- 1/2 yellow pepper, chopped
- 1 teaspoon mustard seed
- 1 teaspoon celery seed

In large mixing bowl, combine all ingredients, mixing well. Cover and refrigerate 6 to 8 hours. Serve as side dish or topping for barbecued pork sandwich.

Servings: 14 to 16
Prep Time: 20 minutes
Chill Time: 6 to 8 hours

The Surprising Truth About Kraut

- Contrary to popular belief, kraut originated in China around 215 B.C. Because of kraut's high vitamin C content, the builders of China's Great Wall ate it to combat scurvy.
- Kraut is naturally low-cal and fat-free.
- Kraut is one of a few cruciferous vegetables—a family of exceptionally healthy foods. Along with its high vitamin C content, kraut is rich in vitamins A and B.
- The word "sauerkraut" is German (of course!)—meaning "sour cabbage."
- Americans annually consume 387 million pounds of kraut, or 1.5 pounds per person.
- Kraut is nutrient-rich, with healthy doses of phosphorous, calcium, iron, potassium, thiamin, riboflavin, niacin, and fiber. It is also high in lactic acid, which cleanses the body of bacteria, helping to prevent colon cancer.
- Kraut is America's second favorite hot dog topping, behind mustard

Festive Facts

- Oktoberfest began in 1810, when Bavarian King Max Joseph threw a giant wedding celebration for Crown Prince Ludwig (later to become King Ludwig I) and Princess Therese von Sachsen-Hildburghausen.
- In addition to the wedding, Oktoberfest was dedicated to the fall harvest and to the region's most famous product—beer.
- Oktoberfest still takes place at Theresienwiese (the Therese Meadow) in Munich. The 16-day festival annually attracts 6 million visitors who drink 5 million liters of beer and eat over 200,000 pork sausages.

Featured Recipe

Pennsylvania State Dairy Princess Melinda Wolfe writes, "Ahh, the power of cheese." It is the American Dairy Association's (ADA) newest slogan to increase the sale and consumption of cheese across America.

This phrase must be catching on because consumption in America increased six percent in 1999. With so many varieties to choose from, it's no wonder that the average American will eat up to 30-pounds of cheese in one year.

October is Cheese Month, and what a better way to celebrate this festive occasion than by throwing a three-course dinner party. As your guests arrive, allow them to munch on a plate of fresh vegetables and cheese dip as they mingle.

1 cup sour cream
¼ cup plain yogurt
⅓ cup soft American Cheese
2 teaspoons dry Italian salad dressing mix (½ package)

Mix all ingredients in a bowl. Dip will have little lumps of cheese.

Moving on with the main course, your guests will marvel at your cooking expertise as they enjoy your famous chicken casserole.

2 cups uncooked macaroni
2 cups milk
1 can cream of chicken
1 can cream of celery
2 cups diced cooked chicken
1 small onion — chopped
½ pound American Cheese — cubed

Mix all together, cover, and refrigerate overnight. Uncover and bring to room temperature. Bake at 350 for one hour.

And what meal would be complete without dessert? Serve your friends and family an all-time favorite, mini cherry cheesecake.

8-ounce package cream-cheese softened
2 eggs
14-ounce can sweetened condensed milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
24 vanilla wafers
1 can cherry pie filling

Beat cream cheese and condensed milk until fluffy, beat in eggs, vanilla, lemon juice, and salt. Insert 24 wafers into cupcake liners in muffin pans, flat side down. Fill cups ⅔ full with batter. Bake at 350 for 15-20 minutes or until batter is puffed and set. cool 15-20 minutes. Top with a spoonful of cherry pie filling and chill before serving.

Next time you're at the grocery store wondering what to make for dinner, take a stroll down the dairy aisle to the cheese section. From American to Swiss, sharp to mild, or smooth to grated, cheese can be substituted into any of your favorite recipes to add that extra kick to any meal.

Celebrate Autumn Harvest

Autumn favorites often include cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli, collards, and kale.

Cabbage by itself ranks as the sixth most important Pennsylvania crop in terms of acreage. More than 1,600 acres are grown and harvested from late June into December.

Cabbage is considered a cruciferous vegetable, which contains indoles — nitrogen compounds — that seem to protect against cancers of the stomach and large intestine. They also are generally high in fiber and antioxidants such as vitamin C and carotenoids. Antioxidants neutralize the action of free radicals — unstable oxygen molecules that promote cancer.

Cruciferous vegetables also contain compounds that stimulate the release of anticancer enzymes.

Some people object to the odor produced by cooking cruciferous vegetables. The odor is caused by the release of sulfur compounds as these vegetables cook. While boiling cruciferous vegetables in large amounts of water in an open pot will minimize the characteristic strong cabbage taste, it maximizes the loss of nutrients. Steaming, microwaving or quick cooking in small amounts of water minimizes nutrient loss in the cooking process.

Dietary experts recommend including cruciferous vegetables in the diet regularly, at least several times a week. They also recommend a daily serving of a vegetable or fruit high in vitamin A, one high in vitamin C, and one high in fiber. Broccoli fulfills all three requirements while cabbage and cauliflower fulfill the vitamin C and fiber requirement.

Many of today's recipe collection reveal novel ways to incorporate these healthful vegetables into your family mealtime.

CABBAGE PATCH STEW

1½ pound ground beef
4 ribs celery, chopped
1 onion, chopped
7 cups chopped cabbage
2 16-ounce cans kidney beans, rinsed, drained
28-ounce can diced tomatoes
3 cups beef broth
15-ounce can tomato sauce
2 carrots, peeled, chopped
Pepper to taste

Saute ground beef, celery, and onion until meat is done. Add remaining ingredients, bring to a boil. Simmer one hour.

SQUASH GAI CHOW

1 pound spaghetti squash
1 tablespoon butter
2 green peppers, seeded
4 medium carrots
Vegetable oil
1 can sliced mushrooms
1 can drained diced pineapples
½ cup soy sauce
2 cups diced, cooked chicken breast

Cool squash 30 minutes in boiling water. Cool. Cut in half, remove seeds. Scrape out pulp using the edge of a spoon.

Saute squash in butter, stir to avoid browning. Set aside.

Slice peppers in thin strips, and carrots in juliene style. Pour oil into carrots and peppers, using just enough to coat lightly. Heat frying pan and stir fry until barely tender. Add mushrooms, pineapple, and squash. Toss until well mixed. Pour soy sauce on this and add chicken. Simmer on heat just enough to get piping hot. Serve over rice.

Not only is this a delicious dish, but it is very colorful, the anonymous contributor writes.

SQUASH CASSEROLE

4 cups diced yellow squash
Pepper to taste
2 tablespoons grated onion
⅓ cup grated carrots
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 cup sour cream
2 cups prepared stuffing
3 tablespoons butter
Slivered almonds (optional)

Cook squash about 10 minutes in 1½ cups water to which ¼ teaspoon salt has been added. Drain and add next five ingredients. Butter a baking dish and put 1 cup stuffing in bottom. Add squash mixture, top with remaining stuffing, and dot with butter. Also sprinkle with almonds, if desired. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Servings 4 to 6.

CREAM OF BROCCOLI SOUP

1 small head broccoli (or 10-ounce package frozen broccoli)
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 cup chicken broth
3 tablespoons melted butter
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup grated American cheese

Cook broccoli and onions in chicken broth in small saucepan until tender. Do not drain. Blend butter and flour in saucepan, stir in milk. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Season with salt and pepper. Add cheese; heat until cheese melts. Add broccoli, onion, and broth mixture. Simmer 10-15 minutes.

Cabbage Buying Tips

The Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program offers these tips when buying fresh cabbage:

- Select firm, compact heads.
- Choose heads that are free of yellow, wilted or splitting leaves.
- Avoid cutting cabbage until just before use.

Broccoli Buying Tips

The Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program offers these tips when buying fresh broccoli:

- Choose tightly-packed heads.
- Stalks should be green with dark green or purplish-green, not yellow, buds.
- Refrigerate in an open plastic bag.

Cauliflower Buying Tips

The Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program offers these tips when buying fresh cauliflower:

- Select tight heads with a white or cream appearance.
- Avoid heads that are loose, spotted or bruised.
- Refrigerate in an open plastic bag.

Freeds Celebrate 65th Anniversary

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

SOUDERTON (Montgomery Co.) — November 2 marks the 65th anniversary of Henry K. and Ida Freed.

The 85-year-old couple attribute their long life and enduring marriage to "hard work."

"I put in long days, 14-16 hours or more," Henry said of his ag-related work and lifestyle.

Henry and Ida Freed, both 85, will celebrate 65 years of marriage on Nov. 2.

Starting marriage in 1935, near the end of the Great Depression, the couple lived in neighboring Bucks County.

Times were tough, "but like everything else, you take a chance," Henry said.

"We didn't have much, but it didn't take much either," Henry said. The newlyweds paid $15 a month rent for their first home.

"But it had no indoor plumbing, and Rt. 309 went right by our window," Ida said.

Henry said, "As a boy I remember nothing (farm crops) was worth anything during the Depression. But we had enough to eat even if it wasn't what we liked. It wasn't like today when you can buy whatever you want to eat."

Those years taught them lessons that stayed with them for a lifetime. He said, "We learned to live within our means."

When first married, Henry worked in a butcher shop for 30 years before becoming a cattle auctioneer.

"I dealt in livestock, feeder pigs, and cattle. Every Friday night for 14 years, I sold horses at the auction," Henry said.

His wife stayed home with the children while he worked long hours.

"It was difficult when they were little — getting them settled to bed and all," Ida said. "They were boys, I want to tell you!"

Ida also worked as secretary for her husband's auctions. "If it rained, the phone was always ringing with people wanting to know if the auction was still going to be held."

Her husband said, "I don't know why they called. I never cancelled a sale."

The couple have four sons. A fifth son died of a brain tumor when he was 15 years old.

"That was a hard time," Ida said. "I'll never forget how the school treated me. Every day they'd call here to find out why he wasn't in school, even though I told them he was sick. They called the day he died, and when I said he wasn't anymore, they finally believed me and apologized. But that didn't make it any easier going through that every day."

Sons Henry Jr., Russell, Ralph, and Ronald have produced seven grandchildren and four great grandchildren that include a set of twins.

According to Henry, a successful marriage requires compromise. He said, "It's not all give and not all take. It's give and take."

The couple believe marriage and life in general were easier in the past than in this generation.

"Now there is too little homelife with both husband and wife working," Henry said. "It's a different society and a different culture."

Ida remembers she wanted to work in the local sewing factory when the children were older.

"I worked there before we had children, and I really went to town sewing on buttons. I loved it, but Henry didn't want me to go back to work," Ida said. "So I didn't."

Ida is proud to say that she always got up at 4 a.m. to pack her husband's lunch and make him a big breakfast.

"But after he went to work, I went back to bed," Ida said.

Henry considers himself semi-retired, because he continues to help his son with general on-site and consignment auctioneering.

"When you're 86, you don't last as long," Henry said of long hours on the job. Nevertheless he is up between 4 a.m.-5 a.m., because that is when he always got up to work in the butcher shop, and he never takes a nap.

The couple are staunch supporters of big breakfasts that include bacon and eggs.

"We go out for breakfast a lot, not because it's too much trouble to cook but for the social part," Ida said. They frequent a local diner where they know the owners and many of the retired folks who come to eat.

"We don't eat much candy. We didn't have it when we were young, and it doesn't taste as good as it used to taste," Henry said, referring to declining taste buds.

What Ida and Henry do eat is a whole grapefruit everyday — both of them.

"We have our ups and downs, but we have our health — that's something money can't buy," Ida said.

Henry tries to walk a little bit every day, but Ida said she has some trouble with her legs so she doesn't walk much, "except at the mall, where they have lots of benches to sit down and rest."

Ida spends hours crocheting bandages to send overseas. She's also made a quilt for each of their sons and crochets numerous afghans, wall hangings, and crib quilts for benefit auctions.

"I never learned to drive," Ida said.

Together, they enjoy attending quilt shows, taking long car rides, and eating in restaurants.

Ida attributes their long marriage to taking a day at a time.

"Be sure you don't jump into it (marriage)," Henry said.

"Talk things over," Ida advises.

On their anniversary, the couple plan to go out to eat.

"It's just another day," Ida said.

What Is Birth Order?

Some scientists believe that how you are placed in your family may explain why you act the way you do, like the things you like, and have the personality traits that make you unique.

These scientists feel birth order contributes to how you develop behavior patterns, ways of thinking and emotional responses. For example, psychologists studying birth order often find firstborns to be highly motivated to achieve. Of the first 23 astronauts sent into outer space, 21 were firstborns or only children!

Characteristics of firstborns: goal setters, high achievers, perfectionists, responsible, organized, determined, and detail people.

Characteristics of middle children: flexible, peacemakers, generous, social, and competitive.

Characteristics of last-born children: risk-takers, outgoing, idea people, creative, humorous, and often question authority.

There are many things that can change these characteristics - in fact, you may have traits from all categories. And there are other factors to consider, like your genetics and the environment in which you were raised.

Hey!

Watch where you're walking! You almost stepped on me. Down here. Next to your foot.

Yeah, me. The round, orange guy with the big, toothy smile.

Jack O. Lantern. In person.

Well, nice to meet you, too.

Whadda ya' mean, can I talk? Of course I can talk. What do you think this big, wide mouth is for? Candy corn?

Yeah, it's been kind of a rough year for us round, orange types. We like lots of bright, warm, sunny weather, to grow big, plump, and tasty. And make lots of seeds, so we can keep our kind around a few more years.

But, geez, some of the spots we settled down in this year just about drowned us. Molded and mildewed us. Shriveled our umbilicals and bombarded us with blossom end rot. Like to have wiped us out, by gosh.

Some of my little bud-dies — back months ago when I was just a bud — never even made it past their blooming early days. Not enough bees and bugs. Too dark. Too dreary. Too wet. Bees stayed home in a dry hive, rather than work at moving pollen around. Afraid of a little damp weather.

So much for that "busy as a bee" stuff, huh?

And, then some more of my friends — rest their souls — just went limp when they were about halfway grown. Turned to mush and soggy lumps from standing in little puddles for long periods of time.

It was ugly.

Luckily, a few of us made it. We crawled up on higher ground when we were just little tykes. Took advantage of the breezes and sunshine whenever we could. And drank from those frequent showers to boost our pudginess and good looks and sweet taste.

Of course, some of us in the family taste better than others. Most of my squash cousins actually have lots more flavor than I do. Like Harry Hubbard Squash and his wife, Bessie Butternut. On the other hand, they usually end up peeled, sliced, diced, boiled, mashed, squooshed, and baked.

So who's better off? The Pie Pumpkin People or us tasteless Jack O. Lantern types?

After all, we have our own holiday. Sure, the pumpkin pie bunch gets a lot of play in a couple of weeks, but they're bit players next to those turkeys. We Jack O. Lanterns are STARS at Halloween!

In the old days, Jack O. Lanterns went through life with big, broad smiles all lit. Enjoyed those crisp, chilly October nights by candlelight. A happy bunch, we were. Then along came progress — you know, ceramic pumpkins and papier-mache' pumpkins and the like — and some of our clan just turned their smiles into scowls.

And plastic! Plastic Jack O. Lanterns, for crying out loud. With plug-in electric lights! Is nothing sacred?

Then those people types started on us with surgical instruments — special pumpkin carving knives and stuff — and now we look like monsters. With hair and mustaches. And ears. They even give us cat faces. Cat faces! Next thing they'll be painting us black.

Enough of this. It's time to take back our right as pumpkins, to reclaim our traditions, to rechart our course. No more fading out of the public eye the day after Halloween. So we're prepared to announce the start of a campaign the day after Spook Night.

Pumpkin for President.

Agriculture Department Reminds Farmers' Market Nutrition Program Participants To Redeem Checks Before Nov. 30 Deadline

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Deputy Secretary Russell Redding reminded eligible seniors, mothers and children enrolled in the Women, Infants and Children (WIC) program to redeem checks as part of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Market Nutrition Program by Nov. 30.

"There still are plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables available at farmers' markets across the Commonwealth," Redding said. "We encourage WIC families and seniors to take full advantage and redeem their coupons for the bountiful crop of fresh Pennsylvania fruits and vegetables at participating farmers' markets across the state."

Pennsylvania's WIC and Seniors Farmers' Market Nutrition programs provide fresh fruits and vegetables to nutritionally at-risk seniors 60 years of age and older who fall within the income guidelines of the program, and mothers and children under the age of five enrolled in WIC.

More than 400 vendors statewide participate in the programs, and $1.5 million of state funds and $1.9 million in federal funding have been allocated to the WIC and Senior Farmers' Market Program this year.

Eligibility for the WIC Farmers' Market Nutrition Program is limited to pregnant and nursing women, who are eligible to receive $25 in coupons per year to purchase fresh fruits and vegetables at participating farmers' markets; and 2-year-olds through 5-year-olds, who are eligible to receive a $20 in coupons.

State's Top Seamstresses Advance To National Competition

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

JOHNSTOWN (Cambria Co.) — Two Pennsylvania young women are anticipating the next round, which is national competition, since winning the senior and junior divisions of Make It Yourself With Wool. The Pennsylvania state event was conducted Saturday, Oct. 14, at Boscovs in the Galleria Mall.

Aleecha Jones from Loysburg, Bedford County, was the senior winner and Deidra Smith, Glencoe, Somerset County, was the junior winner.

Make It Yourself With Wool competitions promote the beauty and versatility of wool fabrics and yarns; encourage personal creativity in sewing, knitting, crocheting, spinning and weaving; offer a forum for learning life skills, and teach self-responsibility.

The garment is judged on and off the contestant and presentation is 60 percent while construction is 40 percent of the final score. Fashion and good construction methods go hand in hand with coordination, creativity, and comfort.

Jones found challenge enough in constructing her first-ever coat, chosen because the project was something different, said the Northern Bedford High School senior who began sewing at age seven.

"The pockets gave me the most challenge," she said. "I had a difficult time getting them in right and to look nice."

Her grandmother, Shirley Pennel was a faithful encourager throughout the course of the coat project. It paid off because in January, Jones will fly to Sparks, Nevada near Reno for the national event.

"I feel great," she said. "Im really excited to go there and see the greater level of competition."

Jones chose 100 percent Pendleton wool in black for the coat and added a lining of black satin with functional pockets and pocket flaps. Under the coat, also in 100 percent Pendleton wool, she wore a rather burnished red skirt that featured a back slit, invisible zipper and back darts. Jones made a vest that matched.

The daughter of Tom and Karen Jones has one brother. She has taken time out from twirling commitments to enter the state wool competition each of the last six years. Track is another of her interests in addition to the youth group at Community Grace Brethren Church. In 4-H she raises sheep and pigs at the farm of her grandfather James Pennel.

As the junior winner Deidra Smith's black and white check 100-percent wool, fully lined skirt and jacket posed certain difficulties when she tried to achieve both a perfect fit and a perfect look, reported the 16-year old daughter of Dwight and Gail Smith about setting the sleeves.

"It seemed like everything that could go wrong did go wrong. The hardest part was getting the shoulders to look right," said Smith, who felt a particular responsibility to enter the contest in behalf of the industry she represents as the Somerset County Lamb and Wool Queen.

She wants to nab every opportunity to sing the praises of lamb and wool to people who are unaware of its contributions to numerous by-products.

Joan Klein, Darlington, an instructor to about 40 sewing students, won the adult division with a special event outfit. The beautiful fabric came from the Amana Woolen Mills in Amana, Iowa.

The semi-fitted, fully-lined jacket with asymmetrical front closur topped the asymmetrical dress with elbow length sleeves, and princess seams, which meet at the hips and slash pockets. For the lining Klein used a bridal acetate with shades of teal and hunter green.

Like adult winners in other states, Klein will send a photograph and a video of herself wearing the garment to a national photo competition.

Kelsie Smith, Glencoe, was the preteen winner with a fully-lined, deep green hooded cape that she says she made to wear to the historical reenactments her family enjoys attending. She is 11 and the daughter of Dwight and Gail Smith of Glencoe.

Erin Stennett, Irwin, was second in the senior division; Breigh Svonavec, Rockwood, second in juniors; Pam Marburger, Espyville, second in adult, and Leah Huston, Beaver Falls, second in preteen.

Judges were Barbara Black, Unita Dull, Jenna Svonavec, Jo-Rene Lightfoot, and Kathy Vieregge. Coordinators were state directors Jodell Antram and Peggy Black.

The event is sponsored by the American Sheep Industry Association, American Sheep Industry Women, Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Growers Association and Boscovs.

Grandparents, Gifts And Holidays

"Over the river and through the woods, to Grandmother's house we go."

Today's grandparents live in the next house, in the next state, or even in another country.

The grandparent (or elder) of today is different from the grandparent of yesterday. However, giving gifts and getting gifts are a universal challenge. What do we give Grandpa? Or, Grandma wants to know what to give her grandson.

The answer lies in the definition of "gift.' Gifts are an expression of love and caring. The gift can be tangible or intangible. Let's look at some solutions to the dilemma of gifts for grandparents (and other elders, too.).

• Give the gift of appreciation. Be genuinely involved with the elders. Take time to visit. One of the most painful experiences a person can have is to be ignored. Promise to visit with Grandma once a week, either by phone, by letter, e-mail or best of all, in person. It's nice to have someone you like to come to visit — who thinks you are important.

• Exchange the gift of sharing memories. Learn about the heritage of the family. Tell stories. While sharing memories of the past, children can also convey happenings of today. Children help elders better understand what is happening to modern day youth. Children keep grandparents up to date with social changes. Because elders are often less threatening, the rapport between elder and younger may be easier. Grandparents can make better listeners. The elder can become the bridge in the generation gap.

Children fill the world of elders with laughter as they enjoy activities.

• Give the gift of activity. Give an elder a book of free tickets to do things together. Children can make the special tickets to give to Grandpa. The tickets could be to fly a kite together, take a walk, to make a scrap book, to take them to church. Promise to invite Grandma to the school play or concert. Make certain, however, that the gift will not cost the elder any money.

What can elders give youngsters?

• The gift of example. Grandparents are great role models. When children admire their grandparents and other elders, they may assume some of their values. The values are copied. Later, in life, children use what they saw and experienced with their elders as standard of behavior.

While being a role model, elders become great teachers.

• They give the gift of learning. Children enjoy learning from "the Masters of fishing, cooking, woodworking, sewing, playing cards, etc." Working side by side is a true gift. Helping children create and express themselves is rewarding.

• Give children the gift of hope for the future. By sharing trials and tribulations, elders show children that they, too, can overcome life's challenges. When they speak with genuine pride at their accomplishments, elders represent success. The children hear and see the success and they follow.

The key to giving is to give from the heart. The rewards are many and will last for generations. Make it a special holiday.

'User-Friendly' Ozone Ready To Become Tool For Food Safety

PALO ALTO, Calif. — It leaves no taste, odor or flavor. But by passing the Food and Drug Administration's (FDA) initial review in an extremely rigorous process, it has the potential to become the next major tool for the safe treatment, storage and processing of nearly every type of food, including meats, poultry, fruits and vegetables, in the U.S.

With scientists continually studying ways to ensure the ongoing protection of the food supply, for the past several years EPRI's (Electric Power Research Institute) Agriculture and Food Technology Alliance (AFTA) has coordinated an effort to review the use of ozone as a food safety additive, and then to obtain formal federal authorization for this additive.

Though ozone has been used in other countries in food processing, and in the U.S., for water treatment, FDA regulations never listed it as an approved food additive. Despite the designation of ozone in 1997 as "Generally Recognized as Safe" (GRAS) by an independent panel convened by EPRI, this still meant federal approval of ozone use required an extensive petition for consideration by the FDA, which already has accepted it, filed it, and designated it for expedited review — a major hurdle to pass since only one out of every 10 to 12 petitions makes it to the filing stage. Final action on the petition is expected by no later than next February.

"Although the food safety system has worked well, it's important to get ahead of the curve, and the use of ozone as an antimicrobial agent can help the industry do that," said Dr. Chuck Sopher, director of EPRI's AFTA, which is based in Washington, D.C.

"Consumers view microbial — meaning germ and bacteria contamination as their highest food safety concern, and the organisms responsible for diseases continue to mutate. Ozone is an extremely "user-friendly' agent the represents another weapon in the arsenal to help assure the long-term safety of the U.S. food supply."

According to Dr. Dee Graham, manager of EPRI's AFTA Food Office, ozone works as an oxidant to damage the cell walls of harmful microorganisms, thus killing them and leaving only oxygen — but no tastes, odors or flavors — as a by-product. Also, because of ozone's short half-life, it leaves no residual in the food (unlike chlorine).

Besides ozone's initial application food additive, Sopher added that it may offer other beneficial uses in the long run, such as replacing current agricultural pesticides that are being phased out of use, enabling safe storage of crops without the need for fumigation, and providing odor control in the fish industry (such as in fish markets) and in animal operations (such as in hog houses).

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a self-addressed stamped envelope. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Check your recipe to make sure you copy the right amounts and complete instructions for making the recipe. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, but cannot print each one.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address. You may also e-mail questions and answers to lgood.eph@lnpnews.com

Notice: Several readers write that they have problems accessing this address. The common mistake is that readers are substituting an "i" for the lowercase "l (L)" needed in two places. If you are having problems reaching this address, please check to make sure you are typing a lowercase "l (L)" in both places and not a lower or uppercase "i" or "I."

QUESTION — Carol Fulkroad, Millersburg, would like a recipe for frozen yogurt, which can be made in a 1½-quart ice cream freezer

QUESTION — E. H. Martin, New Holland, wants to know if it is possible to make your own frozen bread dough. If so, does it need to rise before freezing or is it shaped and then frozen? A complete recipe would be appreciated.

QUESTION — Vera Moore, Gettysburg, is searching for an oatmeal muffin recipe that had been printed on the large Quaker oatmeal box about eight years ago. The ingredients included applesauce and brown sugar.

QUESTION — Mary Long would like to know how to make a brine in which to preserve cucumbers during the winter months.

QUESTION — Shirley Schwoerer, Wysox, wants a recipe to make biscotti.

QUESTION — Since October is Popcorn Popping Month, N. Kring, Somerset County, would like a recipe for kettle corn, which is a sweetened, salted popcorn sold at county fairs and festivals.

QUESTION — S. Duggan, Swanton, Md., writes that she is embarrassed to ask for a recipe for chocolate banana drink published in this paper within the last several weeks. She cut out the recipe and lost it. We are embarrassed that we don't know which recipe she means. But if anyone clipped out the recipe, please send it in to be reprinted.

QUESTION — A Newburg reader would like recipes for jams and jellies or fruit spreads without sugar or artificial sweetener. She'd like recipes that taste similar to brands such as Polaner's All Fruit, Spreadable Fruit, or Smucker's Simply 100% Fruit.

ANSWER — Barbara Blank, York, wanted a recipe for homemade sauerkraut and the best time to make it. Thanks to an anonymous reader for sending a instructions and for writing that the fall cabbage crop is for making good kraut now.

Sauerkraut

5 pounds shredded cabbage
3 tablespoons coarse salt

Do not use iodized salt, use pickling salt. Combine salt and cabbage and press until juice appears. Repeat process until enough kraut fills 3-5 gallon crock. Keep crock of cabbage at 50-60-degree temperature in order for it to ferment. Usually takes about 6-8 weeks.

Use a plastic bag filled with water to weigh down the crock cover. Check to make sure brine always covers the cabbage.

ANSWER — Pat Elligson, Millers, Md., wanted a recipe for Devil's Food Tunnel Cake. Elizabeth Keener, Chambersburg, sends a different version than the reply printed two weeks ago. Elizabeth writes that she believes this recipe was a Pillsbury Bake-Off recipe. Pillsbury later released a box cake similar to this. Elizabeth's recipe card for this very stained indicating much use. Elizabeth also writes that she uses light olive oil in baking and cooking as much as possible. There is no olive flavor in foods and her LDL cholesterol has dropped dramatically, which she attributes to this practice.

Elizabeth believes that Rumford baking powder (it is a phosphate baking powder) produces much better baked goods than other types of baking powder.

Coconut Fudge Cake

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour any type of large tube pan.

For the filling, beat until smooth:
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
8-ounces softened cream cheese
1 egg

Stir in and set aside:
1 cup semi-sweet chocolate mini chips
½ cup flaked coconut

For the cake batter, beat one minute at high speed:
2 cups sugar
1 cup cooking oil
2 large eggs

Beat in:
1 cup hot coffee
1 cup sour milk or buttermilk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift together and add, beating just until blended. Do not overbeat:
3 cups sifted cake flour
¾ cup baking cocoa powder
2 teaspoons baking soda
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped walnuts or pecans

Stir into batter and pour into prepared pan. Spoon filling over batter. Bake in preheated oven for 70-75 minutes or until cake tests done. Cool in pan 15 minutes then remove to rack to finish cooling.

For the glaze, combine and pour over cooled cake:
1 cup confectioners' sugar
3 tablespoons baking cocoa
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 teaspoons vanilla
1-3 tablespoons hot water

ANSWER — Pat, Hancock, Md., requested a recipe for Cookie Mix in a jar. Thanks to Audrey Minns and other readers for sending many different recipes. Here are a few. More will be printed in upcoming months because many readers request these to prepare for holiday gifts.

Julia's Best Ever Chocolate Chip Cookies In A Jar

1⅔ cups all-purpose flour
¾ teaspoon baking soda
½ cup granulated sugar
2 cups semisweet chocolate chips
½ cup packed brown sugar

Combine flour, baking soda, granulated sugar, and chocolate chips. Place half the mixture in a clean quart-sized glass jar, packing firmly. Place the brown sugar on top, again packing firmly. Place the remaining flour mixture on top. Cover with a lid.

Attach an index card with the following directions: Empty contents of jar into bowl. In separate bowl, combine the following:
1½ eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat until creamy. Add to dry mixture. Drop by tablespoonful onto an ungreased cookie sheet, and bake in a preheated 375 degree oven for 8-10 minutes.

Makes 2 dozen cookies.

Chunky Chocolate Cookie Mix In A Jar

¾ cup packed brown sugar
½ cup granulated sugar
¼ cup unsweetened cocoa powder
½ cup chopped pecans
1 cup jumbo chocolate chips
1¾ cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt

Mix together flour, baking soda, baking powder, and salt. Set aside.

Lyaer ingredients in order into 1-quart widemouth canning jar. Make sure you pack all down firmly before adding the flour mixture—it will be a tight fit. Note: Wipe down the inside of the jar after you add the cocoa powder.

Instructions to attach to jar:

Chunky Chocolate Cookies

Empty cookie mix into large mixing bowl. Use hands to thoroughly blend mix. Add:
¾ cup butter, softened at room temperature. Do not use diet margarine. Add:
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix until completely blended. The dough is sticky, you will need to finish mixing with your hands. Shape into walnut-sized balls and place 2 inches aprat on parchment-lined baking sheets. Do not use waxed paper.

Bake at 350 degrees for 11-13 minutes. Cool 5 minutes on baking sheet. Remove to racks to finish cooling. Makes three dozen cookies.

When Choosing Interior Colors, Take Room-By-Room Tour

(NAPSI) — You want a home with style, comfort and personality. But how do you choose colors that transform builder-beige walls into a personal statement?

First, ask yourself what colors you like. Use colors that make you feel good rather than what you see in design magazines or your neighbor's house. One hint: choose colors that draw compliments when you wear them.

Next, take a room-by-room tour of your house, starting with public spaces where family and friends gather. For these rooms, use warmer colors from your palette of favorites.

Foyer — The entrance is a transitional space that gives visitors their first impression of the home and links the rooms around it. Make it a welcoming space with warm, even high-drama colors: arresting red, sunshine yellow or blackened olive.

Living room-Most people want this room to be a tranquil, formal space for entertaining and relaxing. Colors should be subtle, but still warm. Good choices include dark ivories, grey-toned tans and sages.

Dining room-Colors here should promote appetite and conversation, and reflect the homeowner's entertaining style. Mandarin orange and curry have an exotic effect, while azure blue with oxford cloth white produces a cheerful look.

Family room-An upbeat space that cries out for intense colors. Anything too subtle can leave this room with underachieving walls. Options include terra cotta, coral, gold and cobalt blue.

Kitchen-Make it inviting. Cabinetry and appliances influence color choice: butter pecan looks great with oak cabinets, while plums and taupes show off white cabinets. If there's an attached family room, bring in colors from that room.

A home's private spaces are where family members go to read, work, sleep or escape. Serene colors turn private rooms into relaxing havens.

Bedroom-Emphasize colors that evoke comfort and tranquility. Periwinkle blue and candleglow yellow can be an appealing combination.

Bath-Many women consider the bath their personal sanctuary, and the right color can make it a true escape. Consider sunny yellow, or perhaps the serenity of watery blues and soft greens.

Home office-If it's used as a workspace, choose bright, clean colors that keep energy up. If it's used in the evening for curling up with a book or surfing the Web, go for calmer, deeper colors like taupe and dark sage.

When choosing colors for your home, consider your lifestyle, what you use the room for and what you want the space to say about you. But the basic question should always be: What colors make me feel good?

State Grangers 'Speak Out' At Competitions

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — Members of the Youth and Deaf Activities departments took center stage recently at the the 128th annual Pennsylvania State Grange Convention here with rousing performances in the Public Speaking and Sign-A-Song competitions.

The Public Speaking and Sign-A-Song are two events, which were held at the Grand Ballroom of the Clarion Hotel, that promote the activities of the Grange's Youth and Deaf Activities departments. The Public Speaking and Sign Language judges said the competitions were exciting and enlightening.

Brian Ebersole of Community Grange #1767, Perry County, was a first-place winner in both the Sign-A-Song and Public Speaking competitions. Ebersole won the 20-29 age bracket with an informative speech titled "Life's Lessons" and the individual category of the signing competition.

Jodi Keith, Lincoln Junior Grange #509, Huntingdon County, took the division for youth ages 14-19 with the motivational speech "Milk. It Does a Body Good," and the topic "The Future of the Grange" helped propel Ila May McMillin, Westfield Grange #1514, Lawrence County, to first in the 30 and older category.

The Youth Department of the State Grange is for members ages 14-35. Youth members attend annual retreats, a summer camp. and leadership training seminars to prepare them to be the leaders of tomorrow. The youth program also promotes fellowship and socials that lead to friendships that last a lifetime.

Tina Houser and Rebecca Vonada, both of Logan Grange #109, Centre County, won first-place honors in the group division of the Sign-A-Song competition.

The Deaf and Hard of Hearing Awareness Department is the community service project of the Pennsylvania State and National Granges. The Sign-A-Song contest is one of the outreaches of the Grange's Deaf Activities Department, which promotes sound hearing and works to assist individuals, schools and social agencies that serve the deaf community.

The past few years the Deaf Activities has made a monetary donation during the annual convention to a charity, and the 2000 session proved to be no different.

Deaf Activities Director Pat Beck presented a check for nearly $450 to Teresa Deller, manager, Deaf Center of York located in York County. Deller told the audience of about 250 Grangers assembled for the competitions that the donation will be used to purchase instructional videotapes to assist in the training of individuals interested in a career as a deaf interpreter.

The top three places in each competition were:

Public Speaking

Ages 14-19: 1. Jodi Keith, Lincoln Grange, Huntingdon County. 2. Rebecca Vonada, Logan Grange, Centre County.

Ages 20-29: 1. Brian Ebersole, Community Grange, Perry County. 2. Yvonne Shepherd, Community Grange, Perry County.

Ages 30 and older: 1. Ila May McMillin, Westfield Grange, Lawrence County. 2. Pat Beck, Scrubgrass Grange, Venango County.

Sign-A-Song

Individual division: 1. Brian Ebersole, Community Grange, Perry County. 2. Ila May McMillin, Westfield Grange, Lawrence County. 3. Tina Houser, Logan Grange, Centre County. 4. Rebecca Vonada, Logan Grange, Centre County.

Junior division: 1. Catherine Carberry, Lincoln Grange, Huntingdon County. 2. Jodi Keith, Lincoln Grange, Huntingdon County. 3. Philip Vonada, Logan Grange, Centre County.

Group: 1. Tina Houser and Rebecca Vonada, Logan Grange #109, Centre County.

The first-place winners at the state convention advance to the regional meeting known as the Mid-Atlantic Grange Conference in next spring in New Jersey. They will face Grange Youth members from six other states. The winners of the Mid-Atlantic Youth Conference will perform for national honors at the National Grange convention in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, in November 2001.

Somerset Cooperative Extension Plans Annual Meeting

SOMERSET (Somerset Co.) — The annual meeting and banquet of the Somerset County Cooperative Extension Association will be held on Thursday, Nov. 9, at the Masonic Temple, Somerset. A social time to view educational displays begins at 6 p.m. with the stuffed pork chop dinner served at 6:30 p.m.

The annual business meeting will include the election of new board members and presentation of the annual program report highlighting programs in agriculture, family living, 4-H, and youth. Several local residents will give the program a personal approach as they share how Cooperative Extension has touched their lives. A written annual report will be provided.

Attend the annual meeting and banquet by making reservations at the Cooperative Extension Office, 165 E. Union Street, Somerset or by calling (814) 445-8911. Adult tickets are $8 per person. Reservation deadline is Nov. 1.

Honey Queen Candidates Needed

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — The Pennsylvania Beekeepers Association is seeking qualified candidates for the Pennsylvania Honey Queen title. Contestants will compete for the title during the PSBA annual winter meeting and convention held at the Country Cupboard in Lewisburg, Nov. 10-11.

Each candidate must be no younger than 17 and no older than 21, and must be sponsored by a beekeeper or a local association, which will pay the expenses of the candidate while she attends the convention to compete.

The candidate must write a 300-word essay entitled "Honey" and complete all necessary applications. During the competition, candidates will be interviewed by a committee and judged on general appearance, poise, ability to speak to the public, and basic knowledge of the beekeeping industry.

If crowned queen, the candidate must be able to make herself available for promotions and must maintain a scrapbook of her activities.

Following her reign as state queen, she will be eligible to compete for the title of American Honey Queen at the American Beekeeping Federation Convention.

For more information concerning the honey queen program, or to obtain rules and an application, interested candidates should contact Linda Hackenburg, queen committee chairman, at (570) 568-2337 or Pennsylvania Honey Queen, Renee Blatt, at (717) 865-4517.

Montgomery County Granger Is Best Of Show At State Grange Convention

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — By day, Matthew Wismer is a typical dairy farmer — someone who toils long hours caring for his herd, cultivating the crops, and performing all those jobs necessary to run a successful operation.

By night, however, the Montgomery County Granger chucks his work clothes for a tuxedo and takes on a completely different persona — that of a semiprofessional concert pianist and entertainer.

Wismer took Best of Show honors during the Talent Night Festival recently at the 128th annual Pennsylvania State Grange Convention here, and won the right to represent the Pennsylvania State Grange at the National Grange Convention next month in Fresno, Calif.

"I'm looking forward to it since I've never been to California," Wismer, of Keystone Grange #2 in Trappe, said after of the competition. "I feel confident about the music I've selected, and am honored that I will be representing Pennsylvania Grangers at the national session."

Wismer, whose musical repertoire ranges from classical to modern pop, said he picked what he calls a medley of "popular classical" to perform before the 500 Grangers in attendance at the festival held in the auditorium of Boiling Springs High School. Calling it "The Carlisle Overture" in honor of the session being held here, Wismer's performance included Tchaikovsky's "Piano Concerto," Mozart's "Symphony #40," Strauss' "Blue Danube Waltz," Lizst's "Hungarian Rhapsody," Beethoven's "Fur Elise," and the "William Tell Overture."

Wismer said he squeezed practice sessions — in addition to working the 230-acre, 190-herd dairy farm and spending time with his wife and two children — into the early morning or late night hours in the month leading up to the festival. Wismer, who is in a partnership with his father, Charles Wismer, grows alfalfa, corn, wheat and rye, and has approximately 120 milking cows and 70 calves and heifers.

"It could have been a little more polished," Wismer said in critiquing his performance, "but considering the amount of time I invested, I am doubly satisfied with the outcome."

Wismer said he supplements his farming income by playing the piano at corporate affairs, parties and organizational programs.

The Runner-Up Best of Show, 17-year-old Paul Elliot of Hookstown Grange, Beaver County, sang a spiritual song called "People Need the Lord" and will represent Pennsylvania if Wismer is unable to compete in California. Elliot, a senior at South Side High School, performs in school and local theatre productions and plans to have a career in the arts after he graduates from college with a degree in theatre/arts.

The Grange talent show encompasses individual and family group performances in vocal, instrumental and other acts (theatrical skits and scenes) categories. Sponsored by the Lecturer's Department, which is in charge of programming at local, county and state Grange meetings, the Pennsylvania State Grange Lecturer's Department handed out awards to the top Subordinate (local) and Pomona (county) Lecturer of the Year.

Keith Grim of Lehigh/Northampton Pomona Grange #68, who was the 1999 Pomona Lecturer of the Year, was awarded the Subordinate Lecturer of the Year sash for 2000 while Faye Heckman of Berks County Pomona Grange #43, was honored as Pomona Lecturer of the Year. The Subordinate and Pomona Lecturer of the Year are judged on the programs they run at their Granges during the past year.

Bently, the tame buffalo, and his owner, Anne Brooks travel to fairs, nursing homes, schools, and other events.

Tame Buffalo Attracts Crowds

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — "Bently" the tame buffalo from Centre County made a personal appearance at the Darrow Buffalo farm near Bedford as a part of the Fall Foliage celebration.

The Darrows capitalize on the crowds drawn by the annual county seat fall foliage event and have their own festival. "We get a lot of the overflow," says Ann.

In addition to a re-enactment, Indian craftsmen, storytelling, and dream catcher making, the Darrows serve fresh apple cider, buffalo burgers, buffalo sausage, and samples of buffalo chili.

Bently, from Centre County, got top billing this year. Owned by Anne Brooks, it is not the first time Bently has been to Bedford County. Bedford High School has the bison for a mascot, and Bently appears annually in the homecoming parade.

"We have a small farm with a few buffalo, mostly raised for meat, and horses," explains Anne. "However, we always wanted a tame buffalo, one we could take to parades and festivals as well as schools or nursing homes."

Bently arrived at the Brooks home when only two days old.

"We bottle fed him and played with him a lot," Anne said. "We hoped for the best and figured that we would might have to eat him if it didn't work out."

While this might be enough to make most buffalo nervous, Bently contentedly stands in a small corral at exhibits and munches on the tasty green grass, if available.

His stable man, Bill Leonard, sometimes does a little rough housing.

"I back off quickly if I see he is going to get rough," Bill laughs. "If we really got into a tussle, I know Bently would win."

"He's like people in a lot ways," Anne says. "He's very good-natured until he gets tired, and then he gets grumpy."

"I drove for two hours from Pittsburgh just to see Bently," said one young lady visitor. Anne explains to her as well as to all that stop by that you can touch his back or his nose, but don't go for the top of his head. He doesn't like anything near his eyes.

A hit with school children, Bently is even more of a delight at nursing homes. "We have all who can come outside to see him, and we can take him on the porch for those who are confined indoors."

Anne tells the story of one lady who had not been out of her room in more than a year. She had a small porch near her window and Anne declared that if she did not come out on the porch, they were going to take the buffalo inside. She came out smiling and was delighted to see a real buffalo.

While most buffalo are not neutered, Bently is an exception as it has helped to make him more of a pet.

Not only does Bently enjoy the local fame he has achieved, he also received top billing at the Pennsylvania Farm Show and Penn State's Ag Progress Days.

Ann has certainly achieved her goal of having a tame buffalo!

Calcium For Halloween Skeletons

Susquehanna County Dairy Princess Kelly Diaz writes that Halloween is just around the corner, and you still might be wondering what you should be for Halloween.

She asks, "What comes to your mind when you think Halloween? Witches, bats, pumpkins, and skeletons come to mind. But a skeleton needs plenty of calcium to keep it's "spooky' shape."

About 99 percent of the body's calcium is in the bones and teeth, and the remaining one percent is circulating in the blood stream. Calcium is not only good for your teeth and bones, but it helps the clotting of blood, nerve impulses, and it helps muscles, like your heart, contract and relax normally.

How much calcium should you be drinking? If you are an adult-three glasses; under 18-four glasses; pregnant-four glasses; and a pregnant teenager-five glasses.

Looking for some Halloween party ideas? Check out the following "ghouling" Halloween titled recipes.

Mucus Membrane Milkshake
2 cups buttermilk
2 scoops vanilla ice cream
½ cup pineapple juice
4 tablespoons brown sugar
2 cups milk
Measure all of the ingredients, except the milk, into a blender. Then blend on medium speed until smooth and creamy. Add more ice cream if you like your "mucus" extra thick.

Fill tall glasses with the mixture and refrigerate. Heat the milk in a small pan over medium heat until it begins to boil. Remove from the heat and let it cool until it develops a film on its surface. Using a wooden spoon, carefully scoop off the film and place some on top of each milkshake.

If you need more "mucus," just reheat the remaining milk and repeat this step. Blend chunks of pineapple into your milkshake (for phlegm balls) or red cherries (for blood clots).

Strained Eyeballs
6 eggs, hardcooked, cooled, and peeled
6-ounce whipped cream cheese
12 green olives stuffed with pimentos
red food coloring or ketchup

Half eggs, widthwise. Remove yolks and fill the hole with cream cheese, smoothing surface as much as possible. Press an olive into each cream cheese "eyeball," pimento up, for an eerie green iris and red pupil. Dip a toothpick into ketchup and draw broken blood vessels in the cream cheese.

How To Grow A Giant Pumpkin

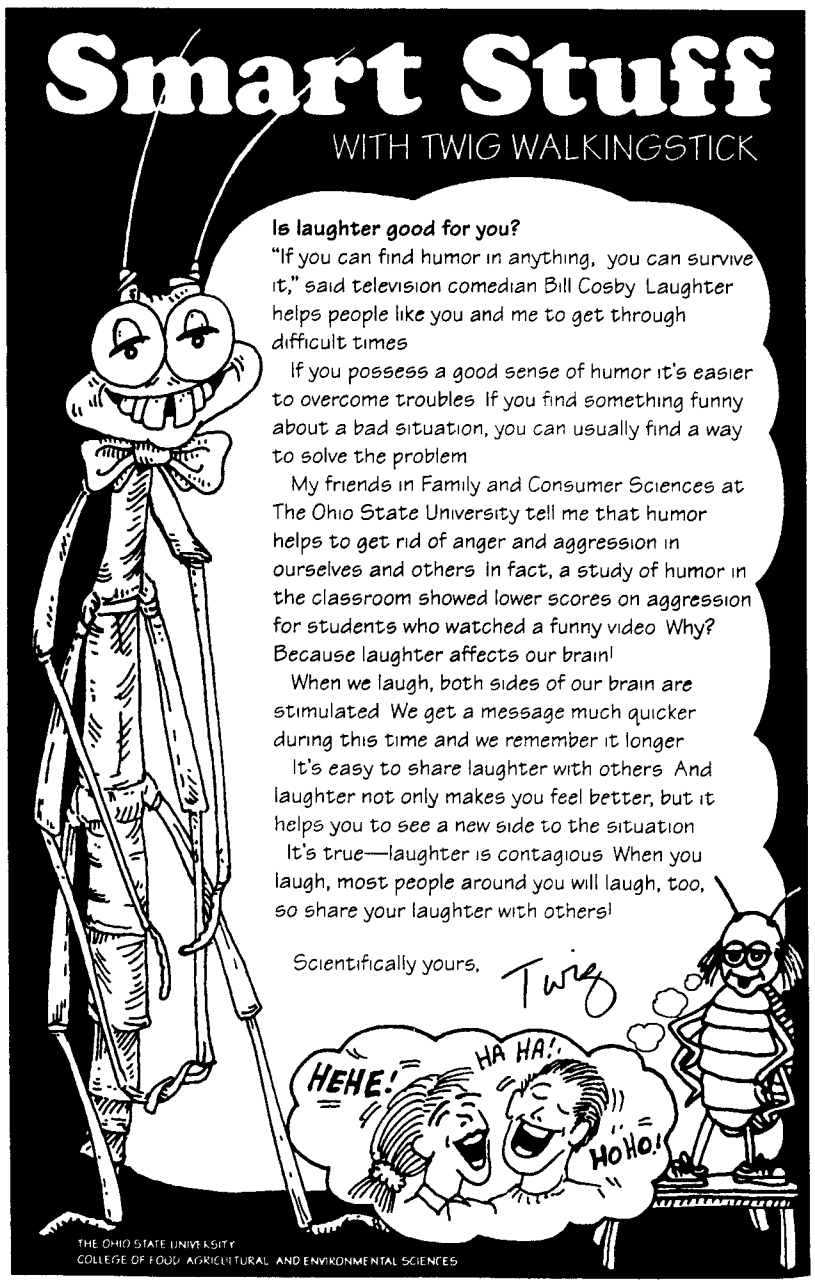
According to OSU Extension experts, growing a giant pumpkin requires an early start. To grow a giant pumpkin in time for Halloween, you should begin the process in April.

To start, you'll need pumpkin seeds, 12-inch peat pots, and a well-balanced potting medium. Ask an adult for help locating these items.

Sow giant pumpkin seeds in individual pots indoors about the end of April. When the first leaf appears and unrolls, the baby pumpkin plants are ready to be transplanted in your pumpkin patch-usually 10 to 14 days after seeding.

Space is very important because your giants will need lots of room. Each plant needs about 2,500 square feet. And make sure to plant them in a very sunny area with good drainage. It's also a good idea to fertilize your plants. Ask an adult to test the soil and help you apply the appropriate nutrients.

Pumpkins have a shallow root system, so water slowly. They need at least one inch of water per week. Water in morning or early afternoon so the leaves will dry by evening. This helps prevent disease. Each plant will produce several pumpkins. When they reach volleyball size, trim back to one pumpkin. This will allow one pumpkin to receive all of the nutrients. And the more it eats, the bigger it will grow!



Smart Stuff
WITH TWIG WALKINGSTICK
Is laughter good for you?
"If you can find humor in anything, you can survive it," said television comedian Bill Cosby. Laughter helps people like you and me to get through difficult times.
If you possess a good sense of humor it's easier to overcome troubles. If you find something funny about a bad situation, you can usually find a way to solve the problem.
My friends in Family and Consumer Sciences at The Ohio State University tell me that humor helps to get rid of anger and aggression in ourselves and others. In fact, a study of humor in the classroom showed lower scores on aggression for students who watched a funny video. Why? Because laughter affects our brain!
When we laugh, both sides of our brain are stimulated. We get a message much quicker during this time and we remember it longer.
It's easy to share laughter with others. And laughter not only makes you feel better, but it helps you to see a new side to the situation.
It's true—laughter is contagious. When you laugh, most people around you will laugh, too, so share your laughter with others!
Scientifically yours,
Twig

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Or, you may e-mail questions and answers to lgood.eph@lnpnews.com

Please clarify what question you are answering when responding.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

When you read this, I'll probably be flying home from a week spent in Indiana with our daughter's family. They have a month-old baby for us to visit. And, we have not seen their new home since they moved last summer.

She has been enjoying her two months off from her work with Procter and Gamble. Their two older boys are anxious to see their grandparents. You will hear more about our trip later.

The other evening I went with my husband and son to an American Chestnut meeting of the Lancaster-Lebanon region. The members attending were mostly older retired men. They are interested in restoring the American Chestnut tree to the forests of Pennsylvania.

There is a farm in York County, entirely devoted to cross-breeding the Chinese chestnut with the American chestnut to develop a blight-free tree. At one time one out of every four trees in our forests was a chestnut. It's lumber is comparable to redwood or oak lumber and it does not rot. It has a straight grain and grew to 100 feet.

There will need to be several more generations of cross breeding before a blight-free tree is available for sale. Sportsmen like the tree as its ample supply of nuts feed deer, turkey, bear and squirrels. In the early 1900s before the blight struck, railroad cars full of nuts were shipped to the big cities. They were a major cash crop for many families.

Lately, I've been baking a lot of apple cakes. One was for guests in our home. One was for a special apple dessert meeting and another was for a funeral meal at our church. I enjoy baking but I am ready to try another recipe. Maybe, I'll dig out my gingerbread cake recipe from long ago.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Regional 4-H Horse Production Show

York County had 14 production horses entered in the Regional 4-H Horse Production Show at Shippensburg Fairgrounds in August.

The 4-H Horse Production project requires members to work with young horses so they experience aspects of care and training involved with raising horses.

Blue ribbon winners were Billie Jo Augustine, Lewisberry, Appaloosa, yearling gelding; B.J. Dabler, Dover, hunter type horse colt/gelding of this year; Samantha Dunn, English 4-year-old pleasure futurity; Katie Griffith, York, Palomino yearling filly; Krista Lynn Healy, Glenville, thoroughbred filly of this year; Leanne Healy, Glenville, hunter type pony filly of this year; Danielle Shaffer, York, paint yearling gelding and English 3-year-old pleasure futurity; Brandon Shank, Mechanicsburg, Arabian yearling filly; and Jennifer Stanley, Windsor, Pony of Americas yearling filly.

The blue ribbon winners will be competing in classes at the Pennsylvania State 4-H Horse Show, Oct. 27-29 at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Classes begin each day at 8 a.m.

Delaware County 4-H Archery Club

The Delaware County 4-H Archery Club will be reorganizing for the new year Monday, Nov. 6, from 6 p.m.-7 p.m. at Middletown Archery, Media. New members are welcome.

It is requested that new members first take one private lesson ($10) at Middletown before joining. This is to learn basic safety and skills and to insure that they enjoy the sport.

According to Judy V. MacRone, county extension agent/4-H, meetings will be Mondays from 6 p.m.- 7 p.m. at Middletown Archery. (If there is a large turnout, there will also be a group from 4:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.) The fee for each meeting will be $5 to cover the cost of the professional instruction and the use of the equipment and facilities.

If you are interested in joining, contact July MacRone at the 4-H office, (610) 690-2655 or Grace Gilbert at Middletown Archery, (610) 566-8092 to schedule a private lesson.

If you are interested in learning more about becoming a 4-H member or adult volunteer, contact Lebanon County Cooperative Extension at (717) 270-4391.

Cumberland County Wide 4-H Dairy Club

The Cumberland County Wide 4-H Dairy Club meeting conducted Oct. 9, with Vice President Amy Kulick calling the meeting to order at 7:30 p.m.

The club welcomed two new members.

Under old business, Zach Travis provided a County Council report. Everyone that went to the state junior show and showmanship contest described their experience. John Ocker provided a report on the leader's meeting.

Under new business, the club formed a committee to select a boy and a girl's name from the K-Mart Christmas Giving Tree. Kathy Walton reminded everyone to sign up for refreshments, demonstrations, and program suggestions. Then the club conducted election of new officers. New officers are Zach Travis, president; vice president, Melissa Detman; recording secretary, Greg Hammond; corresponding secretary, Aaron Cornman; treasurer, Tori Fuller; news reporter, Janel Zinn; and Mariah Panyter, game leaders.

The club included two demonstrations by Janel Zinn and Brian Nailor. Janel's was on "Which Bran Has More Raisins." Brian's was on the Dillsburg Fair. He described all the events scheduled for the fair.

Warren County 4-H Members To State 4-H Horse Show

Nine Warren County 4-H horse club members will be participating in the Pennsylvania State 4-H Horse Show, Oct. 27-29 at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Participants have competed at the county and an eight-county northwest district show to earn the honor of being in the state show, according to Phyllis Wright, extension agent.

Adrianne Lowe of Bear Lake and Sugar Grove Ruff Riders will show her production horse Lil Miss Madison in 4-year-old English pleasure futurity class and Special Dee Bar's Sly in stock seat equitation senior division. She is the daughter of Rick and Diane Lowe.

Kahlee Maynard of Corry and Columbus Wranglers will show a filly of this year in the paint production class. She is the daughter of Shawn and Kim Maynard.

Kelly Portice of Corry — Columbus Wranglers Club will show Hilton's Mariah in filly of this year Morgan class and Hilton's Larissa Lu in 3-year-old English pleasure futurity class. She is the daughter of Ed and Kay Portice.

Patrick Wright of Russell and Starbrick Stablemates will show Hilton's Challenger in raised box keyhole pointer. He is the son of Denny Wright of Bear Lake and Gail Wright of Russell.

Superior Teen, Others Lauded At Lancaster 4-H Banquet

Scholarships of $1,000 each go to Mark Graybill and Jessica Schmidt.

Enabling the 4-H program to be a success are Jake Fisher, named Friend of 4-H for his 19 years of developing the 4-H fund-raising program, and Becky Miller, for her service on the 4-H leaders advisory council.

Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Behind every successful 4-H'er is a supportive family. And Superior 4-H'er Mark Graybill said that his 4-H career has been a family affair.

The prestigious annual 4-H award is given annually to a member whose culmative all around participation in the program has helped him or her develop into an outstanding youth based on leadership and skills displayed.

Mark said of his parents, Dale and Joyce, and sisters, Sarah and Rebecca, "It's a family affair that enables us to work together and keep things flowing."

About 280 people attended the annual 4-H Recognition Night last week at Yoder's Restaurant, New Holland. Recognized were numerous 4-H members and adults for their achievements throughout the past year.

Mark, a freshman at Messiah College, has been active as a teen leader for the past four years in addition to participating in numerous clubs. He's been a delegate to the National 4-H convention, participated in regional 4-H leadership conferences, received a $1,000 4-H scholarship, and a $50 record scrapbook award.

"The 4-H motto is to make the best better. Although I am not the best, I have developed into a better person," Mark said of his 4-H involvement. He recalled being shy and refusing to try new things in his beginning years.

Behind Superior 4-H'er Mark Graybill is a supportive family. With Mark, center, are parents Dale and Joyce, and sisters Sarah and Rebecca.

One thing he did was become a teen leader for a rocketry club. It started with five members and, four years later, has grown to 30 members.

"It's definitely been the most difficult thing I did in my entire 4-H years," Mark said of having his patience tested when every member needs help at the exact same moment.

"This award is not just the culmination of my 4-H years, but another highlight. I hope to stay involved in helping with projects," Mark said.

If he is like his mother, Mark will stay involved. A former 4-H'er, she became a volunteer leader when Mark joined 4-H. At the banquet, Joyce was honored for her 10 years of volunteer leader.

It was the 18th year the award has been presented to an outstanding 4-H'er. Kerry Boyd presented the award, which had been established in honor of his parents, Elmer L. and Pauline Boyd, who had been 4-H leaders.

Numerous individual and club awards were handed out for the year's achievements. Some of the most outstanding were scrapbook awards to Reid Fellenbaum, Lisa Hershey, and Kelsey Lenox, 1-3 years; Rebecca Graybill, Erik Nussbaum, and Kelly Pitman, 4-6 years; and Sarah Boyd, Mark Graybill, Sarah Graybill, and Janine Leaman, 7-10 years.

The award program was interspersed with talent presentations by 4-H members. These included Elizabeth Davis, Christine Keefer, Kevin Hoober, Sarah Graybill, Margaret Thomas, and Kaeti Rosenberg.

Record scrapbook winners included Rebecca Graybill, Erik Nussbaum, Sarah Graybill, Mark Graybill, Sarah Boyd, Lisa Hershey, Reid Fellenbaum, and Kelsey Lenox.

Junior honor roll winners included Rebecca Graybill, Kelly Pitman, and Mandie Holloway. Senior honor roll winners were Sarah Graybill, Mary Zeng, and Rebecca Gordon.

Adult award recipients included readers recognized for outstanding service to the 4-H program. The most notable were 30-year award winners Kendy Allen, Rose Fellenbaum, and Nancy Good.

Jake Fisher received the Friend of 4-H Award for his 19 years of developing the 4-H fund-raising program.

Riding Competition Announces Winners

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Young equestrians from six Pennsylvania counties participated in the annual Pennsylvania 4-H State Competitive Trail Ride recently in Rothrock State Forest and Penn Roosevelt State Park.

More than 25 4-H horse and pony club members from Armstrong, Bedford, Jefferson, Lancaster, Wayne, and York counties participated in the untimed trail competitions, which took place on 29-mile-long marked trails over winding roads and wooded terrain at a timed pace.

Judges observed the ride, inspecting the horses before and after the competition. Scoring was based on the overall condition of the horse, with points subtracted for failure to complete each segment of the ride within the specified time. All riders received a participation award and ribbon. The ride also offered high point awards in three divisions.

This year's division winners were Chandrelle Asper of York County (high point 4-H junior rider), Jennifer Adamitis of Wayne County (high point 4-H senior rider), and Sharon Brady of York County (high point adult rider).

"Competitive trail riding is a great sport that demonstrates teamwork between horse and rider," said Brian Egan, horse program assistant for Penn State Cooperative Extension." A good horse for trail competition doesn't just happen — long hours of hard work are required of horse and rider. The 4-H'ers learn to select a good trail horse, to condition it properly, and to develop riding skills, and learn what to expect of themselves and the horse to have a successful experience. They also learn about proper conservation methods, care of the campsite and trail, sportsmanship, horsemanship, cooperation, and teamwork."

This ride is an annual event coordinated by Egan and Patricia Comerford, Penn State extension horse program coordinator, assisted by Richard Ely, 4-H leader from Somerset County and Fred Rudy, Dauphin County cooperative extension agent. Additional help for the ride is provided by the Pennsylvania Department of Conservation and Natural Resources, the Bureau of Forestry and members of the Nittany Amateur Radio Club, Penn State animal science student volunteers, Centre Equine Practice, and many local volunteers.

The Competitive Trail Ride project is open to all 4-H horse and pony club members in Pennsylvania. For more information or to schedule a special winter or spring meeting on trail riding, contact your local Penn State Cooperative Extension office or call Brian Egan at (814) 863-3957.

Correction

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A listing supplied to Lancaster Farming incorrectly identified the grand champion of the Simmental heifer class here at the recent Keystone International Livestock Expo.

The grand champion was the senior champion from the early junior yearling heifer class, Cooks Mulan, exhibited by John W. Cook Farms, Pittsgrove, N.J.

LEITZEL & KLINE AUCTIONEERS

Saturday, November 4, 2000

9:00 AM

Located approximately 50 miles North of Harrisburg, PA in the Village of Richfield, PA along Market Street, one block off Route 35, turn at the bank.

REAL ESTATE

A large lot whereon is erected a 2-story frame house consisting of three bedrooms, 1-1/2 baths, kitchen, dining room, living room, full attic and a small basement. The house is heated with a forced hot air-oil furnace and has an electric hot water heater. The house will soon be hooked up to town sewage and water. Currently it has town water and its own septic tank. A nice extra - there is power house 5000 generator already wired and hooked up and will be sold with the property. Also, there is an unattached one car garage w/a back storage area.

To see Real Estate call (717) 694-3693 or (570) 374-4405. Real Estate will be offered at 12:00 noon. Any tests may be done on the property at the potential buyers expense.

You're Invited To Be Part Of The Mid Atlantic Area's

2001 AG DIRECTORY

This exclusive publication will serve as the ultimate resource guide for county agents and state agricultural agencies, and also serve as a "Yellow Pages" for farmers all across the Mid Atlantic.

The 2001 Ag Directory, will be included in Lancaster Farming's total circulation, and be distributed at the Pennsylvania and Keystone Farm Shows. That's more than 55,000 booklets in circulation! This Directory is the only one of its type to be distributed in this area.

Be a part of it.

Ridge Administration Observes 'World Food Day'

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. recently joined representatives of state and community-based food-assistance agencies to observe World Food Day at the Capitol.

"Today we pledge our continued efforts to ensure that all Pennsylvanians have access to food," Hayes said. "We urge all Pennsylvanians to help eliminate hunger and malnutrition."

This year's theme is "A New Century Without Hunger."

Hayes noted that Pennsylvania is a national leader in providing emergency food assistance to needy Pennsylvanians. In 2000-2001, the Agriculture Department provided $16 million in cash grants to counties to purchase and distribute food through the State Food Purchase Program.

Hayes recognized individuals from food-assistance agencies across Pennsylvania who have volunteered their time to work in food banks, soup kitchens, and other programs to help those in need. They include:

- Adams County: George and Dottie Colman, Gettysburg Food Pantry, Gettysburg.
- Allegheny County: William G. Nichols, Whitehall Church of Christ Food Pantry, Pittsburgh.
- Berks County: Betty Quire, Greater Berks Food Bank, Reading.
- Blair County: Frank Thompson, The Salvation Army, Altoona.
- Bucks County: Martha Miller, No Longer Bound, Bristol.
- Butler County: Cindy Gilch, The Lighthouse Foundation, Butler.
- Carbon County: Isabel Zickler, Shepherd House, Lehighton.
- Chester County: Elmer Duckinfield, The Gleaning Program of Chester County, West Chester; and Patricia Sobecki, The Lord's Pantry, Downingtown.
- Elk County: Lenora T. Hepner, Christian Food Bank, St. Marys.

Hayes also presented awards to student winners of a statewide poster contest who submitted posters under the theme "A New Century Without Hunger."

The first-place winner in the elementary-school category was Luke Fetkovich, a sixth-grader at Greensburg Salem Middle School in Greensburg, Westmoreland County. Kristi McManus, a seventh-grader at Greensburg Middle School, Greensburg, Westmoreland County, was named as the winner in the junior high-school division. The high-school division winner was Marisa Hermanovich, a senior at Stroudsburg High School, Stroudsburg, Monroe County.

First-place winners each receive a $100 U.S. Savings Bond donated by the Pennsylvania Food Merchants Association for their efforts.

Grade School
Honorable Mention

- Nick Ciccone, St. Mary's Visitation School, Grade 6, Dickson City, Lackawanna County.
- Kendra Srebro, St. Mary's Visitation School, Grade 6, Dickson City, Lackawanna County.
- Amanda Krawczyk, St. Mary's Visitation School, Grade 6, Dickson City, Lackawanna County.
- Eliza Hall, Montgomery Elementary School, Grade 4, Lycoming County.

Junior High School
Honorable Mention

- Miranda Miller, Keith Jr. High School, Grade 9, Altoona, Blair County.
- Josh Tezak, Prince of Peace School, Grade 8, Steelton, Dauphin County.
- Jennifer Scott, Apollo-Ridge Middle School, Grade 7, Spring Church, Armstrong County.
- Brittany Sleasman, Berlin Brothersvalley High School, Grade 9, Berlin, Somerset County.

High School
Honorable Mention

- Ryan Plucienski, Glen Mills Schools, Grade 11, Concordville, Delaware County.
- Mike Meyers, Exeter Township Senior High School, Grade 12, Reading, Berks County.
- Austin Wells, Antietam Middle/Senior High School, Grade 12, Reading, Berks County.
- Brian Hannon, Philadelphia High School for Creative and Performing Arts, Grade 12, Philadelphia.

Leuenberger Joins Council

MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) — Paula K. Leuenberger, MS, RD, has joined the organization as Director of Nutrition and Health at the Pennsylvania Beef Council.

Illinois born and Ohio raised, Leuenberger graduated from Penn State with a bachelor of science degree in biological health/nutrition and Case Western Reserve University with a masters of science in public health nutrition, in addition to a dietetic internship. Because of her marriage, Leuenberger moved to Switzerland, where she attended the University of Bern for German/Swiss German proficiency. She subsequently obtained positions at the Ludwig Institute for Cancer Research and later the Institute for Social and Preventive Medicine, University of Zurich.

Trading Swiss chocolate for Hershey chocolate, Leuenberger returned to Pennsylvania where she enjoyed a half-time faculty position at the Milton S. Hershey Medical Center, Penn State, as a member of an osteoporosis research team in the Division of Orthopedic Surgery.

Most recently, while raising three daughters, Leuenberger has continued to work part-time as a consultant for Cooperative Extension and industry; as an undergraduate instructor for Penn State; and as a German instructor. Leuenberger is a 4-H leader, a member of the Lebanon County 4-H Board of Directors, and is active in the community.

At the Pa. Beef Council, Paula will connect with both health professional and consumers.

USDA To Change Absentee Ballot Procedures

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Kathleen Merrigan, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, recently announced that USDA will amend the final rule on the conduct of the pork checkoff program referendum.

An interim final rule will clarify requirements for counting absentee ballots and establish an additional five business days for challenging absentee votes.

In-person voting took place Sept. 19-21 at Farm Service Agency (FSA) county offices. Absentee voting was conducted Aug. 18-Sept. 21. "These changes will ensure that everybody has an equal opportunity to challenge absentee voters and that all eligible absentee votes will be counted," said Merrigan.

The final rule required absentee ballots to be received by FSA county offices before a producer's vote could be challenged. Persons voting by absentee ballot were required to print their name and address on the outside of the mailing envelope so that FSA county offices could check whether the absentee ballot had been returned.

Because of incorrect completion or missing names and addresses on some envelopes, FSA county offices were not able to determine the name of the person returning the absentee ballot. The office was then unable to post a complete list of absentee voters for public review and challenging.

As a result, AMS is amending the final referendum rule to clarify that if a producer failed to print his or her name and address correctly on the official "Pork Referendum" envelope (LS-73-1), it will not automatically invalidate the ballot. The amendment will allow for an additional five business days for interested parties to review the absentee voter request list posted in FSA county offices and challenge producers who requested absentee ballots. Absentee voters whose ballots are challenged will be given five business days after notification of a challenge to submit proof of eligibility.

"The ballot-counting process will still begin on Nov. 29," said Enrique Figueroa, deputy under secretary for USDA's Marketing and Regulatory Programs. "We do not anticipate that the final interim rule will change the date when ballots will be counted." Final results are anticipated for announcement by the end of December.

Producers who owned and sold one or more pigs or hogs from Aug. 18, 1999-Aug. 17, 2000 were eligible to vote.

Board Mandates An Increase

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board Chairwoman Beverly R. Minor recently announced that the board members voted unanimously to add 20 cents to the current over-order premium of $1.25, which includes the fuel adjustment of $.25 per one hundred pounds of milk.

The over-order premium is paid on Class I (bottled) milk produced, processed, and sold within the state. The additional $.20 will be in effect for the months of November and December 2000.

Beginning Nov. 1, 2000, the total over-order premium placed on Class I milk that is produced, processed, and sold in Pennsylvania will be $1.45. This action is the result of an emergency hearing of the board held Oct. 4, 2000.

The hearing was held in response to a petition submitted to the board by Dairylea Cooperative Inc. and Dairy Farmers of America North East Council.

The board based its decision on testimony presented at the hearing showing that the additional $.20 for November and December responds appropriately to the cost-price squeeze resulting from higher production costs and lower milk prices to Pennsylvania dairy farmers.

Representatives from the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau and the Pennsylvania Milk Dealer's Association voiced their organizations support for the $.20 increase.

The over-order premium is a dollar amount added to the minimum Class I price to be paid to Pennsylvania dairy farmers that is announced by the Federal Government and the Milk Marketing Board monthly. Pennsylvania has mandated an over-order premium on Class I milk produced, processed, and sold in Pennsylvania since 1988. Though September 2000, the premium has generated an additional $213,472,000 to Pennsylvania dairy farmers.

Helicopters To Land On Ohio Herdland

BARNESVILLE, Ohio — Helicopters will be spotted from different points in southeastern Ohio headed toward Dickinson Cattle Company north of Barnesville in Belmont County.

Helicopters will land in the area of Texas Longhorn cattle herds on the Dickinson property. This will not be a medical emergency, a drug search, livestock mutilation or unidentified flying objects from another planet, even though numerous landings will be during late night hours.

The West Virginia Army National Guard Company C 2nd Bn 104th Aviation, under the direction of Harold F. Nicely (CW4), will be training aviators primarily to provide transport of men, supplies, and reconnaissance to the 28th Infantry Division Mechanized. The unit is made up of 36 aviators with 17 aircraft, 11 UH-1 Huey utility, and 6 OH-58 scout reconnaissance helicopters.

National Guard Aviators must train to the same standards as active duty counterparts and conduct 96 flight hours of training annually per crew. This involves flight with low level terrain of Pinnacle and Ridgeline operations. The reclaim land at Dickinson Cattle Company is perfect for this training. Flights will be conducted during both day and night and include the use of night vision goggles, which is the most demanding mode of flight training. Operations will originate at the Ohio County Airport.

Test landings and flyovers have been conducted during September to evaluate livestock reactions. Helicopter close proximity lands are not a normal protocol for cow herds. Chief Nicely and Aviator Lt. Matt Hasslock found the Texas Longhorn cattle at Dickinson Cattle Company to be quite curious and relaxed during the numerous test runs.

Dickinson Cattle Company, owned by the Dickinson family of Barnesville, is well-known for championship Texas Longhorn and BueLingo registered cattle. Ranch manager Joel Dickinson said, "We are quite willing to allow the property to be used for military training. It is the least we can do to assist our nation in local and global emergency readiness." The recent test landings were just a precautionary experiment to check the Longhorn's reactions before full blown training schedules began.

The Dickinson property in Kirkwood Township was selected by military authorities as an ideal location with its rough but open landscape. Chief Nicely has been hunting such an area and is also pleased with the air time distance. He said, "There is no such property in the Wheeling area and flight travel time of 30 minutes or less is suitable to allow us enough time on station to conduct our training needs without refueling. The large acreage allows sufficient maneuver room for climbs and turns without over flight of inhabited residences, which could cause disturbance of people living there. In any area we train, there is a possible noise problem so this type of remote area is very helpful to our long range success."

The West Virginia Army National Guard is making test training landings on Dickinson Cattle Company north of Barnesville, Ohio. This is the beginning of a major helicopter aviator's training program, which will be held for years to come.

NY State Fair Activities More Beefed Up Than Ever

NYBIC Chairman, Daryl Heisey looks on as Rick Gary and Christie Casciano of WIXT — Channel 9 build the "Ultimate Beef Hero."

SYRACUSE, NY — Upon entering the New York State fairgrounds, it was apparent to fairgoers that it was Beef Day.

The day's activities were designed to highlight the beef industry's initiative to promote convenient products. Representatives of the beef and veal industry offered samples of fully-cooked products, delivered food safety information, and recognized the producers in the Empire State.

The Beef Day "Beef Up Your Hero" media sandwich making contest was a hit with all that attended. Judges for the event were Lorraine Smorol of the Syracuse New Times, Nathan Rudgers, Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets, and the State Fair Director Peter Cappuccilli, Jr.

Big Jim Donovan of 93Q FM and Dan Cunningham, President of the New York Beef Producer's Association created "Big Jim's Big Jerk Hero" using Hormel's Pot Roast Au Jus. Their sandwich received the "Galactic Hero" Award for its "Out of this World" size.

Cricket from WFRG — Big Frog 104 FM was paired with Cairy Norman, First Alternate State Dairy Princess. Appropriately, their sandwich, "Pancho Villa's Big Frog" was given the "Milky Way Madness" award for its superb usage of cheese and other dairy products. The sandwich was made with Louis Rich Beef Steak Strips and had a zesty Mexican taste.

The "All-American Super Hero" award, given to the sandwich with the best sandwich flavor, was presented to Jim Reith of WSYR-570 AM and beef producer Elaine Swiler.

They used Mosey's "Time for Dinner" corned beef to make a condiment-free sensation called the "Caped Crusader's Corned Beef Concoction."

Combining creativity and taste into one, Don Lark of WSTM — Channel 3 and Jerry Reed of the New York Farm Bureau took home the "Superman Super Name Hero." Their sandwich was made with Lloyd's Barbecue Sloppy Joe and was titled "Rosie's Red Hot Request."

Finally, Rick Gary and Christy Casciano of WIXT — Channel 9 worked very closely with the New York beef Industry Council's Chairman, Daryl Heisey. They were awarded the "Ultimate Beef Hero" for their Hormel Prime Rib and Catelli Bros. Veal Bacon sandwich. Appropriately it was called "The Beef Eater."

At the "Meals in Minutes" display in the dairy products building, state fairgoers were invited to taste the new fully-cooked products. Many fairgoers were anxious to try the products they've seen in their stores and were pleasantly surprised with the delicious taste.

Volunteers who handed out over 35,000 samples throughout the duration of the fair were recruited through the New York Beef Industry Council (NYBIC) Veal Grower's Association, the NY Cattle Women, and the American National Cattle Women. There were also a number of producers from various states across the country as well as five college-aged Beef Ambassadors.

"Patty Melt," the Beef Industry's Food Safety Mascot made her debut in New York at the State Fair. September is National Food Safety Month, and Patty was anxious to deliver her message about the 4 C's: Cool it, Clean it, Cook it, and Don't Cross-contaminate it."

Over 2,000 children met Patty and received hamburger erasers with food safety information cards. Their parents were given "Thermy" brochures and magnets with proper cooking temperatures.

For the third consecutive year, children and their parents were invited to take part in "Wow That Cow," an interactive display providing fun and educational information about the New York State Beef Industry. On hand were "real" Nebraska cowboys speaking to people about cattle and the environment.

In the Art and Home Center, the American National Cattle Women demonstrated easy cooking ideas using beef and veal products. While enjoying the air-conditioned environment, fairgoers were able to see just how easy cooking with beef can be.

Shana Mack And Dan Puzo Receive The Guy Wells Memorial Award

HARFORD, Md. — Guy Wells was born on a dairy farm and lived his entire life on that farm located near Montrose. Wells took pride in his dairy cows and in his memory, his family provided a framed Bonnie Mohr Red and White Cow print for the Red and White Youth Show exhibitor of the junior reserve champion and the senior reserve champion animals.

The junior champion was owned and exhibited by Shana Mack. Shana is the daughter of Dean and Jane Mack of Kingsley. Shana has been showing dairy animals for five years and is a member of the Born to Show 4-H Club. Shana is also a Susquehanna County Dairy Ambassador.

The senior champion was owned and exhibited by Dan Puzo. Dan is the son of Doug and Mary Puzo of Montrose. Dan's grandparents, Bill and Evie Goff, gave him his first Red and White calf when he was 3-years-old and he began showing dairy animals at the Harford Fair when he was 6-years-old. Dan has been a member of the Watrous Corners 4-H Club taking the dairy project for six years. He owns several other Red and White animals and intends to continue to show Red and White dairy animals in the future.

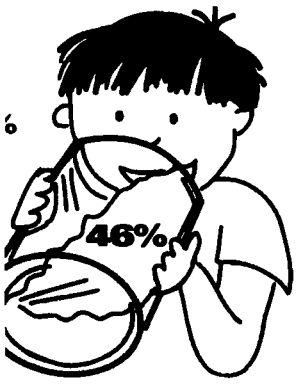
The Red and White Dairy Show was held for the first time at the Harford Fair this year.

The Guy Wells family hope entries will increase in the Harford Fair Red and White Youth Show in future years and the family plans to continue to present a memorial award each year at the Harford Fair.



Paul Wells presents the Red and White Dairy Show Award to Shana Mack.

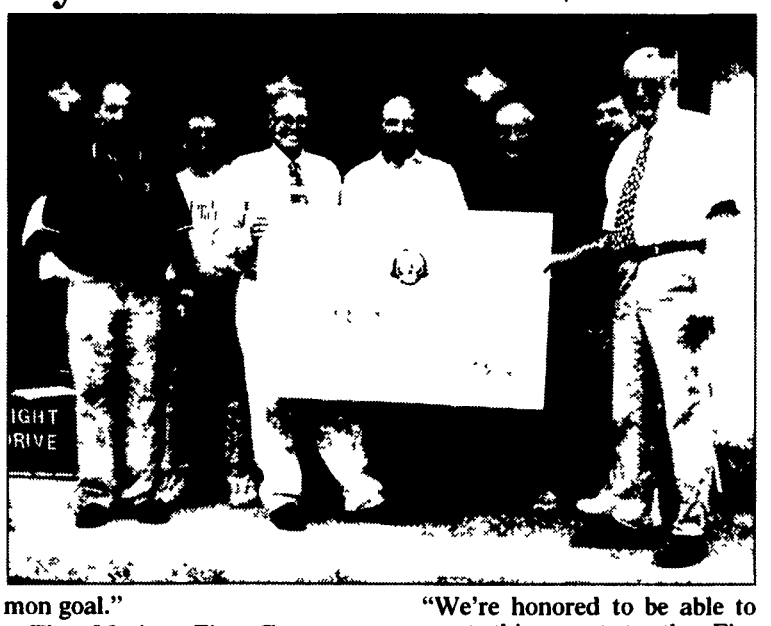
Marion Fire Company Receives Land O'Lakes Grant

MARION (Franklin Co.) — Area dairy farmers representing Land O'Lakes, Inc., presented the Marion township Fire Company with a $5,000 check at the fire company's recent annual firemen's festival. The $5,000 grant will be used to help build a new fire house to benefit the Franklin County community.

According to Ron Davis, vice president of the Marion Township Fire Company, the grant was very helpful in the building project. "Our fire company provides special equipment and training for farm accidents," he said. "It's great to see our organizations working toward a common goal."



Gabrielle Eichelberger, 5, finds a little something, "Jordan," to catch her interest in the dairy barn. Eichelberger's sister competed in the FFA horse show at the fair. The girls are the daughters of Chuck and Dawn Eichelberger, Millersville.

The Marion Fire Company has 220 members with 50 active volunteers. Celebrating its 50th anniversary, the Fire Company services a 1,300 square mile area, which includes Guilford and Hamilton Townships.

Dairy farmers presenting the check on behalf of Land O'Lakes included Ken Schoenberg, corporate director; Stanley Meyers, Unit delegate; Don Martin, Area delegate; and Paul Cashell, second alternate Unit delegate. Cashell is also the co-owner of Stuttler Farms, which provided the land to build the fire house and encouraged the Fire Company to apply for the grant.

"We're honored to be able to present this grant to the Fire Company," he Unit delegate Meyers said. "It provides a great service to local producers, and this is our opportunity to give something back."

The grant to Marion Fire Company is one of eight provided by Land O'Lakes through the Mid-Atlantic grant program, which was initiated this year. The program was created to benefit rural communities where Land O'Lakes owner-members and employees live and work. $31,000 in grant monies has been provided so far, benefiting civic and youth organizations in local communities.

Clean Farm Sprayers For Better Performance

COLUMBUS, Ohio — It may be fall, but it is still time to spring-clean farm sprayers. Now is a good time to make sure sprayers and other equipment used to apply pesticides are cleaned and ready for another season.

"Clean sprayers are key to proper pesticide management," said Joanne Kick-Raack, coordinator of the Pesticide Education Program, part of Ohio State University Extension.

Clean sprayers reduce potential crop injury from residual pesticides left in the sprayer, she said.

Keeping sprayers clean also keeps them in top condition as pesticide residues can corrode equipment and clog nozzles, said Kick-Raack. She recommends cleaning sprayers immediately after each use and at the end of the spraying season. Sprayers should first be flushed and rinsed, inside and out, with water to prevent the accumulation of pesticides.

In addition to the first rinse with water, the sprayer may need to be flushed with a cleaning agent because some herbicide residues can cling to plastic tanks. Kick-Raack recommends the following guidelines taken from "The Ohio State University Weed Control Guide for Ohio Field Crops:"

- Partially fill the tank with water and add household ammonia (one gallon per 100 gallons of water) or a commercial tank cleaner. Complete filling the tank with water, then flush the cleaning solution through the boom, hoses and nozzles.
- Completely fill the tank with water again and allow it to agitate for at least 15 minutes before flushing the boom, hoses and nozzles and draining the tank.
- Finally, completely fill the tank with water again and flush the tank, boom and hoses for five minutes.
- Nozzles and screens can be cleaned separately and bare metal parts should be stored over the winter in oil.

"Clean the equipment on a pad or impermeable surface so you can recover the rinse water, which is also called rinsate," said Kick-Raack.

The rinsate legally can be used if it is labeled for the intended application crop and the amount of pesticide in the final mix doesn't exceed label rates for that acreage, she said.

Ideally, a pesticide loading, mixing and cleaning area could be built to collect water runoff and avoid contamination, she said. Plans for building such an area are available from county offices of Ohio State University Extension. If a cleaning area is unavailable, it may be easier to manage rinsates by taking clean water to the field and cleaning empty equipment at the application site.

"Clean sprayers in an area where there is threat of runoff entering a waterway or well," Kick-Raack said.

Also avoid cleaning sprayers in the same field location multiple times. Over time, the surrounding area could become contaminated with pesticides.

"While cleaning the sprayer, be sure to wear personal protective clothing and equipment," Kick-Raack said. Cleaning still presents a risk of exposure to pesticides similar to other pesticide handling tasks. When cleaning a sprayer, wear the personal protective equipment the pesticide label requires for handling jobs, plus a chemical-resistant apron.

For more information about cleaning sprayers and other pesticide application procedures, guides are available at county offices of Ohio State University Extension. The weed control guide also is available on Extension's Ohioline website at http://ohioline.ag.ohiostate.edu/b789/index.html.

Pennfield Transfers Commodity Trading Division To Perdue Farms

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Pennfield Corporation and Perdue Farms, Inc. of Salisbury, Md. have reached an agreement to transfer the business of Pennfield's Ag Ingredients Group to Perdue Commodities.

According to Robert J. Buehler, senior vice president of Pennfield's Ag Products Division, Perdue assumed all commodity trading activities and obligations of Pennfield's Ag Ingredients Group Oct. 2.

"Perdue is a world leader in commodities trading and markets grains and feed ingredients throughout the United States, Canada, and Mexico," Buehler said. "Although Pennfield's Ag Ingredients Group has been a successful part of our company for the past three years, we recognize the benefits of it becoming part of a such a larger and established operation for our customers.

"This was a great opportunity for both Perdue and Pennfield," said Buehler. "Perdue can expand its commodities trading with our former customer base while Pennfield can concentrate on continuing to increase market share in all segments of the feed and livestock nutrition business."

Buehler also noted that Mark Jakiel, former manager of Pennfield's Ag Ingredients Group, has joined Perdue and will be headquartered in a new Lancaster based office.

All existing trading contracts with Pennfield's Ag Ingredients Group will be assumed by Perdue Commodities. Correspondence and communications should be directed to Linda Nicely, Perdue Commodities, P. O. Box 1537, Salisbury, MD 1802-1537.

Perdue Commodities is part of Perdue Farms' Grain and Oilseed Division.

Snow Push

Move snow two ways with this versatile snow removal tool.

#1 - Tackle the biggest parking lots and driveways Get very close to garage doors and in and out of tight spots Eliminates the need for hand cleanup or the need for another piece of equipment

#2 - The optional PULL KIT makes this product perfect for residential jobs Attaches easily and quickly giving you the ability to pull snow or other material away from buildings or doorways

#3 - Available in 6 5 ft , 7 5 ft 8 5 ft and 10 5 ft lengths

Clean up feed lot also!

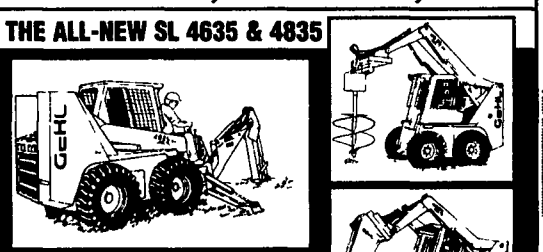
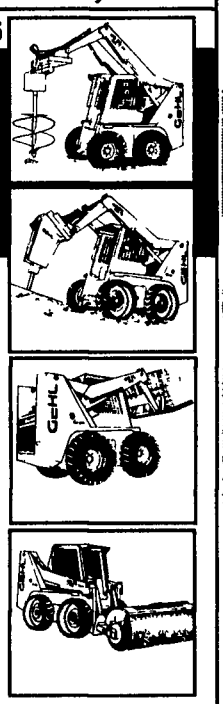
THE ALL-NEW SL 4635 & 4835



GEHL'S EXPANDED "35 SERIES"
Now More Versatile Than Ever!

Gehl's all-new "35 Series" line offers the most advanced design in skid loader history. Now with increased lift and unsurpassed visibility, plus more power, they handle a broad range of applications The line includes two new models – the SL 4635 and 4835. Highly maneuverable with exceptional stability, they get the job done in tight confines. Like all "35 Series" skid loaders, they offer built-in features for easy maintenance and user comfort Reliable and efficient, Gehl will match your skid loader needs



GEHL Construction Tough

Power Landscape Rake
The perfect tool for landscape contractors. With a unique rake action, these units collect rocks and surface debris, leaving soil in a loose, level condition. They remove rocks, sticks and metal from the ground surface, leaving you with several inches of loose, relatively debris-free soil Their unique action will also dethatch tired turf, leaving the surface ready to re-seed.

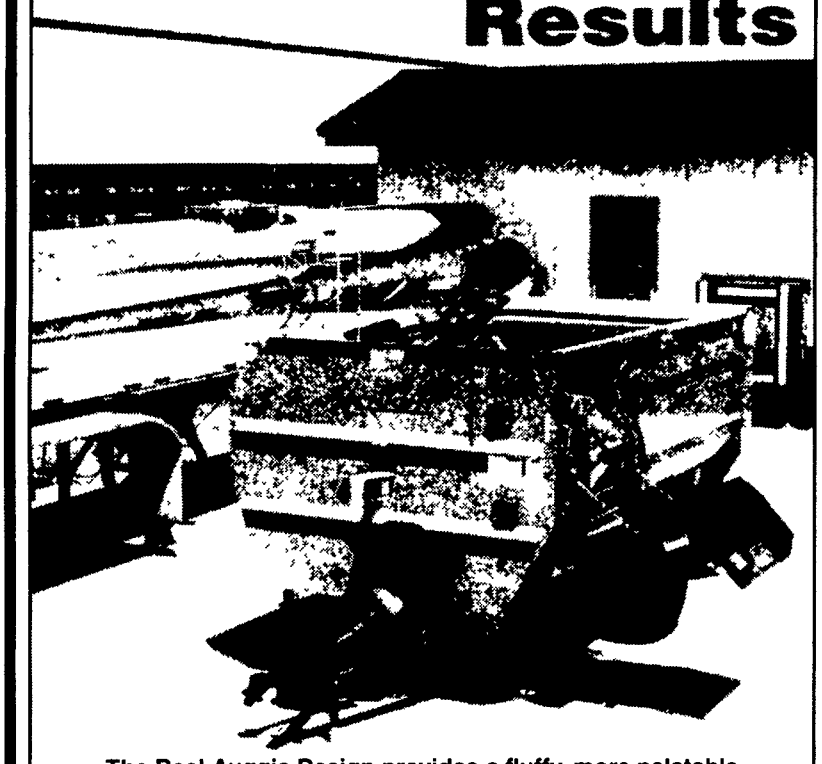
Reel Auggie = Results



The Reel Auggie Design provides a fluffy, more palatable ration that promotes feed consumption. When your cows consume more high quality feed, they'll produce more milk.

MORE MILK IN THE TANK, THAT'S THE BOTTOM LINE!

To see results, ask for a Reel demonstration from your local Knight dealer today.

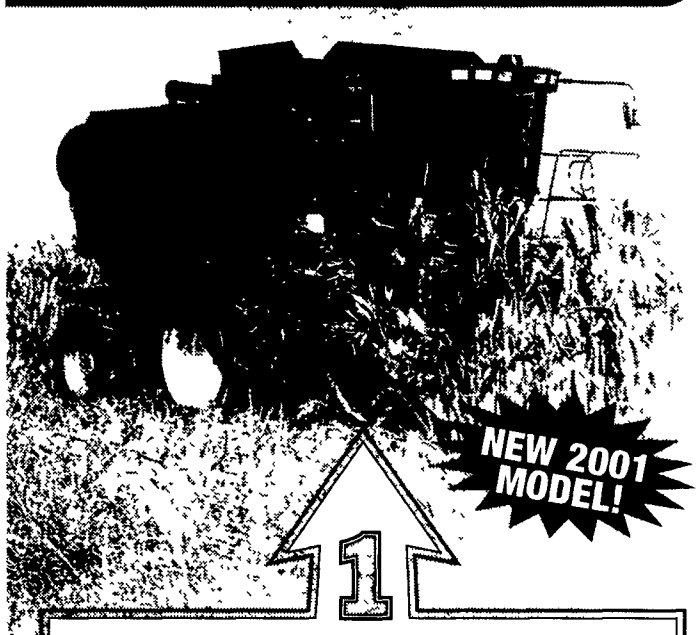
From Harvest To Tillage This

Still Simply the Best.



A Case-IH Rotary Axial-Flow Combine has only ONE moving part in it's entire threshing/separating process a single large-diameter rotor Open up the side shield on any other rotary combine and compare it to the drive mechanism, and you will see that the Case-IH rotary combine has fewer moving parts, which means fewer problems and easier adjustments Because the more moving parts there are, the greater your chance of breaking down

Introducing The New 2001 Model Axial Flow Combines
Making you even more productive with the following enhancements

Hydraulic Feeder Reverser
A new hydraulic feeder reverser, located on the left-hand side of the feeder jackshaft replaces the electric feeder reverser on previous models The reverser will deliver 50% more torque to the feeder driveshaft compared to the output of the electric reverser

Side Adjust Sieve Ready - All Models
The 2001 model combines will be ready to accept a future side adjust sieve feature This will be available as a Service Parts Kit

New View Door and Light
the 2001 models will have a new side-viewing door with a light for easier visibility of the chopper and chaffer sieves

12 Row Corn Head Capable
Factory options are available for the 2001 model 2388 to be capable of handling the size and weight of the 2200 series 12 row corn heads

New Fuel Tank
The 2001 Model 2388 combines will have a new 180 gallon fuel tank - a 46% increase in capacity over the 123 gallon tank on previous models

New Exit Lighting
This feature will enhance visibility when exiting the cab after dark This light will stay lit for 30 seconds allowing the operator to exit down the ladder safely

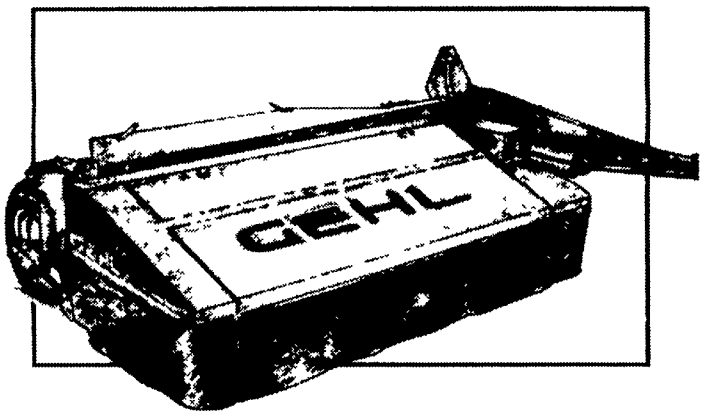
GEHL

YOUR LIVESTOCK IMPLEMENT LINE

2345/2365 DISC CONDITIONERS



Gehl has two all-new disc mower conditioners to cut your crop down to size, fast and easy, the DC2345 has 7 discs and a 9'2" cutting width; the DC2365 has 8 discs and a 10'3" cutting width. A Gehl disc mower conditioner delivers exceptional cutting and conditioning, even in your most difficult crops and conditions.

- Designed with the operator in mind
- Easy access all around
- An equal angle PTO
- Three-point flotation support
- Easily replaceable disc drive assemblies. Drive stations can be removed individually for quick servicing. Bearings are sealed in grease. The patented Protectadrive™ system protects the cutterbar gear train from damage in the event of disc contact with major field obstacles.

GET PRECISE APPLICATION CONTROL

New Holland side-delivery spreaders provide the most material control. Whether you're light top dressing, laying down a heavy layer, or anything in between, the Model 3110 puts the right amount of material right where you need it.

- Handles a wide variety of material – slurry, gutter material, cow manure, even poultry litter.
- V-tank design delivers material to the auger fast.
- Heavy-duty round-core auger produces less drag.
- Double-acting hydraulic cylinder moves auger up and down to keep material flowing.
- Hydraulic gate and specially designed expeller give precise application control.
- Backed by a 10-year warranty against tank rust-through.

See us for all your spreader needs.
New Holland Box Spreaders also in stock.

Tiller Attachment For Skid-Steer Loaders

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Model SS725 Preseeder tiller attachment for skid steer loaders gives contractors the ability to turn a rough grade into a finished seedbed.

The 72-inch wide rotor tills, levels, and rakes in one operation.

The attachment can be used while driving in forward or reverse. The finished seedbed virtually eliminates all the expensive hand work. This translates into huge labor savings.

Model SS725 Preseeder tiller attachment for skid steer loaders gives contractors the ability to turn a rough grade into a finished seedbed.

The hydraulic motor mounts directly on the rotor, eliminating the maintenance problems of sprockets, chain, and an oil bath. Model SS725 is for skid steer loaders with 13-18 gpm auxiliary hydraulic flow.

Great Plains' Five-Foot Drill Is Convenient, Field-Proven

SALINA, Kan. — Great Plains has expanded its line of small-acreage drills with the introduction of the 3P500.

This five-foot, three-point drill has many of the same key components as its larger cousins, making it perfect for those who need a highly dependable, low-maintenance drill for seeding in and around tight spaces.

The 3P500 is three-point mounted and outfitted with 00 series, straight-arm openers for seeding in conventional and min-tilled ground. Seeding is ground driven and can be adjusted easily through the speed change gearbox. Seeding depth can be quickly and precisely changed with an 18-position T-handle on each opener. This is the same opener and gearbox used on Great Plains' popular 12-, 15- and 20-foot three-point drills.

Whether farming small acreage, establishing wildlife habitat, or seeding grasses in a vineyard or orchard, operators will be using the same proven technology that has successfully seeded millions of acres each year. The 3P500 compliments the six-foot versions of the drill released by Great Plains in 1999.

Row spacing on the 3P500 is 6- or 7½-inches. An optional small-seeds attachment is available.

Sitz Angus Donates Pick Of Calf Crop To Foundation Sale

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Sitz Angus, Dillion, Mont., has donated the pick of their 2000 heifer calf crop to highlight the 2001 Angus Foundation heifer package.

The heifer package will sell at the 2001 National Western Stock Show, and proceeds from the sale of the package go directly to the Angus Foundation, which supports youth, education, and research.

The sale of the package will kick off the 2001 National Western Angus Bull Sale, Thursday, Jan. 11, at the National Western Stock Show in Denver, Colo. The package will sell at 2 p.m. in the Beef Palace Auction Arena.

"We are very excited to offer bidders the opportunity to pick a heifer calf from the Sitz herd," said James Fisher, director of junior activities for the American Angus Association. "The generosity of the Sitz family, along with the breeders who pull together to make this sale a success, is greatly appreciated, and allows for a substantial contribution to the Angus Foundation each year."

In addition to the heifer, the buyer receives 30 days of free insurance from American Live Stock Insurance Co., Geneva, Ill.; free transportation to the buyer's farm or ranch, provided by Lathrop Livestock Transportation, Dundee, Ill.; a flush and three embryo implants into the buyer's recipients from Trans Ova Genetics, Sioux Center, Iowa; and Ivomec provided by Merial.

For more information on the Angus Foundation heifer package, contact the American Angus Association's junior activities department at (816) 383-5100, any association regional manager, or visit the association's website at www.angus.org.

DuPont, ASA Team Up To Promote Excellence, Leadership Within Soybean Industry

SAINT LOUIS Mo.- The American Soybean Association (ASA) and DuPont Crop Protection are seeking nominees for the 2001 ASA/DuPont Young Leader program.

The Young Leader Program is recognized throughout the soybean industry for its longstanding tradition of identifying and cultivating excellent leaders who now play an integral role in the promotion of agriculture and the success of the soybean industry in the 21st Century.

The ASA/DuPont Young Leader Program targets soybean farmers who are innovative, assertive, "young in leadership," and looking to make their mark in agriculture.

Now in its 18th year, the program has a tremendous record of success. Hundreds of program alumni have assumed significant leadership responsibilities in state and national soybean association and promotion boards as well as national, regional, and state agricultural organizations, including Farm Bureau, NCGA, and more.

"Changes in agriculture are happening at such a rapid rate that farming today is different than just a year ago," said Tony Anderson, president of ASA. "While soybean producers face many challenges, they also have tremendous opportunity to contribute to the global economy. If we are to continue to be successful, we must seek out and nurture new leadership that will help guide agriculture into the new millennium. The ASA/DuPont Young Leader Program makes it possible for us to find the exceptional leaders who will work hard to keep our industry strong."

According to Rob Dittmer, ag relations manager, DuPont crop protection, "DuPont believes that agriculture needs strong, informed leadership at every level; locally, statewide, and nationally. This program helps identify farmers that go on to leadership positions in state and national trade associations. We are proud of the ASA/DuPont young leader tradition and are excited to once again be involved with the program."

The 2001 class of the ASA-DuPont young leaders and their spouses will participate in a challenging and educational leadership experience Feb. 21-24, in San Antonio, Texas. This four-day seminar will include leadership and issues training, and provide an opportunity for participants to meet and learn from other young leaders from around the country.

The class will also take part in the Commodity Classic, Feb 25-28, which will round out a full week of learning, networking, and personal growth. In late November 2001, participants will travel to St. Louis, Mo., to complete their training.

Nomination forms for the 2001 ASA-DuPont Young Leader Program are being mailed to all ASA members, and can also be requested by calling (800) 688-7692. Soybean producers are encouraged to apply or nominate another producer who would be an excellent candidate for the program. Nominations should be returned to ASA by Friday, Oct. 27, at which time they will be forwarded to the appropriate state soybean association. Each nominee will be asked to complete a one-page application form. One young leader will be selected from each of ASA's state affiliates.

Bunt Legislation Removes Cap On Farmland Preservation Easements

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Legislation that eliminates the cap on the amount of state money counties can spend to preserve farmland could enhance preservation efforts in Montgomery County and other counties in the southeast, according to Rep. Raymond Bunt Jr. (R-147), sponsor.

The bill, which was approved by the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee and now goes to the House floor for a vote on final passage, eliminates the cap of $10,000 per acre on the use of state farmland preservation money.

"With the high cost of land in Montgomery County and other counties in the eastern part of the state, the $10,000 cap really ties the hands of local preservation programs," Bunt said.

"In fact, a lot of important farmland is facing development pressure simply because the value of the land exceeds the per-acre cap, preventing it from being preserved through a perpetual easement. My legislation repeals the cap and provides counties with more flexibility."

Under the state's farmland preservation program, counties can use state and local funds to purchase easements to protect valuable farmland from development.

Each participating county receives a state allocation, and of those funds, up to $10,000 per acre can be used to preserve land. Any amount over the cap must be paid for with county funds.

State money is provided by 2 cents per pack of the cigarette tax, $20 million a year for five years from the Growing Greener initiative, and supplemental funding from the state budget.

Bunt stressed that the ability to spend more money per acre would not affect the amount of state funding Montgomery County or any other county would receive for farmland preservation.

Pioneer Hi-Bred Internet Site Brings Forage Buyers/Sellers Together

DES MOINES, Iowa — From drought conditions in the West and Southeast to excessive rainfall and long planting delays in the East, adverse weather conditions may lead to a serious shortage of feedstuffs for many livestock producers.

To help bring buyers and sellers of hay and forages together across North America, Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., has designed a new electronic bulletin board.

The Emergency Forage Connection bulletin board — located on the Internet at www.pioneer-.com/flash — offers both livestock and grain producers a free and easy way to communicate with one another during this critical time.

"The unusually wet weather in New York and New England this past spring and early summer had a significant impact on corn planting," said Kurt Ruppel, dairy production specialist with Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. "Now we're concerned that a hard frost will occur before the late-planted corn matures, which will reduce yields and the nutrient value of this year's crop."

Growing conditions in the southern Plains were just the opposite. "It's been extremely hot and dry, especially during August," said Brad Lance, Pioneer technical information manager for the company's Southern Plains Sales Area. "Livestock producers are likely to see a real shortfall in hay supplies.

Growers visiting the Web site can easily retrieve information about for-sale items or forages in need. They can submit their own free advertisements by completing a short form. A self-chosen password is required to complete, edit, or delete all ads. The site also offers helpful crop management information by Pioneer forage, beef and dairy specialists, as well as links to other pertinent forage sites.

"Livestock producers in many areas may desperately need quality silage and hay in the coming year for their livestock," said Ruppel. "We hope by offering this service that we can get grain and alfalfa farmers together with livestock producers so everyone benefits."

If you have questions about the Emergency Forage Connection bulletin board, contact your local provider of Pioneer products.

WE DELIVER

Everlast Roofing, Inc.
Metal Roofing & Siding

The Ultimate G-100 Process
"The Best"

1. Valspar 108 Finish Coat
2. Epoxy Primer
3. Zinc Phosphate Pretreatment
4. G 100 Zinc Coating
5. Full Hard Steel (80 000 min Yield)
6. Heat formed less paint cracks
7. Everlast II

NOTE! It is more important what is under the paint than what you see on top!

1 One of the best paints, superior acid rain, cracking resistance and color retention
2 Primer coat promotes outstanding top coat adhesion
3 Zinc phosphate pretreatment This is a very important process - if your current supplier cannot supply you with this or does not know, you should reconsider
4 G-100 Galvanized Most metal roofing has approx 40% less galvanized under the paint G-100 is more galvanized than most unpainted panels
5 Full Hard Anything less than full hard will bend easier, lower snow loads, etc
6 Heat formed Metal is painted before ribs are formed Most paint cracks at bends, heat forming greatly reduces cracks (check metal siding that is installed for 5-10 years)
7 Stronger design, superior strength, more metal per L F
8 Add Everything Together And Price Should Be $53 37 Per Square $1 69 Per L F

OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY
$46.74 PER SQUARE
$1.48 PER LINEAL FT.

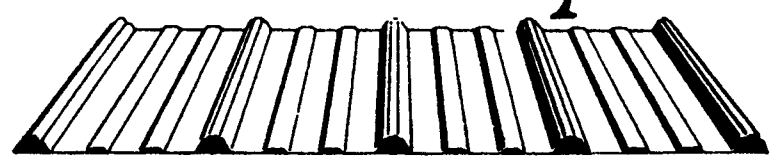
Rural Economy



Cost-efficient Centurydrain® roofing and siding is on some of the best looking buildings in the country.

Build with Centurydrain roofing and siding and you've built a money-wise structure. Full-hard, high tensile galvanized steel, and an exclusive drain channel for a dry interior give you a building that'll handle years of hard duty and hard weather. Good looking, too. Crisp lines and plenty of bright, long-lasting colors make Wheeling Centurydrain as handsome as it is economical.

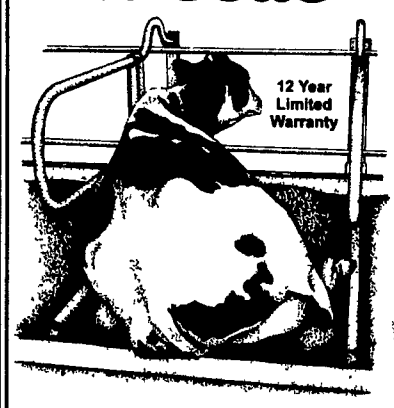
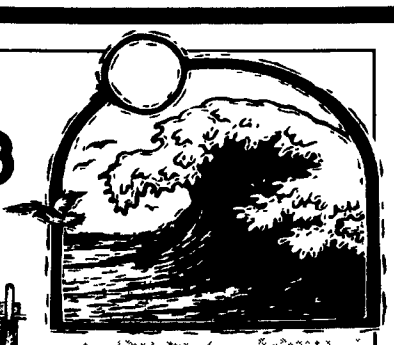
Waterbeds for Cows





The ALANTA Waterbed for cows is a revolutionary product, comfortable, safe and hygienic. It clearly improves your cows' well-being and therefore promotes higher milk production. It is the ultimate stall floor covering for the modern, animal-friendly dairy farm.

ALANTA®
A member of the LimPoly group of companies. Patent Pending

WELL MADE
The ALANTA Waterbed is made of two rubber layers with a water-filled compartment in between. GD-Enerka gives a 12-year guarantee.

COMFORTABLE
The waterbed molds itself to the cow's shape. It's cool in summer and pleasantly warm in winter.

SAFE
Thanks to the non-slip rubber upper surface, the cow is gripped firmly and cannot slip off. In this way the ALANTA waterbed keeps damage to hooves to a minimum.

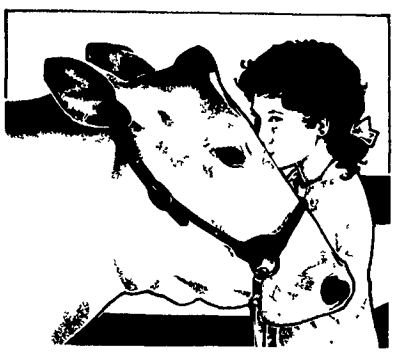
BEEF TIPS

What is an ideal club calf? (Part IV)



You should choose a calf that will reach about 1300 pounds at fair time. Simmental calves should reach this weight in about 12 to 14 months of age. If your fair is in August, the Simmental calf should be born about May, June, or early July, at the latest. Remember, breeds other than Simmental may take much longer to reach the target steer weight of 1300 pounds.

Four Ways We Deliver More...
#1 More By-pass, More Milk – Toasted Beans offer consistently higher by-pass protein cows need to make more milk
#2 More Production per Protein Unit – Toasting provides consistently superior protein release from every bean, without variations that can tie up amino acids
#3 More Rumen-Friendly Source – Toasting is gentle Digestibility is improved Energy (oil) is retained inside the bean to minimize impact on rumen environment
#4 More of the Taste Cows Love – Toasted is Tastier! Cows eat every bean

CUSTOM MIX PROGRAM

OPTIONS IN FEEDING

Your Dairy Herd

Call us today for a feeding program built to fit your Dairy Herd and your Production Goals.

For maximum performance and income over feed cost, rations should be balanced to provide the optimum levels of degradable and undegradable protein, nonstructural and structural (fiber) carbohydrate as well as minerals and vitamins. This allows for maximum utilization of the rumen microbes and total ration efficiency Because you needs may be different from your neighbor's, we adjust the following nutrients and ingredients to fit your needs and goals

- Amino Acids
- Protein
- By-Pass Protein
- Energy
- Fiber
- Calcium
- Phosphorus
- Salt
- Vitamins & Trace Minerals
- Organic Trace Minerals
- Multi-Protein Sources
- Added Animal Fat
- Rumen Inert Fats
- Buffers
- Yeast
- Zinpro

Salute To The Dairy Industry

IT PAYS ITS WAY when you FEED ROASTED SOYBEANS with 60-63% BY PASS PROTEIN

THE RESULTS WILL TELL YOU...
*Increase in butterfat - 2 to 6 tenths of 1%
*10% MORE milk on LESS feed

IMPROVEMENT IN HERD HEALTH... less mastitis problems • healthier calves and less aborting decrease in vet bills • better herd appearance

SWEETCAKE 16NU

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

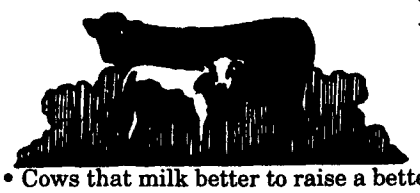
Sweetcake Advantages

- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy

- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients

For Beef



- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -

Are you looking for a good harvest after last year's drought?

Our John Deere 9600 4WD Contour Master combine with low engine/separator hours and large threshing and cleaning capacity will put more clean grain in the tank and leave less behind in the field. Chopper and chaff spreader will also distribute crop residue evenly allowing your soil to dry out and warm up faster in the spring which will allow you a head start next year.

Let me help Maximize your profit potential! Few combines can offer all of these features for 24 dollars per acre. Doing the job right. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Morrison's Cove (Blair Co.)
This dairy and hog operation has great potential and a golden opportunity for an ambitious farm family This farm is expandable and convertible to other uses We will offer it two ways but hurry there is interest in the land only so if you want to concentrate on just dairy, veal, or maybe even broilers rather than hogs. This is all easily workable and makes good farming economic sense The price is reduced to a farming operation value There is computerized feeding system and much more, so call me now for spring possession but contract needed this week Seller moving west to be with his sons.

New listing coming on Friday. Call me!!
